

Soul'd Out

Lyric by Martin H. Samuel yes I'm soul-searching she's on my mind with a heart that is hurting must have been blind I wander these streets where we walked together but places we'd meet are stranger than ever now and I think of those days gone by ~ soul'd out and I can't help but wonder why how could something so right have to turn out so wrong why should something so good only last for so long

like a love left behind so was this heart of mine soul'd out tossing and turning time on my hands with a heart that is burning don't understand I sleep in this bed where we lay as lovers but things we once said she whispers to others now and I dream of those nights they're past ~ soul'd out and I can't help but have to ask

so was this heart of mine soul'd out ~ soul'd out ~ soul'd out

so was this heart of mine
so was this heart of mine soul'd out ~ soul'd out
