Out & About

The Groundhog did not see his shadow! Expect an early spring this year. That means we can all expect to be doing our yard work earlier. Yeah me (not), because I didn't get much of mine done during the fall.

Valentines Day is just around the corner. Take that someone special on a date and stop by an antique show, shop or auction. Find them that special antique, they will be sure to treasure forever.

Everyone is preparing for the big storm. The gas station truck stop was packed full of parked semi trucks. My kids were excited that they actually got a snow day. Usually our school district is the one that seems to stay open. So, they were planning on sleeping in and laying in their pajamas all day. It was three less lunches I had to make and one afternoon question of "what's for dinner", that I will be avoiding because I will be staying in Shawano for the night.

Observation, the past few days, there have been three major semi trailer accidents in our local area, two with fatalities. Be sure to be observant of those semis, they will win everytime.

When Out and About this weekend, be sure to check out:

Kramer Auction Service December Firearms Auction Brings Strong Prices

Article & photos by Brian Maloney

Then straight out of a closet in the Chicago area came a NIB Model 71 Deluxe Winchester Rifle in 348 WCF. This rare find was shipped in for the auction & then shipped out to the tune of $4,300. An early Winchester 1866 SRC in 44 Rimfire had lots of miles in the saddle but still demanded $3,850. A Smith Civil War Carbine in nearly unissued condition shot to a mark of 3,600. Then a Rare 450 Nitro cased Double Rifle by G.E. Lewis stayed strong at $3,500. One Colt snake gun was offered at this auction & the King Cobra with original box was snapped up at $2,750. A scare US Harpers Ferry 1803 Flintlock military rifle was sent to California with a $2,300 price tag. Another early Flinter, this one a British Long Sea Service pistol sparked at $2,200. A Circa 1820 Eagle Head Sword made in England for the US market had lots of interest stemming from its rarity & condition. It cut to a price of $1,850 before getting shipped out to the East Coast. Top gun in the custom precision category was a Borenden Accuracy Target rifle in 308 cal. This odd looking fellow had followers at $3,200. A Huge Newhouse California Sesquicentennial #6 Bear Trap was fought over until $1,850 stopped the battle. Then a Pair of well used but rare early Colt SP1 AR15 rifles without the forward assist demanded $1,600 each. Some other great lots from Kramer's Sept Auction are also shown, one rare item of particular interest on that auction was an extremely rare German WWII Model 1942 Seitengewehr bayonet. This bayonet/ combo tool is one of the rarest & most interesting blades of WWII & demanded $2,300 before finding a new owner.

The annual Wisconsin Decoy and Sporting Collectibles Show will be held from March 11th thru March 14th at the Hilton Gardens Inn at 1355 W. 20th Avenue in Oshkosh, Wisconsin. Take the Highway 44 exit from Highway 41 and turn right on 20th St. to the hotel. The entire show is open to the public for room to room trading on Wednesday night, March 11th and all day and night Thursday and Friday, March 12th & 13th. On Saturday March 14th, the ballroom is set up with scores of collectors and dealers displaying their wares from 8:00 am to 2:30 pm.

Decoys are always the main event at this show but there are all types of sporting collectibles available for all collectors. Items such as duck and goose calls, hunting knives, traps, wildlife paintings and prints, shotshell boxes and cartridges, all types of vintage fishing tackle and a large selection of collectors books will be on hand.

Show chairman Roger Ludwig states that last year all the tables were sold out, but this year the table area will be expanded so hopefully nobody will be turned away. To be safe, get your table reservations in as soon as possible.

Admission is $5 and children under 16 are free. Display tables are $50, which includes admission for two.

The fascination with all things retro has really fueled interest in vintage jadite collectibles and kitchenware. To meet that demand Joe Keller and David Ross have released a revised and expanded fourth edition of the definitive guide to collecting Jadite: Jadite: Identification & Price Guide.

When Joe Keller and David Ross introduced the first book ever written dedicated to jadite, it was met with critical and popular enthusiasm. It was a tour de force! Now this fourth edition, there are over a thousand pieces illustrated in over 700 color photographs. Additional photographs and a reproduction section enhance the book, along with updated values to keep up with an ever-changing marketplace. Jadite: An Identification and Price Guide brings together the works of the three major glass companies that produced jadite from the 1930s to the mid-1970s: McKee, Jeannette, and Anchor Hocking. Exploring these perennially popular collectibles, the book includes numerous dinnerware patterns, all sorts of jadite kitchenware, canisters, shakers, mixing bowls, and ovenware, and jadite items for the home, such as lamps, bathroom items, and ashtrays. The authors have produced a book that will be an invaluable and welcome addition to collectors' libraries.

Appraisal Institute Releases Its 2014 “Trending Data” For Antiques & Collectibles

It's been almost three years since the Asheford Institute of Antiques, a professional-level, distance learning program on antiques, collectibles and appraising, released its inaugural report on buying and collecting trends within the antiques and collectibles community. But this year they're back with a new survey that's aimed at what the school calls, “the more relevant aspects” of the antiques marketplace, according to school spokesperson Tony Drew. “When originally released, our first survey was meant to merely gauge general areas of antique interest, but now that we've garnered some fairly extensive data over the past few years, we're finding that much of that information seems to be backing-up our initial discovery regarding the movement of certain antique trends within the marketplace,” said Drew.

The latest survey, which was compiled from enrolled students and former graduates of the Institute, was intended to focus on the current trends of antiques and collectibles, and was based on sales and buyer's requests for specific items. And while no measurable scientific practices were utilized, and the survey remained informal in nature, the results still proved quite illuminating, said school Deputy Director, Chris Hughes, “What we've really noticed, is that there continues to be an apparent shift in the marketplace - especially when it comes to the younger generation - categories that tended to gain traction and move up the list in a truly meaningful way, were almost invariably connected to younger buyers. Conversely, categories of antiques that seemed to be off the Internet's central radar, appeared to remain relatively neutral in their respective rankings, and any movement that did occur, was usually the result of older more established buyers.

The link between young and old was not lost on Don Kirpatrick, a 30-something dealer in the Northeast, who participated in the school's original survey, as well as the current one, and who agrees with the Institute's latest findings, “A few years ago I started sensing that younger buyers were interested in different periods, and so I began adjusting my buying - I dumped the heavy ornate Victorian stuff - and instead concentrated on Art Nouveau, Art Deco, and even some 50's kitsch, and it's really paid off.” says Kirpatrick. Staffers from the school also noted this sentiment, saying that many of the respondents from the latest survey had echoed these same thoughts, stating in essence that there had been a noticeable shift in overall buying preferences towards the “flashier” side of the Victorian spectrum. “It's just not my parents antique store any more,” said Julie Walsh, a dealer on the West coast, “I mean, I just can't sell what they sell... It simply doesn't resonate with my generation.” According to Shirley Huey, one of the staffers involved in completing the survey, younger dealers continued to have very different items and inventory when compared to older dealers. In fact, said Huey, “Not only were they vastly different when it came to inventory, but in their marketing approaches as well. It's a trend we're likely to continue to see,” added Huey.

School spokesperson, Tony Drew noted that while the latest survey conducted by the Institute was by no means scientific in nature, it still managed to show the development of certain patterns and trends within today's antiques and collectibles marketplace. “I think our survey is here to stay,” said Drew, “We've had an awful lot of requests since the first one came out, so it's likely we'll continue with them well into the future.”
