

WISDOM JOURNAL

DAY 63

SUBJECT: BECOMING WISER

I love wisdom. I love receiving wisdom. As much as I know I realize I do not know enough. Realizing that I do not know enough increases my hunger to learn more. The wisdom I have attained thus far has gotten me to this point.

Unfortunately, what I know now is not enough to carry me for where I want to go. Everything valuable needs to be upgraded to RETAIN its value. After so many months a person needs to change the oil in their car if they want to avoid having mechanical problems.

Every so often a person should buy a new shirt to look presentable. The same concept applies to the Wisdom of God. As you enter new seasons you NEED NEW wisdom. As you establish new relationships you NEED NEW wisdom.

As you work in different environments you NEED NEW wisdom.

New wisdom enables you to stay relevant to new challenges, new perspectives, new work habits and a new generation. A wise person understands how the world constantly evolves and changes. Wise people understand the importance of staying relevant.

IF YOU STAY RELEVANT, YOU'LL STAY AHEAD.

I live by that mantra. What worked yesterday may frustrate you today. What profited you in the past may cause you to lose now. What gave you influence a while ago may cause you being disrespected today.

YOU NEED NEW WISDOM TO MANAGE NEW TIMES!

Proverbs 9:9 says, "Teach the wise, and they will become even wiser; teach good people, and they will learn even more."

Wise people STAY HUNGRY for more wisdom because they understand the power and significance of staying relevant. I encourage you to always pursue wisdom. Keep learning. Keep studying. Enough is never enough as it pertains to the Wisdom of God.

TAKEAWAY: Wise people become wiser because they never stop attaining wisdom.
