Sweden native Daniel Tjärnqvist was drafted by the Florida Panthers in the fourth-round, 88th overall, in the 1995 NHL Entry Draft. After playing four years with Djurgården in Swedish Elite League, Tjärnqvist was acquired from the Panthers and spent three seasons with the Thrashers. In 218 games, he scored 10 goals with 43 assists and had a cumulative -46 plus/minus rating. His last season with Atlanta in 2003-04 was arguably his best NHL season. This dark blue JOFA model 690 helmet had the team's primary logo decal placed on each side of the helmet for both the '02-03 and '03-04 seasons. An Itech Aviator half shield is attached to the helmet. An NHL logo decal is located on the right rear and Tjärnqvist's number 36 is also found on the back. A few wisps of hair are still attached to the helmet padding. It was purchased from another collector.
