I think you that I am not like the rest of humanity. (Luke 18:11)
 Try to picture the scene. First, there is the Pharisee, a respected member of society, taking up "his position" in the Temple. Dramatically and carefully, he lifts his hands in prayer. A leather bob tied around his head containing Hebrew Scripture passages on parchment— is wider than most. The tassels of his prayer shawl are longer and more luxurious than most. He is a striking figure who looks superior to "the rest of humanity." Now picture the tax collector. He has no special prayer space. A well-paid member of the Roman bureaucracy, he is dressed neatly. His cheeks are stained with tears. He has come to the Temple for one reason. He has recently realized how corrupt he has become. A little extortion, fuzzy math, and he has become quite wealthy. But at what cost? He has defrauded people who can barely make ends meet! He has sent men to debtors' prison with no regard for their families. He sees it now, and he is deeply sorry. All he can say is, "O God, be merciful to me a sinner." The Pharisee, pleased with the perfection of his prayer, leaves just as he came in: convinced of his own righteousness and despising everyone else. But the tax collector leaves feeling free. With a lighter step and a brave smile on his face, he heads home. Tomorrow he will apologize to his neighbors and return their money. We each have a little of the Pharisee and a little of the tax collector in
