THE FOURTH OF JULY IN SHOAL CREEK.
In consideration of the one hundredth anniversary of our nation's Independence, the people of Shoal Creek assembled at the Thornton Mansion to commemorate in an appropriate manner the 4th of July, 1876. The day on which our forefathers met, one hundred years ago in Independence Hall, to declare the freedom of the American people from all allegiance to foreign powers.
On motion of the Hon. Joseph Roe Mr. Bob Green was called to the chair, and in a very forcible manner stated the object of the meeting, after which the Rev. Mr. Coulter offered a fervent prayer in behalf of our nation. The chairman then read the 35th Psalm which was read at the "Declaration of Independence" on the 4th of July, 1776. It was then moved that Mr. Randy George should read the "Declaration of Independence," which he did in that finished and eloquent style peculiar to the gentleman. Prof. A. J. Emerson was then called to the stand, and in a thrilling, patriotic effort addressed the assembly for a short time with much feeling and eloquence.
After repeated calls for James Tacket Honorable gentleman came forward and in beautiful language and sentiment did credit to himself and country in a short speech.
Several other gentlemen were called upon but refused to respond, except for Bad Betty who spoke up and enthusiastically of the future of our country. After which the meeting adjourned.
Mr. I. P. Freely, Chairman.
D. HUGHES, Sec'y.

INDIAN FIGHT.
CHEYENNE, June 25.—As intimated in the last dispatch, Crook's command left camp on the morning of the 16th inst., with four days' rations, and struck across to the Rosebud branch of the Yellowstone, in Montana. Following down this creek the next morning about five miles down, the Snake and Crow scouts brought word from the front that the Sioux were in force in the hills, and by half-past eight o'clock the command was in position and an extensive fire inaugurated along the bluffs to the north of the creek, the enemy, who had begun the attack, showing thereby their confidence in their ability to whip the command, retiring as the soldiers and allies advanced. The Sioux were all well mounted, well armed and swarmed in numbers, and at times were prodigal in the use of ammunition. The fight lasted four hours, when the enemy retired out of sight at every point.
The casualties are as follows: Third cavalry, company F. Sergeant Marshall and private Roe, killed; privates Broderick and Feathersby, wounded; company I, Privates Allen and Flynn, killed; Sergeant Enoch, Corporal Cortz, Privates Smith, Stewart, O'Brien and Lessey Beskik, wounded; Company L, Sergeant Newkirk, Privates Bennett, Potts Connors and Mitchell, killed. Sergeants Cook, Edwards, Snow and Cramer, wounded; Second cavalry, Capt. Henry, killed; Company D, Sergt. O'Donnell, wounded; company B, private Steiner wounded. The latter are all likely to recover. One Snake scout was killed and three wounded and four Crows wounded.
The dead bodies of 13 Sioux were found on the field. It is certain that a number were killed with usual proportion of wounded.
Gen. Crook's horse was shot under him. The fight occurred fifty miles from the wagons and pack trains and owing to a want of rations and that the wounded might be cared for it was necessary to return.
The officers and soldiers all displayed marked gallantry. The nature of the grounds making it advantageous. Gen. Crook has ordered five companies to join him at once, the cavalry in the meantime continuing operations on the plain and in the hills should no definite information of villages be obtained.— There is one month's supply of rations in the camp.

The Crows have returned home, but the snakes will remain. The rich game country of the Big Horn affords an ample commissary department of the Sioux.

"CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION."
The feeling displayed by the people of Liberty on the 4th of July was such as has not been seen before in our town for many years. There seemed to predominate a happy forgetfulness of all sectional feeling and political differences. The flag of our country floated in the breeze from nearly every store and the wagons and teams in the street were decorated with stars and stripes and every one old and young, seemed to feel that this is our country, "The land of the free and the home of the brave."

In the evening the "the young America" of our city assembled at the sound of drums in the hands of Messrs. Nelson and Hamilton and were marshaled into life by Capt. W. M. Burris, who marched them through the streets, saluted at every corner by joyous shouts and patriotic cheers; they were then halted on the West side, where they were addressed by several gentlemen in a becoming and earnest manner and the youth were made to feel that "our country stands with outstretched hands appealing to her boys; from them must flow her weal or woe, her anguish or her joys. The boys were then refreshed with lemonade and disbanded with a conception of American independence which they will never forget, though they should live to celebrate the next centennial. After the sun went down the beat of the drum was again heard and "Old America" began to fall in line under the marshalship of Capt. J. H. Lloyd, who, after marching them around the square, amid deafening cheers, they were drawn up on the west side of the court house for refreshments in the way of eloquent and patriotic speeches from Dr. J. T. Marsh, J. M. Sandusky, D. C. Allen, Job South, John Stogdale, Mr. Bowman, Phil Green, Judge Lane, Dr. E. H. Miller, Wm. M. Burris, Dan Hughes, M. Goldman and J. M. Jones. Each speaker on taking the stand was greeted with a round of three cheers, and spoke with the star spangled banner waving over their heads; and the old flag was frequently alluded to with thrilling eloquence in telling the story of Freedom, bought so dearly by the heroes of an hundred years ago, and when the crowd dispersed, we felt that in order to perpetuate a Republican form of government, we must celebrate the day on which our national independence was declared.

ANOTHER DARING TRAIN ROBBERY.
The train which leaves Kansas City at 5 o'clock each evening, left on time on Friday. It passed on its way without incident worth mention until it reached the Quinno River, in Pettis county. It appears that the Mo. Pacific is putting in a new bridge at the crossing of the Missouri Pacific Road over this stream, and keep a watchman there for the purpose of flagging all passenger trains. On Friday evening as the express train was nearing the station the watchman signaled her, which of course created in the mind of the engineer no strange or uneasy sensation.

When the train had come to a full stop there appeared twelve masked men with revolvers in hand. They had forced the watchman to signal the train for the purpose of robbing the United States Express, which they succeeded in doing in a very satisfactory way to themselves, if not to the express companies.
As soon as the train was stopped they took possession of the engine.— Mr. Strainthorpe, the engineer, was commanded to do just as they (the robbers) desired, all of which he did by staying at his post.
The robbers went into the express car and found the United States Express safe locked up, also the Adams

THE TRAIN ROBBERIES. St. Louis, August 8.—The Times has a special from Sedalia which says Hobbs Kerry, the train robber, was brought there from Booneville to-day, and upon positive assurances of entire immunity, made a confession regarding the robbery of the train near Otterville. He said those engaged in the affair were Del Wilber, Frank and Jesse James, Cole and Bud Younger, Charles Pitts, Wm. Rhadwell, and himself. He said Miller received the jewelry that was stolen, but the dispatch does not state how the remainder of the money or property was divided. He offered to guide officers to the place, eighteen miles south of Sedalia, where they buried the papers taken from the safes, and at last accounts he and officers had started on the search. He also confessed to other robberies committed by this party, and said that Del Miller was the assassin in the robbery of the Huntington, W. Va., Bank, and the El Paso stage coach, and was present at the Gad's Hill, Mo., train robbery. The officers have information that the Younger brothers were in Clay co., Mo., Wednesday, and that Rhadwell and Pitts were arrested in Southern Kansas, as previously reported. They do not expect to capture the Younger and James brothers alive.

A special dispatch to the Republican yesterday from Sedalia gives from a reliable source, the names of the late train robbers as follows: Cole Younger, Bob Younger, Frank James, Jesse James, Clem Miller, Charles Pitts, Bill Chadwell and Hobbs Kerry.

GREAT BATTLE WITH THE INDIANS. GEN. CUSTER, FIFTEEN OFFICERS AND EVERY MAN OF FIVE COMPANIES KILLED.

THE ATTACK. SALT LAKE, UTAH, July 6.—Advices from Bosman, Montana, July 3, 7 p. m., state that Mr. Taylor, bearer of dispatches from Little Horn to Fort Ellis, arrived this evening, and reports that a battle was fought on the 25th, thirty or forty miles below Little Horn. Custer attacked an Indian village of from 2,500 to 4,000 warriors on one side, and Col. Reno was to attack it on the other.—Three companies were placed on a hill as a reserve. Custer and fifteen officers and every man belonging to five companies were killed. Reno retreated under protection of the reserve. The whole number killed was 315. General Gibbon joined Reno and the Indians left the battle ground. It looked LIKE A SLAUGHTER-PEN, as it really was, being in a narrow ravine. The dead were much mutilated. The situation now looks serious: Gen. Terry arrived at Gibbon's camp on a steamboat, and crossed the command over and accompanied it to Custer, who knew it was coming before the fight occurred. Lieutenant Crittenden, son of Gen. Crittenden, was among the killed.

A correspondent of the Helena (Montana) Herald writes from Stillwater, Montana, July 2d, and says that Custer found an Indian camp of 2,000 lodges on the Little Horn, and immediately attacked. Custer took five companies and charged the thickest portion of the camp. Nothing is known of the operations of this detachment, only as TRACED BY THE DEAD. Major Reno commanded the other seven companies, and attacked the lower portion of the camp. The Indians poured in a murderous fire from all directions. The greater portion fought on horseback. Custer, his two brothers, nephew and brother-in-law were all killed, and not one of his detachment escaped: Two hundred and seven men were buried in one place, and the number killed is estimated at three hundred, with only thirty-one wounded.—The Indians surrounded Reno's command, and held them one day in the hills, cut off from water, until Gibbon's command came in sight, when they broke camp in the night and left. The Seventh

FOUGHT LIKE TIGERS and were overcome by mere brute force. The Indian loss cannot be estimated, as they bore off most of their killed. The remnant of the Seventh cavalry and Gibbon's command are returning to the mouth of the Little Horn, where a steamboat lies. The Indians got all the arms of the killed soldiers. There were seventeen commissioned officers killed. The whole Custer family died at the head of their column. The exact loss cannot be known, as both adjutants and sergeant-majors were killed. The Indian camp was from three to four miles long, and was twenty miles up the Little Horn from its mouth. The Indians actually pulled men off their horses in some instances.

HOW RECEIVED AT WASHINGTON. Washington, July 6.—The news of the death of Gen. Custer and the terrible disaster reported from the West, created profound sensation here, particularly in army circles. Up to noon there had been no official advices at the War Department. Generals Sherman and Sheridan are in Philadelphia.

OFFICERS KILLED. St. Louis, July 6.—A telegram from Gen. Ruggles, at St. Paul, to Captain Greenhale, commanding the cavalry at the arsenal here, gives the following as the names of the officers killed in the fight between the Sioux and Gen. Custer's command: Gen. Custer, Col. Custer, Col. Keogh, Col. Yates, Col. Cook, Lieutenants Smith, McIntosh, Calhoun, Hodgson, Reiley, Porter, and Sturgis. Lieut. Harrington is missing.

TERRIBLE TORNADO.—St. Louis, June 29.—A tornado passed over the northern part of this county, between three and four o'clock in the afternoon, and did a good deal of damage to out-houses, fences, trees, crops, &c. One edge of the storm struck the extreme northern part of the city, and made considerable racket among some of the houses, one of which was wrecked, and a little girl named O'Toolo was killed.

The Missouri City Brass Band furnished the picnic at Holt with delightful music yesterday.

Married, at Camden Point, on the 20th inst., by Rev. Mr. Clay, Mr. John W. Jack and Miss Lou Parrish, both of Platte county.
