

The adventures of Liquidator Brunt and his loyal Nausicaan companion, Grunt! (Season 1)

Ps. Wanna be the editor or one of the writers of LB&G? sign up with Pirate King Persius!

Episode 2 (Dom-Jot): "Play Dom-Jot Hew-man?!" blurted a Nausicaan. A young star-fleet cadet turned around to see a gruff and surely Nausicaan with a patch over his eye, and a large tattoo on the side of his respiratory mask. "Back-off! Everyone knows Nausicaans cheat" The Nausicaan rammed a jagged blade on the table where the cadet was drinking, nearly piercing his arm. "Settle-Down Grunt!" said the Bajoran bartender. "Remember what happened last-time." The Bartender gestured towards Grunt's eye patch upon which Grunt released his grip and slunk back to the dark corner of the cantina. While Grunt was scheming over how to get back at the cadet he overheard some patrons talking. "Did you hear about that shuttle craft that landed in the hanger this morning?" asked one of the men. "Yeah, what about it?" returned the other. "There was plasma burns on the back of the ship! Do you suppose..." The man's statement was cut short when a Ferengi approached the table. He whispered something to the dockworkers and slipped something in his hand upon which the two men stood up and left quietly. Grunt watched as the Ferengi sat at the bar and ordered a blood wine. "So this Ferengi has money?" pondered Grunt. "Maybe I'll challenge him to a game of Dom-Jot."