

Emma Teagle will showcase work at the Paintworks Autumn Art Market

RED, YELLOW, BLUE

St George's Bristol
Great George Street, Bristol.

September 2010 – August 2011
Jamaica Street Artists' eclectic group of illustrators return to St George's with the exhibition 'Red, Yellow, Blue'. This year-long revolving show will evolve with the venue's triannual programme, presenting a unique twist on each colour throughout the year. The three-part nature of this exhibition guarantees an unravelling year of surprises for new and returning visitors to St George's, creating a dynamic yet harmonious visual treat inspired by the grandeur of this atmospheric venue.

2 and 3 October

Art on the Hill, the Windmill Hill and Victoria Park Arts Trail extravaganza, is back for its fourth exciting year. This vibrant south Bristol artists' quarter will burst into life once again with a multitude of paintings, photographs, jewellery, mosaics, ceramics, sculptures, and installations. This year 80 artists will showcase their work and join forces to create some great attractions including: a pre-trail art auction, workshops, dance performances, poetry readings, and great music.

COLSTON HALL'S NEW EXHIBITION SPACE

The Glass Room

Colston Hall, Colston Street, Bristol.

Colston Hall is launching a new exhibition space this month in their £20 million foyer building and is looking for local artists to show their work in the gallery. The space, called The Glass Room, will have a grand opening on Friday 3 September with an exhibition of completely new work devised especially for the space by three Devon-based artists known collectively as On Show. The exhibition will run until Saturday 2 October. The space is being curated in partnership with Love Local, the organisation that runs the Made in Bristol regular craft and art fairs at Colston Hall. Any artists interested in exhibiting their work in the new space should contact Bryony Morgan on glassroomart@gmail.com
