Today we celebrate the fulfillment of Isaiah's prophecy that God would shine his light on all the nations. That's certainly what happened to the Magi as they followed a star to the home of the newborn King of the Jews. But it seems that God's light led them somewhere they didn't expect. And that's often what light does. Think about it. Following their own religious traditions, the Magi believed that the appearance of a new star heralded the birth of a new king. But instead of leading them to a royal palace, the star ultimately led them to a humble home in Bethlehem. Receiving, leaning into, and seeking more light made them more open and able to receive even more light. That's how it works for us too. Think back to a time when you experienced some insight from God. Maybe some confusing aspect of your faith started to make some sense. Or you found clarity about a new phase of life you had entered into. Each step forward, each choice to be flexible, each response of trust made subtle or not-so-subtle changes in you. Light built on light, and slowly but surely, like the Magi, you started doing things differently. You started to see things as God does, in his light. And that's what the Epiphany is all about.

The Epiphany is revelation that changes our hearts.
