

Dear Andrea,

I know you will be shocked that I have gone, but I am confident it is the correct decision for me and for all of you. Please do not be angry or sad. I will be at peace, which is important to me. People may say some things about your Dad and I, but I want you to know they are not true. I am just not strong enough to stay and fight. My fighting days are over.

Please do well in school and follow your dreams. You have so much to offer the world. Your greatest strength is your kind heart. You will need to reach deep inside yourself at this time to find the strength to be happy. But I want you to do this. Please follow your dreams and be happy. Happiness can be very fleeting, but it is important in life.

Please help Adam. His soul is sad right now. He needs your love, as will everyone in the family. You will be a source of strength for them all...even Dad..

I will always be watching over you.

I will love you forever,
