

CONFIDENTIALITY STATEMENT
HIPAA COMPLIANCE
NOTICE OF PRIVACY PRACTICES

The HIPAA Privacy Rule mandates the protection and privacy of all health information. This rule specifically defines the authorized uses and disclosures of "individually-identifiable" health information. Information relating to a client's psychotherapy and psychiatric history, diagnosis, condition, treatment, or evaluation is considered individually identifiable health information.

The privacy of all psychotherapy records and other individually identifiable health/psychiatric information will be protected at all times. In full compliance with the law, confidentiality of health and personal information will be maintained at all times, and only disclosed with the express written consent of the client or his or her guardian.

Notice of Privacy Practices

This notice describes how medical information about you may be used and disclosed and how you can get access to this information. Please review it carefully.

The Health Insurance Portability & Accountability Act of 1996 ("HIPAA") is a federal law that requires all medical records and other individually identifiable health information used or disclosed by us in any form, whether electronic, on paper, or orally, are kept properly confidential. HIPAA gives you, the client, significant new rights to understand and control how your health information is used. HIPAA provides penalties for covered entities that misuse personal health information.

Each time you meet with your psychotherapist, a record is made which may contain your symptoms, diagnoses, treatment, a plan for future treatment, and billing-related information. This notice applies to all of the records of your care generated by Katherine M Newhouse, MFT.

Psychotherapist Responsibilities

Katherine M Newhouse, MFT is required by law to maintain the privacy of your health information and to provide you with a description of our legal duties and privacy practices regarding your health information. We are required to abide by the terms of this notice and notify you if we make changes to this notice, which may be at any time.

How a Provider May Use and Disclose Medical Information

Treatment: Providers may use and disclose medical information about you to provide, coordinate, and manage your treatment or services. We may disclose medical information about you to doctors, other therapists, or others who are involved in your treatment only with your written authorization. An example of this would be if you were referred to another treatment provider.

Payment: Providers may use and disclose medical information about you in order to obtain reimbursement for services, to confirm insurance coverage, for billing or collection activities, and for utilization review. An example of this would be sending a bill for your sessions to an insurance company.

Health Care Operations: Providers may use and disclose, as needed, your health information in order to support our business activities, including quality assessment, licensing, marketing, legal advice, and customer service. For example, we may call you by name in the waiting area when your psychotherapist is ready to see you.

Other Uses and Disclosures

Providers may, and in some cases must, use and disclose your health information in an emergency situation to prevent harm to yourself or others. An example would be legally mandated reporting of suspicion of abuse to children, elderly, dependent adult, or when a judge orders the release of information. Only the minimum amount of information relevant to your health care will be disclosed.

We may contact you to provide appointment reminders, or to offer information. Any other uses and disclosures will be made only with your written authorization. You may revoke such authorization in writing and we are required to honor and abide by that written request, except to the extent that we have already taken actions relying on your authorization.

“This information is required by the board of marital and family therapy which regulates all licensed marital and family therapists.”

Your Rights

You have the following rights with respect to your protected health information, which you can exercise by presenting a written request to the Privacy Officer:

The right to request restrictions on certain uses and disclosures of protected health information, including those related to disclosures to family members, close personal friends, or any other person identified by you. We are, however, not required to agree to a requested restriction. If we do agree to a restriction, we must abide by it unless you agree in writing to remove it.

The right to inspect and copy your protected health information.

The right to amend your protected health information.

The right to receive an accounting of disclosures of protected health information.

The right to obtain a paper copy of this notice from us upon request.

You have recourse if you feel that your privacy protections have been violated.

You have the right to file a written complaint with our office, or with the federal government at the address below, about violations of the provisions of this notice or the policies and procedures of our office. We will not retaliate against you for filing a complaint.
