so we can prepare accordingly.

Greetings to the Saints of St. Mark,

My name is Steve Brown, and I am your new pastor. I hope this is the first of many newsletters I write for “The Witness.” I know you may know a little about me from things that might have been said by folks that have met me or snippets of information from things others have written about me. While everything that was written is probably true, things may be a little different in person than what you may have imagined. I probably seem taller, am much funnier, and am greatly more capable in print than I am in reality (I am, however, better looking than you think, although with less hair – I am sure it is related to raising three daughters). If you will try not to have your expectations too high, I will try to live as authentically and truly to who I am with the all the gifts and graces God has given me.

I am excited that I come to you July 2nd, the same time as the newsletter, to begin ministry together with you. I am excited that while you were waiting for me to arrive as your pastor, you have not been without ministers (and I don’t mean John). The Book of Discipline reminds us “every baptized member of the church is a minister.” So I come to pastor among you, not to you. I will lead with you, not for you. I try to be both intentional and invitational in my pastoring. By “intentional,” I mean that I’ve found that the best things happen through planning and by choice, cooperating with God rather than just wishing everything will just happen without effort. And by being “invitational,” I hope to always seek to include others in what we are doing. I will ask, and though folks may say “no,” I will keep asking (as well, as “seeking and knocking” like Jesus said for us to do). I look forward to seeing what we can do together for God’s glory and to bless one another and our community.

With Joy,
Steve

More information on Steve

I was born and raised in Virginia, graduated Wake Forest University in North Carolina, and married a South Carolina girl (but that’s in location – she went to Clemson). Once upon a time my wife Karen and I spent our time raising our three daughters – along with various cats, dogs, fish and dwarf hamsters (a story for another day). Slowly, as they grew up and left home, we’ve been adding males to the family to help me out. Our oldest daughter is married and living in Fort Mill with her husband and our two grandsons. Our younger daughters live in North Myrtle Beach and work in Myrtle Beach. As the youngest is engaged, the guys are about to pull ahead!

I have a Master in Education degree from USC (but don’t tell my wife) and a Master in Divinity degree from Duke. I enjoy all sports, reading, languages, music, and a host of other things in God’s wonderful creation. As I have just come to Greenwood and St. Mark, I’m looking forward to getting to know a lot of new people and learn a lot about this church. Maybe you’ll join me in this new adventure with God!

As I look back over the last several months at St. Mark, I see plenty of ups and downs, which are rather normal for any church moving through a transition time. I have spent a lot of time praying and looking forward to what lies ahead for St. Mark. I see a lot of opportunities for our church to grow and become the leaders of spiritual renewal in Greenwood. I know you are already asking how we are going to do that. I think first we must look at our priorities and vision for the future. Paul writes in Philippians chapter 3 that we must be about Christ, first, last, and everything in between, because everything else is just garbage. Just think for a moment how you prayed this Sunday in church when you said the Lord's Prayer. "Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. Your kingdom come, Your will be done." There is more said in those seventeen words than any of us can truly understand. The reality is that we as Christians should be focusing on Christ in every part of our lives, so that we are literally bringing the Kingdom of God to Greenwood. While we need to work on a clear vision for St. Mark that will come as we get to know

Pastor Steve, and he gets to know us, we as individuals can start making sure we are in tune with God and seeking to make Christ first in all our priorities.

The book of Acts and Paul's epistles reveal that Paul lived a life with many challenging circumstances and with difficult decisions to make. He had to choose between things he would do in life and ministry. He clearly made wise choices. He pursued matters that mattered. When options conflicted, he had the ability to choose well. Without a defining, central priority, there can be no way to choose in this complex life. Paul knew that Christ is what gave purpose to his life, and all his priorities grew out of that central focus. Priorities help us say yes and no to things that matter and things that don't matter. Even better yet, having a consuming priority redefines how we say yes and how we live to make that yes a reality. Paul said, "one thing I do: Forgetting what is behind and straining toward what is ahead, I press on toward the goal to win the prize for which God has called me..." Let us press on for Christ together, so that others might see Him and know Him.

How do we choose from the many different possibilities that lie before us? I want you to hear the words of Jeremiah and a few from Peter Drucker, an expert and author on leadership. Read the words from Jeremiah so we can have the proper understanding when we read Mr. Drucker's words.

Jeremiah 9: 23-24 "This is what the Lord says: Let not the wise boast of their wisdom or the strong boast of their strength or the rich boast of their riches, but let the one who boasts boast about this: that they have the understanding to know me, that I am the Lord, who exercises kindness, justice and righteousness on earth, for in these I delight, declares the Lord."

Mr. Drucker says, there are many different productive tasks before us each day, but only so much time, so we must choose what is best or most important. We must choose wisely as these choices impact the Kingdom. Drucker provides the following guidelines:

- Pick the future over the past.
- Focus on opportunities rather than problems
- Choose your own direction over following the crowd
- Aim high, for something that will make a difference, rather than something that is safe and easy.

I know when I look at the history of St. Mark there is a history of choosing well. A little over fifty years ago people stepped out on faith and started St. Mark. Then nine years ago, we stepped out again, and purchased the Rivers Street Campus of St. Mark. Just last year, we moved forward with the help of our South Carolina Methodist Conference, launching The Connection campus of St. Mark. All of those tasks were done with our main focus on Christ, looking at the future opportunities to make a difference, knowing there would be some hard days. Don't allow the ups and downs of these transitions and everyday life get you down. Focus on the main thing - Christ and His Kingdom striving together to make His name known.

Peace Pastor John

2017 South Carolina United Methodist Annual Conference

“It’s time for us to celebrate!” Bishop Jonathan Holston proclaimed to wild applause, kicking off Annual Conference 2017 with a Spirit-filled word on Pentecost Sunday, June 4 in his message, “A Double Dog Dare.” Holston urged the thousands of South Carolina United Methodists gathered at the TD Convention Center to walk boldly with Christ as they live out the Savior’s call. “When we walk by faith and not by sight the Spirit begins to work through us,” Holston preached, “When we cast aside the fears that hold us hostage...God works within us to make us the people we need and ought to be! Walking and living by faith means moving ahead with confidence even when you cannot see around the next corner.”

This year’s Annual Conference focused on the theme “We Walk By Faith, Not By Sight.”

By the time business ended June 7, the body had

- passed a $16.95 million ministry budget for 2018,
- ordained and commissioned 26 clergy,
- licensed 43 local pastors, including our own Rev. John Elmore,
- approved a new 6 tier health plan for clergy and lay employees,
- celebrated 3 major conference-wide mission efforts which included the disaster recovery effort , the Homeless Initiative and the Youth Bike Initiative,
- voted on 5 constitutional amendments to the constitution of the UMC passed by the General Conference 2016 and
- passed 6 resolutions

Annual Conference also featured a Bible Study by Dr. Alert Mosley, president-dean of Gammon Theological Seminary; an ordination service preached by Louisiana Resident Bishop Cynthia Fierro Harvey; a memorial service preached by Florence District Superintendent the Rev. John Hipp that remembered 36; a service honoring 35 retiring pastors representing a combined total of 770 years service; and a mission fair.

Nearly $40,000 was contributed in offering collections each night of conference: $14,189 to disaster response, $10,960 to seminary scholarships and $13,908 to Imagine No Malaria.

Annual Conference resolved this year to oppose human trafficking and help end suicide and homelessness among LGBTQ youth; to heal from the legacy of lynching; to stand against a Muslim ban’ to support, recognize and honor the service for law enforcement officers; to commend a formal apology from Trinity UMC to Centenary UMC over past racism; and to welcome the migrant. The Bishop ruled that a Resolution for Realignment of the SC Conference of the United Methodist Church and Its Disaffiliation from the Structures of the UMC could not be brought before the body for a vote. The Bishop said it was asking him to do something he believes is not in Unity with the Book of Discipline; therefore it was out of order.

Next year’s Annual Conference will be June 3-6, 2018 again at the TD Convention Center in Greenville. The plan presented for future sites includes a master rotation schedule. In 2019, the Conference will be held in Myrtle Beach for three years and then rotate to Florence for three years.

Annual Conference closed Wednesday afternoon with a Sending Forth Worship and Fixing of Appointments.
