REVERSE BIOMARKERS OF AGING

Throughout history, people in Asia known as Taoists searched for the secrets of longevity and immortality. They studied the human body, mind and spirit, which they called San Bao, or Three Treasures. By preserving the Three Treasures, Taoists believe they can achieve longevity and, possibly, find the door to immortality.

Many scientists, herbalists, nutritionists and physicians in the Western world are preoccupied with a similar search to slow the aging process and increase lifespan. It seems that almost daily a new youth cocktail rears its head on the already crowded anti-aging market. From drugs to designer nutrients, elixirs of youth to water fasts, we are a culture obsessed with aging — or, more accurately, with trying to avoid aging.

It is likely that as long as humans have roamed the earth, we have searched diligently to slow the effects of the aging process and find the secrets to a long and healthy life. While scientists concoct high-tech solutions in their test tubes and surgeons attempt to reduce the outward effects of aging, Mother Nature gently offers powerful anti-aging remedies in the form of phytochemicals and antioxidants found naturally in foods and herbs.

Reversing Human Aging

Reverse Aging Is Possible In Human Cell Lines Throughout time Legendary beauties like Empress Xiaocheng of China (c.32 – 1 BC) Cleopatra queen of Egypt (69 BC) and Poppea, wife of Roman Emperor Nero have used ancient formula to keep their youth and beauty. Passed along from the Ancient World, these secrets have been rediscover and reformulated with cutting-edge technology.

Almost all of us over the age of 40 (and in many cases over 30) begin to experience toxic imbalance. Over our lifetime, we are exposed to environmental and dietary toxins, which can contribute to premature aging. The Chinese mountainous region of Guizhou is famous for its sheer number of centenarians. After 10 years of research researchers have found that centenarians have delayed and even reverse aging using the ingredients we have in our Perfect 10 products. The ingredients in our products regulate two genes related to how we age. Most intriguing, our product is able to flip the switches on a few genes back to their youthful position. Effectively reversing the aging process. Perfect 10 can alter the physical structure of DNA without affecting the DNA sequence itself, effectively slowing and turning back the clock on aging. American scientists have found the natural products we have are the top 10 most effective anti-aging products in the world. Let's just hope that cosmetic surgery can keep up.
