The place of the sighting

I am not too sure if I have to share what I saw many years ago. Back in 1994 on my last year of working for a certain company in Calamba City, Laguna province (Philippines), me and some other ten or more people in our factory saw what could be described as 21 shiny objects 12 o'clock high at 2:30 pm on a hot summer day. The sky was clear and blue and it was me who first observed the phenomena being a "sky observer" myself ever since. Since our area was somewhat close to a parachute target area we all first assumed the "spots" in the sky were humans being trained to jump with chutes. But from 2:30 pm down to several hours up there we all concluded it must not be paratroopers since it was stuck in there approximately about 35,000 to 40,000 feet. I estimated this based on the flight patterns of jet planes passing by and surely they were no jets at all. The 21 "shiny" circular metallic objects up there where in a V-formation. It also crossed my mind whether they were stars but I doubted since from 2:30 till 5 pm they were still there while the world rotates and revolves!

Since I got tired looking up I went straight home and tried to shake it out of my head. I turned on the TV just in time for the 6 o'clock news and presto! It was on the news at the same time! Some people from Baguio City from the northern Philippines (about 8-10 hrs drive from here) were able to video it and even made zoomed focus. It truly was a craft or should I say an unidentified flying object. Am I surprised or what? No not at all. I have gazed the skies ever since I can remember and have seen countless times up there on starry nights extraordinary things that should be there in the sky. Some of them might be satellites but some, I'm sure, will truly be questionable. For instance, dots in the skies that would look like they are lights years apart and would "meet" and separate and seem to "meet" again like talking ants. It would be really arrogant to say that we are the only intelligent planet in this vast universe when, mathematically speaking based on the number of planets in our solar system alone for now, we know there is one planet that bears life and that is earth. How many solar system are there in our galaxy? How many galaxies are there in the entire universe? Those stars you see at night may or may not be stars but billions and trillions of other galaxies! I wish the Philippine government and its people would not follow suit with the US on sharing experiences and encounters with our alien friends. It is about time to think and have more open minds that we are not truly alone. Gone are the days of monsters and myths. A child nowadays can clearly distinguish between an airplane and a saucer without mistaking it with a witch on a broomstick or a tiyanak in the bush. Little green men, we come in peace.

The sighting took place on Ciudad de Calamba Road, Calamba, in the Jukaykay Atbp area.
