Sci-Fi, Cartoons, Music, TV and More at the Chicago Pop Culture Con in November

Article & Photos by Michelle Goltz

And for those who remember the show "The Munsters" you could meet and talk with Butch Patrick who played "Eddie Munster". He shared some fun facts about the Munster cast: Did you know that Fred Gwynne "Herman Munster" was 7' tall in wardrobe and make up and without he was 6'6.5" tall. "The Munsters" was the most heavily merchandised television show ever. For more great Munster facts visit www.Munsters.com.

One vendor in attendance was David M. Taylor II who was born in Evanston, IL he is a Christian, a prophet, an International Best Selling author, a musician, an award winning songwriter, a Top Ten Music Producer and an award winning playwright. He also has a Be IN the comic (cameo) so check out "The Nephilim Wars" www.GoFundMe.com/the-nephilim-wars. Another talented artist, Maggie Kohnen a self-taught illustrator/cartoonist and cat enthusiast was sharing her talent by painting glasses and mugs of your favorite characters, logo, quotes, you name it she painted it by the end of the show!

Other great things that were on premise was CJ Raceway letting the public has some fun competing with motorized cars on the track, www.cjracerack.com for more fun and entertainment opportunities. They had live entertainment and tables full of games that you could challenge a friend or play with another enthusiast at the show. Lots of smiles as well as serious faces were seen at the game tables. This is definitely one show to put on the calendar for Nov. 30th & Dec. 1st 2019! Visit www.chicagopopculturecon.com

Article & Photos by Chupp Auctions

Crossing the block was a collection of over 300 toys including cast iron, pressed steel, Lionel, farm toys, windups and banks. There was also a collection of over 70 anvils. Salesman samples got a lot of attention from bidders with a Bradley's reaper sample bringing $10,000. Wagons and sleighs were another highlight of the sale, the prize of the auction being a John Deere goat wagon that rolled to over $18,000!

Advertising is always popular and there were some great signs in the sale including petroleum, far, tractor, country store, soda, feed & seed and more!

A John Deere advertising sign pulled in $7,000. There were country store cabinets, counters & showcases, farm & kitchen primitives, rare butter churns, collector saddles, gas pumps, firearms, Cincinnati church bells, a rare cast iron elephant lawn sprinkler, horse head child's barber chair, and a Pullman railroad prototype smoking stand.

The JAB Collection Auction- "For the Love of Engineering"

When you ask a car guy, why they collect the cars they have, they generally have a dedication to a Brand or a memory that the car triggers. For Jeff Begg, it was the Love of engineering. Growing up in Michigan with all those car manufactures, there was always a car event or race in the area. Growing up Jeff had many memories of fixing cars to race them later that night or just cruising for girls. It was all this automotive activity that triggered his love of engineering. He went to college for Engineering and graduated then started working for Parker Hannifin as an engineer in their hydraulics division

. In 1976, he left and started his own business in the basement of his Dad's veterinary clinic. His first product was a basic wooden battery box for Clark Forklifts. Jeff loved British motorcycles. He would say, "Anyone can have an Indian, but a British bike is special." "He saw them as an engineering marvel and in-turn honored his love of British & Unique bikes by naming the companies he started after them. Marshall Excelsior Company, was the name of his first company, after Excelsior Henderson motorcycles. The company grew forcing him to moved out of the basement into a Quonset building next to the river that he rented from the city of Marshall, Michigan. He started producing propane fittings and valves about the same time. The Quonset building was a good starting point but wasn't the best or prettiest location. Now Jeff wasn't one to back down from a fight and he was always at odds with the city of Marshall. They saw the building as an eyesore and wanted it gone, but Jeff wasn't going anywhere. Eventually, the only option the city had was to evict him and condemn the building. In exchange they sold him a lot in the Industrial Park for $1.00. In 1999, he built a new building for his business on that same lot. Now Jeff wasn't one to draw attention, and liked to fly under the radar, through some unusual twists he became known as John Begg in the Propane World, which happened to be his younger brother's name. He would be at Trade shows and his girlfriend would call him Jeff and nobody would know who that was. Not only did he get a kick out that, he was able to keep some anonymity. It wasn't till he sold the business in 2017, that he told his brother about the charade.

As the business grew, he acquired more product lines and businesses to better serve his customers. If you ever used a propane tank, one of his fittings, valves or regulators was probably on it. He acquired part of Lincoln Brass Works and named this company after another British Motorcycle- Matchless Valve Company. Jeff, was extremely competitive, and wanted always to be on the cutting edge. He found out a competing business in town had developed a machine to make similar fittings cheaper. Not backing down or settling for second place, he grabbed one of his engineers and marched into their plant, started taking notes till they were thrown out by security. If you met Jeff on the street, you'd never know he was a hugely successful business man. Most of the time, he was in tattered or stained clothes driving an old

Cadillac. He constantly surrounded himself with books and learning. His mind was going 50 different directions all the time. He had 1 daughter,

Megan, and to be better at "girl time", he would read gossip mags and learn what she liked. If she liked a particular film, he would learn about it then take her to see it. She was the love of his life and enjoyed spending time with her. It was crazy, this rough around the edges guy would bring her the perfect dress and know everything about it. He was so excited to learn that he was going to be a Grandpa, but sadly passed 1 month before the birth.

Jeff lost his wife, Barbara in 2003. She was a big eBay buyer so he had to close out her affairs. Little did he know this would be the start of a new love, the thrill of being the "winning bidder". Not even his family knew the extent of this affair while he was filling up buildings with all of his favorite things- Engineering and Speed. It was just too easy. He Typed in something he wanted and there it was. Soon Crates, Trucks, and boxes would come to the office. Penny, his secretary, was the only one that knew the breadth of his secret bidding obsession for a very long time.

eBay was more than a hobby for Jeff. It was exciting and he met people with similar interests. His nephew and business partner, Franco Domingo soon learned just how extensive the great collection had become after Jeff's passing.

Franco, started going through Jeff's affairs and found out, there was more to his love of engineering. They went into one of his properties and it was filled with Vintage Race

Cars, British motorcycles, Collector Cars, and an array of Rare

Speed parts. It was truly amazing. Nearly every property was packed with his collections. Franco with his wife Corinne, Jeff's son-in-law

Dustin Moon and a team of helpers, took on the task of moving it all to one location all the while finding more treasures daily. Yvette VanDerBrink, VanDerBrink Auctions was conducting an auction in Vicksburg, Michigan when they called for her to come over while in town. Yvette was amazed so they developed a plan to auction the entire collection. June 15th, 2019 in Springfield, Michigan, the entire world will be able to bid and buy a piece of the JAB Collection. So far, 63 British Motorcycles including a Rare 1952 Vincent Series C Rapide motorcycle. There is almost every make and model including the namesakes of his businesses- Matchless and Excelsior Henderson. Panther, Rudge Ulster, Triumph, Moto Guzzi, and more with many rare bikes. The collection hosts some note-worthy midget race cars. 38 in total including a 1947 Kurtis Kraft, the Lockard Badger II, and other race cars with notable drivers and builders. His love for racing has an enormous array of rare and unique racing parts for vintage cars. Including many Ford FH 4 cylinder and V8 motor parts including for 60hp FH V8's. Rare Riley Carbs and OHV Conversions for Ford 4 cylinders are everywhere. Offenhauser, Edelbrock, Rook, Eddie Meyer and more wonderful motors and parts.

The collection also has 70 collector vehicles from a 1957 Chevrolet Belair Convertible to a 1936 Ford 3 window Coupe, which he would take to car shows.

Then there is a plethora of unique import cars including 2 Marcos, TRV's, Maserati, and more. Several 1936 Pierce Arrows also grace this eclectic collection. Everything will be sold in 1 big day, June 15th, 2019 in Springfield, Michigan. The bidding will be No Reserve and On-Site with Online bidding. The JAB collection truly is an amazing collection of engineering marvels. You won't want to miss this auction.

National Milk Glass Collectors Society

The History of the National Milk Glass Collectors Society

In 1984, when a group of milk glass collectors answered an advertisement placed in several trade magazines by Walter Sill, a milk glass collector and entrepreneur from Nashville, Tennessee, history was made.

Regis and Mary Ferson of Pittsburgh, PA had already published a book, Yesterday's Milk Glass Today, in 1981. This sparked the interest of Walt Sill. In 1983, Walt conceived the idea of holding a convention where milk glass collectors could come together and talk and learn about opaque glassware. Walt contacted the Ferson's, who encouraged him in his pursuits, and agreed to come to this newly conceived convention.

Walt, not being sure if anyone else would be willing to travel to Nashville, pushed ahead. He placed ads and sat back and waited for responses. Just a few months after placing the ads, he had reservations from people representing ten states and a total of fifty people with paid reservations and expectations of seventy to one hundred attendees.

The agenda at this first convention is basically the same agenda that is still followed at today's conventions. There was a dealer setup area, exhibit of rare pieces, a trading area, a business meeting and an auction of three hundred pieces of milk glass. Enthusiasm ran high and there was a general agreement that the group should meet again the following year.

Conventions were held in 1985 in Pittsburgh, PA and again in 1986 back in Nashville. In 1987, the convention was held again in Nashville and at this convention the NATIONAL MILK GLASS COLLECTORS SOCIETY was officially organized. The following were elected to office: Jim Slater, President; George Storey, Vice President; Judy Reynolds, Secretary; Kathy Mroz, Treasurer. The first executive board members were: Helen Storey, Terry Baker (Simpson), Margaret Horsman, Stan Sohl, and James Reynolds serving as its Chairman. Mary Ferson, Regis Ferson, and Walter Sill were voted as Honorary Presidents (later modified to Honorary Members).

The NATIONAL MILK GLASS COLLECTORS SOCIETY is dedicated to the preservation, study, and enjoyment of milk glass including all periods and manufacturers, both domestic and foreign. The society promotes research projects, information exchange, and social activities to increase and enhance the knowledge and acquisition of milk glass by its members.

Our official publication, Opaque News, is issued four times a year, in March, June, September, and December. Each issue, averaging between 15-20 pages, contains notices about the society's activities, articles on the history, production, identification, and other concerns relating to milk glass. Listings and color photos of previously unlisted pieces are featured, as well as reports on auction sales, book reviews, and members' activities. Members are also welcome to place ads, free of charge, listing pieces they wish to sell or buy.

Above all, the society seeks to promote communication and good fellowship among its members in the United States and International.

Each year, the society sponsors a convention. The convention is held in various parts of the United States to allow members from different areas to attend. We seem to hit the eastern and middle states more as volunteers are always needed to host, and they seem to be coming from those states. We have been to Texas, Kansas, Ohio, Indiana, Tennessee and Pennsylvania just to name a few. The program includes prominent speakers, an auction of three hundred pieces of milk glass, and arrangements for dealers and individual members to sell, buy, and exchange pieces. Check our Convention page for the upcoming convention and to check out our previous conventions.

Membership entitles you to Opaque News, the society's newspaper, admission to the convention, and all the talk about milk glass you can stand. We have a library from which all members can check out resources by notifying the librarian.

Two of our members have published a book, called, The Milk Glass Book, by Frank Chiarenza and Jim Slater. The members of the society provided the items to be photographed for the book. It is currently available through the Schiffer Publishing Company and other book sale outlets.

The Society has access to original molds and produces a different commemorative covered animal dish each year. The Society owns several plungers that are used to stamp the Society logo and the date and place of the convention for the year the commemorative is pressed. These are then sold at the convention and can be purchased by members only.

If you wish to become a member of the society, please visit our Membership page for additional information at www.nmgcs.org.

American Cut Glass Association

The American Cut Glass Association is devoted to the study and research of American Brilliant Cut Glass. The Brilliant Period lasted from approximately 1876 to around 1914. The Association offers a number of member benefits including a newsletter published 10 times a year, an annual convention, regional chapters, and Brilliant Weekends - special events held by ACGA chapters.

The ACGA's website homepage consists of some cut glass illustrations, a welcoming statement, bulletin board and navigation menu. This menu, serving as a site map, does an excellent job of directing first time visitors to the various sections on the website.

Divided into five columns, there is a column of features on the American Cut Glass Association, itself, including their history, organization, code of ethics, endowment fund and gifts & Acquisitions fund. another column offers segments on member benefits while a third column features information and photos of examples of Brilliant Cut Glass. The fourth and fifth column comprise information on the ACGA Store and contact information.

This is a very functional club website and serves the ACGA well.

Small Town - Big Event

The Marbold Antique Show & Farm Fest

Article & Photos by Charlotte Wohler

The small town of Greenview, IL will host a big event on June 22 and 23, 2019, The Marbold Farmstead Antique Show and Farm Fest. The Marbold Farmstead sits just south of Greenview, alongside Route 29, 20 miles north of Springfield. The income from the fundraising event will provide funds for the 2019 Capital Campaign, "The Next Chapter," to help with restoration of the house. Restoration efforts are currently underway and feature repair/replacement of windows and doors, dormer work, chimney caps, tuck-pointing, electricity, plumbing and HVAC systems, at an approximate cost of $250,000.

The Marbold Farmstead was established by German immigrant, John H. Marbold in 1850. He grew his farm from 200 acres to over 4,000 with the help of his son, H. H. Marbold. Through their farming years, the farm went from horse and plow to steam engines and finally gas engines. The Marbold family utilized the latest technology of the industrial revolution. Using a boiler system, forced hot water heat was sent into the home through underground clay tiles. Electricity was installed in the home and throughout the property. An indoor bathroom was built to provide better sanitary conditions and a conservatory was added to provide plants and mood-altering stained-glass windows, a Victorian-age concept. The farm was self-sufficient, growing most all their food for themselves and their hired help. It was a farm revered by the community and county in central Illinois.

This is the seventh year for the antique show at the Marbold Farmstead. The farm fest was added two years ago, creating the Marbold Farmstead Antique Show & Farm Fest. With the addition of farm equipment and demonstrations guests get to see farm equipment and farming techniques from the past. A shingle maker, baler, gas engines and more give guests a look at how a farmer worked.

A variety of craftsmen, demonstrators, flea market merchants, antique dealers, historic programs, tours of the house and grounds, a trolley tour of the community, music, food and more will round out the fourth weekend in June event.
