Early Americana Highlights Munda's Annual Thanksgiving Event

Article & photos by Munda Auctions

It's been a tradition for 43 years now, Munda's annual auction held on Thanksgiving weekend. Bidders flocked to Munda Auctions at 1235 S. Adams Avenue in Freeport, Illinois to bid on fantastic pieces of early Americana. It was a great time and a great way for folks to get started on their Christmas shopping!

Out & About

There is plenty to keep you antiquers busy this weekend and in the upcoming weeks. Do not want to say "spring is in the air" yet. We did have some spring fever going on at times this past weekend with some nice refreshing air and sunshine. A few snowflakes here and there too. Hopefully everyone was able to get out and enjoy some antiquing activities. The girls are both back to college and now Brandon is off school for the week. Seems like Todd and I get ourselves a good system going when the girls are gone. Dishes, laundry, grocery shopping and cooking. Then, everyone comes home and it goes out the door. They leave to go back and I look around and we are right back at the beginning again. We have a good time together when they are home and that is what counts. We just had a lot of catching up to do. You don't realize how much you are constantly changing as you become empty nesters. Trying to find that groove, so to speak. Todd walked every night when he got home, while the girls were at college, I would walk afterward. We would cook dinner together, it worked for us. All our routines came to a stop, while the kids were home, but they kept theirs, eat, sleep, socialize, eat and sleep some more. You still get the text at noon "what's for dinner". They were always starving! So it seemed we were always cooking but there were never a lot of leftovers. Now that both girls and Noah have started cooking for themselves more at college, it seems they eat more when they come home at break. Haven't figured that one out yet.

16th Annual Starved Rock Native American Artifact Show

Article & Photos by Jeff Hipskind & Scott Carruthers

Are you interested in learning more about prehistoric and historic Native American artifacts? Are you interested in seeing artifact displays that rival well-known museums? If so, you will have the perfect opportunity at the 2019 Starved Rock Native American Artifact show on April 28, 2019. The show is open to the public starting at 8:00 a.m. and will wrap up at 3:00 p.m. Admission will be $2 for adults and kids 12 and under will get in free. Lunch will be available for purchase on site. The show is conveniently located just off Interstate 80 at the Celebrations 150 Hall, 740 US Rt. 6, LaSalle, Illinois, 61301.

While attending the show, you will be able to see artifacts from the earliest inhabitants of North America called Paleo-Indians up to items from the historic period. There will be displays of artifacts from at least 5 Midwestern states set up for your viewing pleasure. Included in those displays will be numerous stone arrowheads, spear points, axe heads, ornamental items, prehistoric copper artifacts, and pottery. Additionally, there are always several nice displays of historic beadwork,

Native American related artwork, and other trade-era items. There will be artifacts and art available for purchase from dealers and vendors.

If you are planning a weekend getaway to the LaSalle area, Archaeologist, Steve Boles will be presenting information about his current archaeological research projects on Saturday, April 27. The presentation will be held at the Holiday Inn Express in Peru, Illinois and will begin approximately 7:00 p.m. The Holiday Inn Express has graciously provided a reduced rate for show attendees and displayers. For more information, or to book a room for the show, please call the Holiday Inn Express at (815) 224-2500

Like the past shows, 2019 is shaping up to be another great show. Please plan on attending on Sunday, April 28. If you are traveling to the area and staying the night before, please join us at the Holiday Inn Express for the archaeological presentation. Stick around after the presentation for some camaraderie with a great group of archaeology and collector enthusiasts.

For general show information or requests, please call the show hosts, Scott Carruthers at (815) 252-1322 or Jeff Hipskind at (563) 357-2918

A Short History of Celluloid

Article & photos by David Meicher (Madison Button Club)

How are these three items related to the history of Celluloid?

- 1) An antique billiard ball
- 2) A Celluloid button
- 3) A ping-pong ball

A brief history lesson about Celluloid buttons will reveal the answers. Celluloid was invented in 1869 by the American inventor, John Wesley Hyatt. It was developed from the compound Cellulose, which is a combination of wood fiber and cotton fiber.

In 1862 the British inventor, Alexander Parkes, was given credit for inventing Cellulose — the first true plastic. He named it Parkesine. In those early years there was much chemical experimentation with Parkesine. They were looking for ways to stabilize and manipulate it so as to manufacture products for the ever-growing world market. Although treating it with nitric acid produced many uses for it, this method went by the wayside because it was still too unstable and very costly to manufacture.

Around the same time that all of this chemical experimentation was going on, an American company called Phelan and Collender in 1862 offered a prize of $10,000 to anyone that could invent a satisfactory substitute for Ivory. They used Ivory, which came primarily from elephant tusks, for the manufacturing of billiard balls. The game of Billiards was gaining in popularity at that time and elephant tusks were becoming increasingly scarce. The company that offered the $10,000 prize is still in business today and is known as the Brunswick Corporation.

The American inventor John Wesley Hyatt took up the challenge in 1862.

Hyatt, who had over 100 patents to his name, was determined to win the $10,000 prize. One day in the mid-1860's while working in his lab, he accidentally spilled a bottle of Colloidine on the Cellulose material that he was experimenting with. He found that it congealed his Cellulose into a tough, flexible mass. He decided to make a demo set of billiard balls with this new material. This new material worked to some extent, but it was still too unstable. It frequently caused small explosions when the billiard balls collided and the billiard balls would sometimes shatter because they had become too brittle.

So back to the laboratory he went. In 1868 he found a solution to these problems. He found that when Camphor, which is a by-product of the Laurel tree, was added to the raw Cellulose it caused the problems to disappear. He filed for a patent in 1869, and he named his new product, Celluloid. This product was the first thermoplastic: a substance molded under heat and pressure that would retain its shape when the heat and pressure were removed. He also won the $10,000 prize.

Buttons were not on the list of the many products that used Celluloid in their manufacturing processes in those early years. Combs, pins, umbrella handles, eyeglass frames, dentures, piano keys, photographic film, and billiard balls all preceded buttons. The use of Celluloid in button manufacturing did not start to appear until one or two decades later.

The earliest buttons that used Celluloid used it as a clear sheet to protect lithographs and for background and trim. Today, those earliest buttons that used Celluloid are called Victorian Celluloid buttons.

The first patent for the Celluloid tighttop button wasn't made until the year 1917. The tight-top Celluloid buttons were the most abundant type of Celluloid buttons made and thus, most Celluloid buttons are classified as Modern vs. Antique buttons. Celluloid buttons reached their peak in the late 1930's, but by the 1940's were being phased out and replaced by other plastic type material buttons.

Celluloid buttons reached their peak in the late 1930's, but by the 1940's were being phased out and replaced by other plastic type material buttons.

The main reason that Celluloid lost its luster was because of its high flammability and its degradation problems. The common degradation problem occurred because the Camphor worked its way out of the button. This degradation when combined with water or water vapor would form a nitric acid gas that is very corrosive to metal, fabric, paper, and other materials. Extreme heat and UV ray exposure also contributed to the problem. Those things caused the button, or buttons to become brittle and they would develop deep crazing. The buttons affected would completely crumble away in time.

What can you do if you see this type of damage to your buttons? The answer is nothing because there is no way to stop this degradation once it has begun. The buttons affected should be discarded and the remaining buttons should be given a light cleaning.

How can you prevent this from happening to your buttons? Celluloid buttons should be stored separately from your other buttons, particularly metals. They should be kept out of direct UV exposure and they should have proper ventilation and temperature controls. With the proper care most all of your Celluloid buttons will be around for many years to come.

After reading this short history on Celluloid, button collectors should have a deep appreciation for the antique billiard balls of the past because without them, Celluloid buttons would never have been invented, and thus, we would not have any to collect. Finally, do you know what the only Celluloid product now made in any quantity is? The answer is the ping-pong ball!

Early American Pattern Glass Society

... to foster and encourage the collection, appreciation, study, preservation, and documentation of early American pattern glassware, and its place in American life, past and present.

Our Mission:

The Society was founded in 1994 to foster and encourage the collection, appreciation, study, preservation and documentation of early American Pattern Glassware (EAPG), its makers, and its place in American life, past and present. We are a non-profit group of collectors and dealers sharing an interest in this beautiful American work.

Do you love old glass?

Would you like to make new friends who share your interests?

Are you fascinated by the people, animals, and/or plants pictured on Victorian Glass?

Are you a history buff interested in the glass made for fairs, events, organizations or political campaigns?

Have you wondered about the old glass that was in grandmother's cupboard?

Have you ever looked at this glass and wondered who, what, where, or why?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, you will want to join The Early American Pattern Glass Society.

Membership Benefits:

Four issue of the member's publication called the NewsJournal.

The NewsJournal contains articles on glass research, pattern identification, want ads and Society news

Invitations to be part of the annual meeting where you can meet other antique glass enthusiasts.

Regional meetings are held frequently providing another opportunity to build your network of glass contacts.

Both the regional and annual meetings offer education sessions to enhance your knowledge of pattern glass.

As a member you have controlled access to the "Member's Only" side of the website where you will find all the back issues of the NewsJournal, another dynamic research tool.

The "Member's Only" site will also provide you with an "up to the minute" membership directory which includes a members photo and his/her collecting interests.

The Society is the place where you can build lasting friendships with fellow collectors, researchers and dealers of early American pattern glass.

The History of The Old Reel Collectors Association

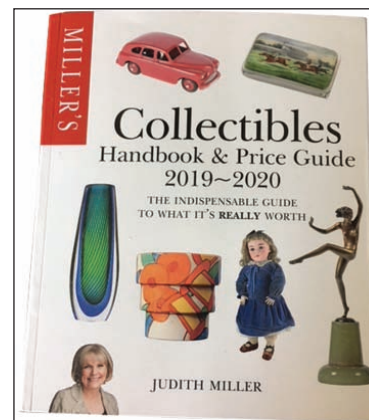

In 1989 Mike Nogay, a dedicated reel collector from West Virginia, decided that it was time for reel collectors to have their own organization. He thought up the name, had the club logo designed, and had ORCA incorporated as a non-profit, educational corporation in the state of West Virginia.

On October 9, 1990 a letter was mailed out to reel collectors that had expressed an interest in the formation of such a club. Finally in January 1991 the first Newsletter of the Old Reel Collectors Association, Inc. was mailed to the original 36 charter members.

From those first wobbly steps, ORCA has grown into an adventurous adolescent. As ORCA passed our tenth anniversary in 2000, we have reached our identity. ORCA's membership currently remains between 800 and 1000 dedicated members.

The original four page newsletter has now grown into a 32-36 page magazine, The Reel News. The first ORCA Convention was held in Pennsylvania in June, 1999. This event was a fully rounded Convention rather than just a tackle show. In 1998 ORCA was the first tackle collector's club to jump into the electronic age, with its own Web Site, and electronic data to help out our members who are on line.

ORCA is headed toward maturity with a full head of steam. There is no longer a question of whether ORCA is going to make it. We have made it, and we are now leading the field in collectible fishing tackle information. We'd love to have to you as part of our group. Visit our website: <http://orca-online.org>

MILLER'S COLLECTIBLES
Handbook & Price Guide 2019-2020
by Judith Miller
Publishing July 3, 2018

The Indispensable Guide to What It's REALLY Worth. The 25th edition of the world's best-selling collectibles handbook, including price guide Fully updated with all new listings, photos, pricing and special sections.

With every edition, more than 4,000 items are photographed to make MILLER'S COLLECTIBLES Handbook & Price Guide the most comprehensive, informative, colorful and up-to-date price guide on the market. Now, back for its 25th year, this year's guide includes sections on, ceramics, character collectibles, dolls, film and television memorabilia; 20th Century glass, pens, writing equipment; music boxes and gramophones; posters, rock, pop and sporting memorabilia; toys, games and teddys; vintage fashion and costume jewelry.

Special features teach you what those in the know look for- how to spot that rare example that may be worth twenty times another piece and how to value an item. Meanwhile, in-depth Closer Look features explain what to look for when appraising collectibles.

Not only is the antiques and collectibles market a unique and timeless one; but it takes on more significance in the 21st century as one of the few "green" industries. Combine this with a strong trend for creating unique interiors and MILLER'S COLLECTIBLES proves to be the collector's and decorator's ultimate guide and the ultimate ebay guide. Whether you're buying or selling on ebay, at dealers and shops, or at flea markets and garage sales, this is the book you need every year.

MILLER'S COLLECTIBLES Handbook & Price Guide is the only full color, fully illustrated collectibles price guide in the world.

"With up-to-date market information and prices, MILLER'S COLLECTIBLES remains the all-round source book to turn to." -Collect It.

Buttons, Buttons - Who's Got The Button?

By Shelby Weister

There are big buttons, little buttons and buttons of every shape, size and color you can imagine. Some were carved and made of pearl, bone ivory, leather or wood.

Do you have a button jar or a trunk full of buttons? I do. Why do we save buttons? Maybe it's because they are pretty and colorful. And you never know when you might need that certain button.

I have been collecting buttons for years. When I was a child, we pretended the buttons were money for our toy cash register. My grandchildren played with these buttons, too.

Some buttons are made of brass or sterling silver. Military uniforms have very ornamental buttons, which are highly collectible. Crafters use old buttons to make jewelry, trim purses and decorate clothing. There are button pins, bracelets and necklaces. Filling an old kerosene lamp with buttons is very colorful.

Old fur coats have beautiful large buttons. Some vintage clothing has painted or enameled or sparkling stone buttons. Buttons have been used throughout the centuries.

If you don't have a collection started, it's not too late to find a jar or box and begin to fill it with favorites. Happy collecting!

Folk Art Society of America

The Folk Art Society of America, founded in 1987, has become a dynamic, non-profit organization which advocates the discovery, study, documentation, preservation and exhibition of folk art, folk artists and folk art environments. Artists, educators, historians, writers, collectors, dealers, curators, museums, libraries and art enthusiasts from across the United States and around the world join together to share a common bond of interest in self-taught art and the unique individuals involved in its creation.

The home page of the FASA website at www.folkart.org is pleasing to the eye. Against a rich dark green background, it features a piece of folk art, the name of the Society and logo, how to contact the the Society and seven simple links: About the Society, how to join, the Society's magazine, Calendar of events, Annual conference, Catalog of books and links to other folk art sites.

Navigating the site couldn't be simpler and FASA seems to have all bases covered. The site certainly should give any first-time visitor a good feeling about the Folk Art Society of America.

THANK YOU FOR ANOTHER FANTASTIC YEAR... 2018 has produced over 170 individual auctions across Michigan and brought in collections, items and buyers from around the United States, Canada and the World to our auctions. From interesting and small events to $1,000,000 offerings of individual owner collections, we appreciate all of the interest and participation that everyone has placed in our auctions. We hope to see all of you, and are able to make new friends and business relationships, at our upcoming sales in 2019.

Many of you know us for our on-site and estate auctions, some for our large specialized sales of phonographs and music boxes, others have seen us selling antique automobiles, coin operated machines, gas engines... maybe you have attended our monthly firearm and military auctions, participated in our petroliana, advertising and country store auctions, or possibly you have been one of the bidders or even sellers in one of the specialized sales of Art Glass, Lamps, Pottery or auctions of antique furniture. Whatever, your involvement has been we want to thank you for working with us during this past year, and permitting our firm to continue to grow and carry on what was started 64 years ago, when William J. Stanton founded the business. Our firm has conducted over 7,500 individual auctions during this time and continue to market all types of quality items throughout the state and around the country...traveling from Coast to Coast working with sellers. If you have collections that you are interested in selling, contact us to discuss our complete service. Referrals available.

National Autumn Leaf Collectors Club

We love and collect the famous Autumn Leaf pattern, one of the most-popular vintage china patterns in America. The many and varied dinnerware pieces, produced by the Hall China Company, were sold door-to-door by Jewel Tea Company salesmen for many years. Numerous accessory pieces, including metal, paper, plastic, cloth and glass items were also offered.

These beautiful dishes were often the centerpiece of family dinners and bring back many wonderful memories of our mothers, grandmothers, aunts or neighbors. Special memories of helping Grandma make pudding in the custard cups, setting the table with Mom's "good dishes," or smelling the wonderful aroma of fresh coffee and tea that was delivered directly to our homes continue to remind us of many happy times with our loved ones.

The NALCC offers a full-color newsletter six times per year, special commemorative Autumn Leaf items, many options for adding to your own collection, an Autumn Leaf Price Guide, a popular National Convention with an Autumn Leaf/Jewel Tea Show & Sale, Autumn Leaf Auction and much fun and fellowship with collectors from across the United States. If you haven't already joined us, do it today!

We encourage you to become a member of the National Autumn Leaf Collectors Club®. Additionally, you may know someone who collects Autumn Leaf chinaware and wish to gift a NALCC membership for that person. Our annual membership fee is $30.00. We welcome and introduce our new members through our newsletter. Visit: <http://www.nalcc.org>

The American Bar Lip Decanter- Form and Function

By Bill Morrison

The cultural history of material objects can reflect events and industrial processes in unexpected and interesting ways. They were often created to cater to specific social trends or phenomena, became part of the fabric of everyday life, but then disappeared almost as quickly as they appeared, to be replaced in turn by improved versions and styles.

The bar lip decanter is one such object, and its history offers a fascinating glimpse of the social and economic development of America's first 100 years, as well as the evolution of glass manufacturing in this country. It appears that the bar lip decanter was an exclusively American form. While catalog illustrations confirm that they were manufactured elsewhere, foreign-made examples appear to have been specifically made for export to the US, as bar lip decanters do not appear to have been used elsewhere in the world.

The 1830s witnessed radical changes in the interior design of bars and saloons. The traditional layout had placed the keeper "behind bars," in a caged area with an opening to the taproom, to protect him and his inventory from unruly customers. However, as bars became more open, the ironwork disappeared and shelves were fitted to a wall behind the tender's back for displaying his range of liquors.

Bars and saloons continued to store large quantities of liquor in barrels, but a means was required to house liquor at the counter in a manner that helped project a suitably refined image. Pottery stoneware jugs were old fashioned and suffered practical disadvantages.

By 1845 new-style city bars had begun to resemble their modern descendants, fitted with elegant trappings and comfortable furniture, intended to attract more discerning customers than old-fashioned saloons.

Newspapers began to describe some as "drinking palaces," with long rows of decanters behind the bar. On the other hand, sleazy bars and saloons were referred to as "barrel shops" because they still poured directly from barrels, not decanters.

With most liquor during the period remaining colorless, sophisticated establishments would have required decanters of differing shapes, sizes and designs to assist the bar tender in identifying specific brands. Blown molded and engraved bar lip decanters first appeared between 1830-1840 to meet this specific need.

By the late 1850s the blown decanters were being replaced by pressed versions in numerous patterns and sizes.

The bar lip decanter enjoyed a heyday spanning just 45 years, between circa 1830-75, during which decanters in countless patterns, shapes and sizes, were being manufactured by dozens of American glass houses. Two factors, one technical, one sociological, combined to cause its ultimate demise.

The first technological advance was the development of lime-based glass, which was around sixty-percent cheaper to produce than lead-based equivalents. The increased workability of lime glass allowed more efficient manufacturing methods and encouraged the introduction of cheap, labeled bottles.

The associated cultural change was rapid "nationalization" of American drinking preferences. Soldiers who had traveled the country during the Civil War returned home having newly acquired tastes for particular brands that had previously been unknown in their hometown or state. The smoother and more flavorful liquors developed by some distillers, notably in the south and east, proved particularly popular. Early Times (1860) and Jack Daniels (1866) are only two of several brands established at the time of the civil war and reconstruction. Bar owners were quick to recognize the commercial potential that "added value" brands brought to their business, and the explosive expansion of the railroads provided the routes of national distribution.

Advances in bottle-making technology encouraged the manufacture and the distribution of new "branded bottles" embossed with the type of the liquor, or branded and decorated with logos identified with specific brands. The first "bar bottles" appeared in the McKee catalog of 1871, and within four years bar lip decanters had all but disappeared from glass catalogs.

Bitters-sized decanters survived longer as they were adapted for use as sauce bottles, with examples illustrated in catalogs into the early part of the 20th century.

54th North American Vintage Decoy & Sporting Collectibles Show Offers Antique Dealers and Pickers Non-Stop Buying Opportunities

Article & photos by Jeff Seregny
(Midwest Decoy Collectors Association)

The 54th North American Vintage Decoy & Sporting Collectibles Show, sponsored by the Midwest Decoy Collectors Association (MDCA), will be held at the Pheasant Run Resort near St. Charles, Illinois April 23-27, 2019. Starting on Tuesday with Room-to-Room trading throughout the resort property and ending with a tabled show in the Mega Center exhibit hall on Friday and Saturday, this annual event is the largest gathering of antique sporting collectibles anywhere in North America.

The Show is an antique picker's paradise! By the morning of Tuesday, April 23, collectors from all over North America will have begun descending upon Pheasant Run Resort and rooms will already be overflowing with every imaginable kind of sporting collectible. There will be duck decoys by the thousands, fishing lures, spearing decoys, traps, rods, reels, duck calls, paintings and prints, outboard motors, canoe paddles, stacks of wooden ammo boxes and items so unique there may be only a few in existence. With over 30,000 items for sale throughout the week, this is a unique opportunity to acquire enough inventory to last a year. In addition to sporting collectibles, dealers will find all kinds of antiques including stoneware, marbles, old toys, oyster tins, Inuit ivory carvings and Indian artifacts. You name it and you are likely to find it here.

There is simply not another event that compares to the experience at St. Charles in April. A full five days of events that offer something for everyone with an interest in great American folk art. Here's the week at a glance:

April 23 - 25: Room-to-Room Trading

April 25 and April 26: Guyette and Deeter Decoy Auction

April 26-27, Tabled Sales Event: Friday, 2-7pm & Saturday 9am-2pm;

Pheasant Run Resort Mega Center

-- Continuous Silent Auctions

-- Free identification and appraisal service

The Midwest Decoy Collectors Association is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to collect and preserve the history of the decoy as original American folk art. As the largest gathering of its kind, the North American Vintage Decoy and Sporting Collectibles Show is the premier opportunity for the novice, antique dealer or experienced collector to network and learn more about the decoy as functional folk art or to add to their collections. For more information, please visit midwestdecoy.org.
