What to do with Albert?

Danielle Sèguin-Tètreault

A heartwarming comedy for fathers, daughters and lovers of tall tales.

Albert, eighty-something and a teller of tall tales, loves to amuse and entertain with his stories. When his daughter suggests that he move to a retirement home for seniors, he sets off on an adventure instead. This gentle comedy explores love, loss, father-daughter relationships and how to stay true to yourself, no matter how old you get.
