

Bunnings Fund raising BBQ

Wow, monster effort by all involved.

Although the day started off cold and raining we conquered it with the warmth and humor that is associated with the members Psychkwondo.

With the expertise of a couple of Bunnings bar-by veterans we were up and running before we knew it. The onions cooked, the snags cooked all we needed were some customers. We started the barbeque before Bunnings had even opened.

While it seemed slow to start it actually didn't take too long before the word got out that the best sausage sandwiches Bunnings had ever had were hot off the grill. All of a sudden our guy's had a dilemma. Not enough sausages cooked, people were waiting OMG!, but did they leave? No! They were prepared to wait as the smell of BBQ and the sounds of satisfaction of those eating were too much to dare miss out on.

Two and a half hours into it and we were looking like running out of sausages and bread. Thirty kilo's (30kg's) of sausages, and ten kilos (10kg's) of sliced onions kindly donated by Jeff Laughton, Ann and Frank Bodziony and Nathan Gauci, forty (40) loaves of bread donated by Ann and Frank Bodziony. Our veterans stating that we were going extremely well as we had done in nearly three (3) hours what usually takes a day to get through – (typical of Psychkwondo people, high achievers).

With the thought that we may run out of food in mind with over 4 hours left and the clear instructions by Bunnings that we were in no way allowed to run short of food off to the shop for more supplies. Our top up of another ten (10) loaves of bread and an additional twelve kilo's(12kg's) of sausages were kindly donated by Sam Cali in addition to ice, coffee for all the Psychkwondo people and a donation of $57.00 in change for the float.

While we did have some crazy busy moments we did have some quite periods as well.

How did we do?

We got through:

410 sausages
44 loaves of bread
11kg's onion
2ltrs Tomato Sauce

1ltr BBQ Sauce
1 Bottle of Mustard
½ Bottle Chilli Sauce
and close to 100 Drinks

As always thanks to all involved. It was another fun filled day with a lot of laughs and a great atmosphere to be around. Thanks to the running around, picking things up, the storing of supplies and all the phone calls involved in making events like this a success.

There are a few photos of the day accessible from the photos page.

The clear profit at the end of the day was $936.65. Thank you all once again.
