The Elkhorn Antique Flea Market: Hundreds of Vendors, Thousands of Shoppers, Countless Bargains

Article & photos by Brian Maloney

On Sunday, May 15th, the Walworth County Fairgrounds once again hosted the massive N.L. Promotions Elkhorn Antique Flea Market. Back in 1982, when they held their first shows, they were happy if fifty dealers showed up. Things have changed a lot in the subsequent three-plus decades: now 500, 600, or even 800 dealers turn out for each of the four shows held every summer, at what has become one of the Midwest's biggest and best indoor/outdoor antique events. With that many dealers, you know you're going to find what you're looking for, whether it's classic or kitsch, and probably at a great price too!

Antique & Appraisal School Celebrates Half-Century Milestone

Ashford Director, Charles Green Celebrating School's 50th Anniversary

While not quite considered an "antique" just yet, the Ashford Institute of Antiques, a professional-level distance learning program on antiques, collectibles, and appraising, turned fifty this past week, marking a milestone in antiques and appraising education, as the longest running Institute of its kind. Although the school premiered its home-study program to the antique world in late 1965, it didn't officially open its doors to students until 1966.

"We've seen an awful lot of changes since our inception" said Peter Green, the Institute's original founder. Green, who started the school based on the notion that there was a need for antique and appraisal education, said he could hardly believe how the antique and appraisal services market had grown over the past 50 years – "I can remember when antique stores were hard to find... now you can tap your phone and find virtually anything instantly!"

During the 1980's, Green's son, Charles took over the day-to-day operations of Ashford, and is the school's current director. When asked what he thought represented the Institute's high-water mark over the past fifty-years, Green unabashedly responded that the introduction of the school's new online e-Course earlier this year was a game-changer for antique and appraisal education in general. "The e-Course allowed us to bring a half-century worth of teaching expertise to a new and expanded format," said Green. "With the ability to use online interactive multimedia for instruction, we've really been able to raise the bar in antiques and appraising education for our students." Green went on to say that although online instruction had obviously become the new norm, the "text-book" version would still be offered for a number of years to come.

According to a press statement, as part of the school's year-long celebration, staff from the Institute will also participate in a traveling roadshow to commemorate the school's 50th anniversary. Plans reportedly include tours of major antique events and shows throughout North America, and will incorporate free appraisal clinics, business seminars and evaluations to mark the Institute's anniversary. "We really want to give something back to our students and those interested in antiques," said founder Peter Green, "It's been a great privilege to teach so many... it's just our way of saying thanks." Exact dates for upcoming events have yet to be released, but are expected to be announced later this month according to school spokesperson, Pamela Drew.

Thirty-Five Years of Fun at Wisconsin's Massive Elkhorn Antique Flea Market

Well, after spending the day at the Elkhorn Antique Flea Market, I've decided I'll never shop retail again. Why buy new when there's just about everything you could possibly think of for your home right here. From furniture to fine art, plus more vintage jewelry, lighting, home accessories, collectibles, and tableware than you'd need in a lifetime. It's all here in one place, at prices that are just as attractive as the merchandise.

There's no doubt that the Elkhorn Antique Flea market is about the largest show of its kind in the region. But of course, bigger doesn't always mean better. We've all seen numerous "antiques markets" slowly degenerate into everyday flea markets. But even though the N. L. Promotions Elkhorn Antique Flea Market is one of the biggest around, it has remained one of the highest quality antiques markets in the Midwest.

The dealers here run the gamut - from professional show dealers with high-end antiques to weekenders selling old family treasures. Included among them this May was Whirligig Antiques, who came with a large inventory ranging from funky advertising to a great set of Conant Doyle Mid-Century Modern occasional tables. The Vintage Modern theme continued at Little Bohemia Antiques, where shoppers found a group of way-cool 1947 Thaden-Jordan bent plywood chairs in wonderful condition.

Things couldn't have looked more different than in Frank Madsen's display, purveyor of toys of every description. Choices there included everything from classic Arcade cast iron cars to the pressed steel vehicles many of us played with as kids. Also there: a rare Ferdinand Strauss tin-litho Timber King #112 log hauling truck, dating from 1927 and priced at $450.

Whirligig Antiques and Frank Madsen are both well-established dealers that you'll see at many shows throughout the year, but at Elkhorn, there are lots of smaller dealers that you won't find anywhere else. Some are locals selling off grandma's estate, some budding collectors just trying out the show-scene. Whether you're looking for funky furniture or industrial artifacts, vintage jewelry or vintage fashions, or pretty much anything else, you'll find it at Elkhorn in quantity. It's all here in one place, at prices that are just as attractive as the merchandise. Whether you're a dealer, decorator, or just a collector like me, I can't imagine a day spent at Elkhorn wouldn't be a productive one.

The Elkhorn Antique Flea Market is a one-day event, so get there early. Parking is always free, and admission only $5. The gates open at 7:00 am, but you'll still be hard pressed to see even close to all of the five-hundred-plus dealers at any given show. Luckily, there are four Elkhorn shows every summer. The June 26th edition has come and gone, but you still have two more chances to get here in 2016: August 14th, or the season finale on September 25th. That September show is often the largest and best attended one of the year. Dates for the 2017 season are already set too, with Elkhorn Antique Flea Markets scheduled for May 21st, June 25th, August 13th, and September 24th. Just check out their website, www.nlpromotionsllc.com, for more details. And as always, keep an eye out for all of N. L. Promotions' upcoming show listings in the Auction Action Antique News!

1940s motion clocks in Jerry Waelti's display included this pristine Mastercrafters Swinging Playmates example, price tag $130. 262-728-8302

Noah's Ark came with period advertising of all sorts, from a Henry Aldrich-Boy Scout movie poster ($245) to a Dewar's White Label advertising clock priced at $240. 414-350-5852

Great old advertising from Iowa's Pawlak Antiques: the self-framed tin Buffalo Brewing sign priced at $975, the embossed steel German Insurance Co. (Freeport, IL) sign at $550. 319-404-9858

"Funky" best described the inventory of Whirligig Antiques, where shoppers found this 30" x 48" painted wood Car Wash sign ($150) and 1930s steel scooter priced at $110. 262-275-3801

Class up your desk with these vintage cast metal Sitting Lincoln bookends from Little Bohemia Antiques - $150 for the set. 630-513-8670

A tale of two eras at Old Glory Antiques: the early Philco television priced at $95, the 19th century celluloid "Fans" box at $85. 608-481-3131

Madison shopper Kirsta Hanson had just purchased this pine bookcase from Old Glory Antiques as I passed by – a good buy too at $695. 608-481-3131

Two rustic twig tables from Robert Burger Sporting Collectibles were $325 each, the polychrome wicker pack basket at $375. 740-392-9101

Midwest Antique Gallery turned heads with fine French sculpture: the 13" pair of Art Nouveau candlesticks priced at $1,200, the 8" bronze bust at $575. 920-252-0319

A Clinton Iowa exhibitor came with this unique set of hooked rugs made for a home's staircase & with each riser a complete rural or patriotic scene - $2,000. 563-321-8237

Sporting collector Don Ludy came with period fishing lures & gear to spare, plus cool stuff like this mint, never-used Shakespeare playing card set priced at $140. 630-842-8635

Two tiny cast iron vehicles from J & B Collectibles: the 1930s A. C. Williams Coast to Coast Stake Truck priced at $248, the Arcade Ford Sport Coupe at $198. 920-235-0646

17th Annual 20th Century Art and Design Show & Sale

"From Mission to Modern"

Article & photos by Brain Smith (Eastwood Gallery)

The 17th Annual Twin Cities Arts and Crafts Show and Sale has a new name and a new look. The newly named Twin Cities 20th Century Art and Design Show "From Mission to Modern" is still the largest event in the Midwest showcasing mission furniture and accessories of the American Arts and Crafts Movement (1890 - 1920), but now will include other 20th Century movements including Art Moderne, Art Deco and Mid Century. It will still be held at the Minnesota State Fairgrounds in the Progress Center Building on Saturday September 24th and Sunday September 25th, 2016. You'll find furniture, metalwork, pottery, textiles, art and lighting; everything from Stickley, Limbert, Roycroft, Rookwood and the esteemed Minneapolis Handicraft Guild. High quality reproductions will be for sale as well. Many of the nation's leading dealers will be on hand to answer questions and advise on how to decorate your home.

The show will also offer the highest quality 20th Century Design including pieces by Eames, Herman Miller, Knoll and much more.

A highlight of this year's show will be an opportunity for every attendee to experience an "Antiques Roadshow" style experience, focused on 20th Century Design! David Rago an expert appraiser on the PBS series "Antiques Roadshow" since its inception in America 21 years ago, will offer individual verbal appraisals in his booth throughout the entirety of the show. A nominal fee of $10 for each item or 3 for $25 will be collected and donated to local charities; Minnesota Children's Hospitals and the Minneapolis Institute of Arts.

Mr. Rago will also be giving an hour-long presentation, "Arts and Crafts within the context of Modernism". David Rago is the owner of Rago Arts and Auction Center a leading U.S auction house, featuring 20th century design, with over $30 million in annual sales. David has published the magazines "Style 1900" and "Modernism", as well as authoring multiple books on 20th century design and ceramics.

A unique show, unlike anything the Twin Cities has seen before. The 17th Annual Twin Cities 20th Century Art and Design Show and Sale "From Mission to Modern" will offer the highest quality, and will certainly be a show talked about for a long time. All under one roof and one weekend only, Saturday September 24th from 9 am - 5 pm and Sunday September 25th from 11 am - 4 pm at the Minnesota State Fairgrounds Progress Center Building. Admission is only $7. For more information call 651-695-1902.

The show is located on the Minnesota State Fairgrounds at the Progress Center Building in St. Paul, Minnesota 55108. Located on Snelling Avenue at 1265 North Snelling Avenue. Coming from Interstate 94 from the east or west, exit on Snelling Avenue and head North approximately 3 miles. Take a left at the Main Entrance to the Minnesota State Fairgrounds (Dan Patch Avenue). After going through the main gate, take your first right and head north until you run into the Progress Center Building. Free Parking on the fairgrounds.
