

Macon Trax Tom Wilson 2004-05 authentic jersey, size 56.

Toronto native Tom Wilson played three seasons of junior hockey before heading south to begin his professional hockey career. Starting in the Sunshine League, he moved to the Southern League before settling in with the Columbus Cottonmouths for three seasons beginning in 1996-97. Known for his fighting prowess, Wilson was a member of the 1997-98 CHL championship team. After one season in California, Wilson returned to the south with stints in Asheville, North Carolina and Pelham, Alabama before joining the Macon Trax in 2004. Following his year in Macon, Wilson settled in Columbus, working for the Columbus Fire Department and skating with the Snakes as needed when players were injured or on suspension. This red alternate jersey manufactured by OT Sports has the embroidered Trax alternate logo sewn on the front, two alternate logo patches sewn onto each shoulder and the sewn player nameplate with single color twill letters on the back. Player numbers are in two color sewn twill. I purchased the jersey with only the front logo from an eBay seller, who had acquired some dead stock from OT Sports. Over the years, I acquired the two shoulder patches from another source and added the numbers and nameplate myself according to team specifications.
