

Atlanta Flames 1970's Butwin team jacket, size large.

This is a red nylon snap front jacket with screened team name and logo on the upper left breast. The jacket has a quilted lining and three color elastic trim around the neckline, cuffs and bottom. The metal snaps are painted yellow and there are two front slash pockets. This jacket was manufactured by Butwin and the tag inside matches those found in other Butwin jackets from the era. While I originally believed it was team issued to a player, coach or trainer, information developed places this as a souvenir jacket that was available for purchase at the Omni and at the Flames practice facility hockey shop. This jacket is in great condition for its age and was purchased on eBay from a seller in Montreal.
