

We Bleed

Take a deep breath and cross the threshold

Prepare for the blow waiting for you,

The unchained fear you can't withhold,

Singing all the lies you believe true.

Lashing out at the demons who feed,

Day by day bullies recite the phrase,

The vessel where fear and pain plant seeds,

Misery loves company that pays.

Step forward and be counted with the strong,

Rid this world of pain of ones confined,

Don't forget that there's nothing so wrong,

With the way you live life redefined.

This, a world so full of broken molds,

Holds no sympathy for cruelty spawn,

Never let this world break to the cold,

Let drop every dagger we've drawn

Shoulder to shoulder and heart to heart,

No more blood for bloodlust too well fed,

Strength in numbers with none set apart,
Weathered and strong alike, we bleed red.