Sketch of the incident

On the night of July 13, 2005 a private TV channel showed a video footage taken from a CCTV camera placed on top of a tall building. The footage showed a hazy black mass of no definitive shape measuring about 3.5ft by 2.5 ft sliding or crawling swiftly on top of the roofs of several houses below. When it reached a drainage pipe of a 4-story building, it climbed upwards. The movement of this entity seemed to show that it was actually using its hands and legs to climb up the pipe. Upon reaching the top, it turned around and descended back down and then moved over the nearby roofs until it disappeared from the camera's view. The movement of the entity suggests that it was ape-like in nature. It climbed the pipe like an ape and walked or moved across the roofs on four "legs". Its movement however was much swifter than any monkey. The strange thing about the episode was that the view of all the buildings was well in focus and clear but the entity appears out of focus thus obscuring its true shape.
