This article connects the families of Williams, Hendersons, and Keelings

Robert Henderson settled in New Kent Co. before 1650, about the same time as his brother, Alexander Henderson. They may also have had a brother William Henderson, who was also in New Kent Co. about 1650, according to land records. Robert Henderson had sons Thomas and James. James Henderson owned lands in Hanover Co. in 1715. Also in New Kent Co., Capt. George Keeling, a vestryman of St. Peter's Parish, married Ursula Fleming, and about 1676, their daughter Ursula Keeling, aged 15-16 at the time, married Thomas Henderson, son of Robert Henderson, the emigrant. Thomas Henderson was parish collector for St. Paul's Parish, and their neighbor.

Mary Keeling, sister of Ursula, married John Williams, who was either son or grandson of Humphrey Williams, who had been in New Kent Co. as early as 1638. Ursula Henderson was daughter of Thomas Henderson and Ursula Keeling, and sister of Richard Henderson of Hanover and Goochland, VA. Ursula Henderson married Daniel Williams (1710-1758) about 1730. Their daughter Marya (Maria), b. about 1732, married about 1753, Benjamin Goodman, who was b. about 1730, the son of Samuel Goodman of New Kent / Hanover, and grandson of Benjamin Goodman of St. Peter's Parish, New Kent Co. VA.
