Who is my neighbor? (Luke 10:29) The specific command to love your neighbor as yourself appears only once in the Hebrew Bible: "Take no revenge and cherish no grudge against your own people. You shall love your neighbor as yourself." Perhaps Jesus meant something more, as Scripture says a few verses later: "Treat the alien who resides with you no differently than the natives born among you; you shall love the alien as yourself." That's the beauty of Jesus' parable. The victim in the story was a stranger, a man of unknown origin, lying bleeding in the no-man's land between Israel and Jericho. Should anyone have felt obligated to help him? According to Mosaic law, anyone who touched a corpse or a bloody body would become ritually impure. Didn't they owe it to their families to walk away? Jesus had one simple answer. "Go and do likewise." You might have to risk your comfort or your convenience. You might even risk rejection. But the man suffering before you is your neighbor. He is your brother, and he is worth saving. Jesus is the ultimate good Samaritan, and we are the victim on the side of the road. He risked everything to save us. And in doing so, he has become "neighbor" to all of us. May we go and do likewise.
