Amy McWhirter is a dynamic and engaging international Corporate and Trade Show Presenter, Moderator, MC and Host. Clients and audiences consistently appreciate her warmth, professionalism, credibility, flair for becoming part of the team, and ability to truly engage and empower people.

Audience members and company staff often mistake her for an actual employee of the company, assuming she's been proficient with the industry material for years.

Absorbing your company's products and services, Amy can master any script in any industry. She has a unique flair for transforming technical and medical information into easily understandable and relatable conversation, with the ability to improvise and think on her feet, adapting to the changing variables of a live event.

Amy is a partner to your company's team, working closely to ensure more qualified sales leads and maximum ROI!

Why hire a professional Presenter? An experienced presenter will...

1. Engage audiences consistently, drawing people in.
2. Increase qualified sales leads.
3. Transform technical concepts and scripts into relatable conversation.
4. Be an expert: audiences assume working for the company for years.
5. Represent your company, messaging, and brand with high energy.
6. Build your Brand as the face and voice of your company.
7. Artfully tailor tone and messaging to audience.
8. Personalize existing script or write from provided materials.
9. Free staff to answer questions and do demos for clients.
10. Provide booth staffing: presenters, speakers, narrators, moderators, crowd gatherers, demonstrators, brand ambassadors.
11. Be credible!

What some satisfied clients are saying:

"Several times a day our own employees asked me if we hired someone new because she was that believable. If you didn't know firsthand she was a professional speaker you would think she is visiting our customers and talking about our technology on a daily basis."

- Renee Etiopio, Corporate Marketing Manager | INX

"Simply Amazing! That is how I would describe Amy. She is the most professional and fantastic presenter. Her stage presence, her ability to hit the message consistently on target every time, her ability to absorb and learn the technology, and her skills in making script change recommendations for the best message, makes her absolutely unique. I have worked with Amy in two different companies now, and over a number of years. I would highly highly recommend Amy, as I have yet to meet or see any other presenter that is even close to what Amy delivers. "

- Yama Habibzai, Chief Marketing Officer | ScienceLogic

"When it comes to professional, attention-grabbing and consistent presentations for any public venue, Amy is a must have! She has the perfect combination of energy and professionalism that instantly lends credibility to practically any presentation. You really brought my script to life and truly spoke to the audience."

- Mike Guillory, Manager WW Marketing Communications | Texas Instruments

"Amy is amazing to work with. Our company has worked with Amy for several years having her present highly technical medical equipment and software at multiple trade shows. She is a true professional. She was able to easily adjust to our last minute changes and provided excellent suggestions to make our presentations more impactful. Amy delivered multiple presentations numerous times during the day, perfectly every time. I would highly recommend Amy."
