Sporting Enthusiasts Gather for the 52nd Annual North American Vintage Decoy & Sporting Collectibles Show

Article & photos by Michelle Goltz

On April 29th, 2017 The Midwest Decoy Collectors Association had a spectacular 52nd show in St. Charles, Illinois at the Pheasant Run Resort. Although the weather was cold and windy it was an amazing day! I have been surrounded by sportsman and women most of my adult years and I must say I have never been to a better event or more welcomed from a group of people. The room was full of energy and friendship, as I walked around it was hard to miss the friendships formed not only amongst the vendors but the guests attending the show as well.

Out & About

Congratulations Tia & Mekenzy

The girls graduated on Thursday, June 1st. It was an exciting and proud night. The three graduate speakers put a lot of thought and time into their speeches. Not only were they humorous but shared moments of prosperous futures for all the graduating class. The night went better than expected for a large 396 graduating class. Plus this was also the 50th Graduating class, so there was lots to celebrate for the night. It was a proud night for our family. Afterward Tia attended the graduation bash sponsored by senior parents, while Mekenzy went out with her friends.

Pheasant Run Resort Hosts North American Vintage Decoy & Sporting Collectibles Show

Article & Photos by Michelle Goltz

This is North America's largest gathering of decoy and sporting collectible enthusiasts, and features a variety of opportunities to learn about and trade in this uniquely American folk art. Highlighted by Room-to-Room trading, a Decoy Auction, and a Tabled Sales Event, attendees found more than 30,000 items for sale through nearly 300 dealers.

Each year, at the North American Vintage Decoy & Sporting Collectibles Show, free identification and appraisals are offered for any item that is brought to the show. This effort is designed to help discover those old artifacts that are hiding around the country and recapture our rich hunting and fishing history. So, if you have an item that needs an appraisal, make sure to bring it to next year's show!

The show was filled with talent, there were demonstrations going on throughout the day from carving to painting, to decoy floating in water. This event is more than just buying your next sportsman piece or collectible it is about the history, talent, competitions and camaraderie in the sporting community! It was hard to leave and go to my other job, I just wanted to keep walking around and admire everything! Make sure you put next years show on your calendar as a must "attend" April 27 & 28 2018!

The Midwest Decoy Collectors Association is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to collect and preserve the history of the decoy as original American folk art. As the largest gathering of its kind, the North American Vintage Decoy and Sporting Collectibles Show is the premier opportunity for the novice, antique dealer or experienced collector to network and learn more about the decoy as functional folk art or to add to their collections. For more information, please visit midwestdecoy.org

Referencing the Encyclopedia of Shotgun Shell Boxes by Ted and David Bacyk there were 18 companies in the business in the early 20th century that were big enough to warrant a chapter of their own. There are about that many more smaller companies listed in the chapter, "Obscure Manufacturers", unfortunately after World War II it was reduced to Federal, Remington and Winchester being the big three.

The earliest examples date back to 1870 and some hunters still use them today, The shell box sat on the floor of the hunting skiff and was used to hold the hunters shotgun safely off the bottom of the boat while paddling or poling the wild rice beds or along the edge of floating bogs when jump shooting ducks. Many styles were made Every hunter had a specific idea of what was needed to keep his shotgun shells, calls, and lunch dry. No other area in North America had anything to match this classic hunting item.

Annual Phonograph & Music Box Show and Sale

Article & Photos by Joan Rolfs (Antique Phonograph Society)

The country's largest antique phonograph show and sale is taking place in Union, Illinois from June 9 - June 11. For over 40 years, the Annual Phonograph and Music Box Show and Sale has attracted enthusiasts who collect antique phonographs, music boxes, records, phonograph advertising and early technology. Thousands of collectors and exhibitors from all over the world attend.

The Antique Phonograph Society (APS) has scheduled a triple-bill program of presentations that are free to the public and collectors. The program is scheduled for Friday afternoon, June 9th at 5:00 pm in the Wild West meeting room adjacent to the show and sale area. Early buyers, vendors, collectors and the public are encouraged to attend.

Featured speakers are Don Gfell who lives in Milan, Ohio, the birthplace of Thomas Edison. Mr. Gfell describes the project he spearheaded to design and build a statue of the famed "Wizard of Menlo Park." The recently completed sculpture was installed in the National Statuary Hall in Washington, DC. In his presentation, Mr. Gfell describes the statue's recent journey to the nation's capital, which included a visit to Milan along the way.

The second presentation, "All About Decals," explains how accurate and exact reproduction decals are created as well as the best techniques to apply them. Longstanding collector, exhibitor, and APS member Gregg Cline will share the skills he has honed over the years.

The program will conclude by reviving one of the more successful phonograph marketing gimmicks. Rod Pickett and Tim Fizer show how they recreate and record on the napkin ring cylinders that helped promote the phonograph at the 1904 St. Louis Exposition and the 1905 Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition. Rod and Tim use these new napkin rings to educate school groups about the phonograph and to attract the next generation of collectors. It worked in 1904, and attendees will see how it works today!

Winners of the 2017 National Auctioneers Association Marketing Competition, presented in partnership with USA TODAY, have been announced. Three “Best in Show” honors emerged from among more than 850 entries.

Rich Penn, of Rich Penn Auctions, in Waterloo, Iowa, won “Best in Show — of all Advertising & PR – Print entries” for the “Iowa Gas Auction” catalog. Penn said, “What an honor! This is our second Best of Show Award and it’s humbling when your peers recognize you this way.” He added, “We work very hard to do the best marketing we can for the clients we serve. Winning an award like this is truly validation for all the hard work.” Penn won four other awards for their Personal Property and Antique catalogs and direct mail material. Rich Penn Auctions has been in business for nearly 20 years and has served clients nationwide.

Best of Show Catalog

All award recipients in the 2017 contest will be formally recognized during the NAA Marketing Competition Awards Reception in Columbus, Ohio, at the 68th International Auctioneers Conference and Show, July 11-15. Recipients will be presented with their awards at that time.

Overall, the annual NAA Marketing Competition, continues as the premier contest for NAA members to showcase their marketing efforts. The total number of entries again showed healthy member participation as seen over the past several years, and the quality level of those entries again was impressive. This year, top-level marketing efforts came forth from 22 states ranging nearly coast-to-coast.

The task of determining winners was given to a panel of marketing and advertising professionals who represent backgrounds in branding, promotion, media, public relations and graphic design. Judging criteria included considerations such as creativity, message, ad effectiveness, clarity and visual appeal.

For additional information contact Rich Penn Auctions at 319-291-6688 between 9 AM & 5 PM CST, M-F.

TLCI's new Online guide is Coming!

Members of Tea Leaf Club International are anxiously awaiting the launch of a new on-line informational site which will serve as a paperless handbook of all things Tea Leaf. Development of the site has been in process for many months, producing a comprehensive guide to help collectors identify and recognize the many body styles, motifs, potters, and characteristics of the popular decorated ironstone.

Target date for the launch of this exciting new source of information is March 1, 2016.

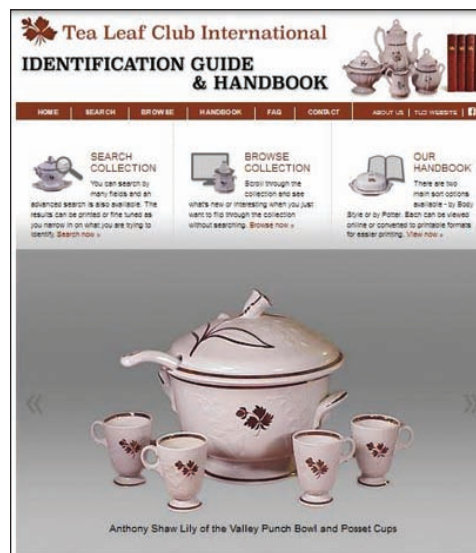

When available, one will be able to view many photos of representative pieces and learn more about the history and development of Tea Leaf through the years.

Cross-referencing will allow better access for comparisons. For example, calling up information on sugar bowls will bring up photos of many pieces in various body styles and by different potters. This will help in initial identification of a particular piece. Then, using the link from a photo, one can bring up more information on that style and potter.

The new site and its wealth of information will be available free of charge to non-members, too. TLCI members know that there are many people who may have Tea Leaf in their possession but have never known much about its age and history. We hope that visiting this site will stimulate interest, and encourage others to join us in our study and appreciation for Tea Leaf.

The Tea Leaf Club is dedicated to the study and collection of Tea Leaf Ironstone China and its Variants, produced in England and America from the mid-19th century through the early 1900s. The club boasts hundreds of members from almost every state in the union, as well as members from Canada. TLCI is made up of people who collect, study, love, and appreciate the simple beauty and endurance of Tea Leaf Ironstone China.

One of the goals of TLCI is to expand knowledge of the history and popularity of Tea Leaf ironstone throughout the years. The club welcomes new members and enthusiastically shares their appreciation for the sturdy, attractive pottery. Visit <http://www.tealeafclub.com> for more information about Tea Leaf Club International.

The National Milk Glass Collectors Society to Hold 30th Annual Convention

The National Milk Glass Collector's Society will hold its annual convention September 15 and 16, 2017 at the Marriott Pittsburgh Airport Hotel in the greater Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania area.

Convention activities will include tours to the Heinz History Center to view their exhibit Glass: Shattering Notions and see the related glass artifacts. Jay Hawkins, author of Glasshouses and Glass Manufacturers of the Pittsburgh Region: 1795 - 1910, will speak. There will also be a 250 piece milk glass auction and a dealer's room sale, both important parts of the convention where attendees find new and rare pieces to add to their collections. A banquet program will include entertainment and several members discussing their favorite milk glass pieces.

The NMGCS was founded in 1987 to educate people on the aesthetic value and beauty of opaque glass, commonly known as milk glass, and to provide an organization where the members communicate through a newsletter and a website as well as meetings to promote knowledge, interest, enjoyment, preservation and collecting of such glass.

Hotel reservation may be made by calling 412-788-8800 requesting the NMGCS block rate. Registration information may be found on the society's website www.nmgcs.org.

Evans Decoy Book Available Now

Ever since the inception of the Evans Society in the late 1990's there has been discussion of documenting the history of Walter Evans and the Evans Decoy Factory. Over the years there have been a number of articles written based on information that was gathered by Evans collectors.

A few years back, Jackie Robinson worked to put together a book on Walter Evans, but with Jackie's passing the book was never completed and we are not aware of what happened with all her work. In 2012, Terry Smart was elected president of the Evans Society. Andy Schoneich and Terry Smart began their independent work on the Evans book almost two years ago after agreeing at the 2015 Oshkosh Wisconsin Decoy show to take on the project. The majority of the work started in July 2015. The goal of the book was to provide the collector a comprehensive pictorial guide to the different grades and species of Evans decoys. With the support of many collectors, we were able to assemble a comprehensive collection of all the species and grades of known Evans decoys. Through our research we were able to bring clarity to the (4) grades of Evans decoys (Mammoth, Standard, Competitive, and Hardware Store) and the distinguishing characteristics between each grade. The objective of the book was not to speculate, but only make claims based on known/documented facts. The book was completed in April 2017 and available to collectors at the 2017 North American Vintage Decoy and Sporting Collectibles Show. Given that this has been the first comprehensive publication regarding Walter Evans and his decoys, it has been well received and appreciated by collectors.

To order a copy, please go to www.decoyrelics.com, select the Evans Book tab and print an order form, or call us at (708) 448-3061 and we would be happy to help complete a form for you.

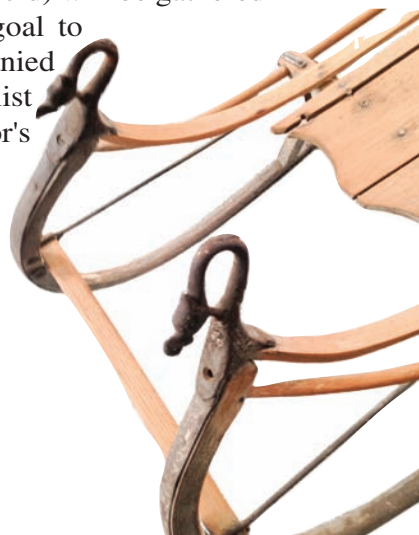

“30th Star Benefit Antiques Auction” FRIENDS of WHS Seek Donations of Antique Treasures!

Article & Photos by Debbie McArdle, FRIENDS of the Wisconsin Historical Society

The FRIENDS of the Wisconsin Historical Society are currently collecting tax-deductible donations of antiques and vintage items for their April 2018 "30th Star Benefit Antiques Auction" held at Old World Wisconsin in Eagle.

The inaugural auction, held in April 2010, was followed by three successful encores in April, 2012, 2014 & 2016. Thus far the proceeds from the four biennial auctions have provided important funding for the Wisconsin Historical Society's state historic sites as well as for National History Day.

Though a year away, the "30th Star Benefit Antiques Auction" demands a great deal of advance preparation. Contributions of antiques (more than 99 years old) and vintage items (50-99 years old) will be gathered from across middle America. In keeping with their goal to "preserve and share history", each item will be accompanied by a Provenance Statement. The auction catalog will list the known history of each piece as well as the donor's name, if desired. Tax deductible receipts will be provided.

A fifth grant just received from the Wisconsin Antiques Dealers Association (WADA) continues their commitment as the auction's founding sponsors. The admissions charged at their October and February antiques shows in Waukesha fund their grant and scholarship programs. See <http://www.WisconsinAntiquesDealers.com> to learn more.

Carol Miller of Bailey's Honor Auction Service in Oconomowoc has once again volunteered to call the auction. You can follow her may auctions throughout the year at <http://baileyshonor.com/>

For questions about the April 2018 "30th Star Benefit Antiques Auction" or to make a donation of an antique or vintage item, please contact Riene Wells at 262.363.4700, info@eagle-house.com or Debbie McArdle at 815.575.1272, jjmcard@comcast.net.

25th Annual Kalamazoo Airgun It Is That Time Again To Mark Your Calendar

Article by Wesley Powers

This show started 25 years ago with a few Daisy BB gun collectors in the backyard of Bob Surface's home in Swartz Creek, Michigan. It has grown over the years and now boasts over 100 tables of bb guns, airguns of all makes and models, and toy guns. The name of the show was changed to the Kalamazoo Airgun Show & Daisy Get Together to better describe that the show welcomes all types of airguns from antique to modern. This show is a wonderful informative gathering of collectors, shooters, friends and good times. Last year the show has been sold out, and the managers expect the same this year.

The show will once again be held at the Kalamazoo County Fairgrounds Expo Center. This 8,500 square foot hall is wonderful with its great lighting, ample parking and its easy access off I-94 is an added bonus.

Host hotels this year will be the TownPlace Suites (269-353-1500) and the Fairfield Inn (269-353-6400) both are located at 5683 South 9th Street, Kalamazoo (I-94 exit #72)...please mention the Kalamazoo Airgun Show & Daisy bb and Toy Gun Show to get the special rate. We will continue our traditional Saturday evening reception once again this year. Please join us in the TownPlace Suites reception room around 7:30 p.m. for this event...a great time to relax and renew friendships. We have a special treat for everyone at this year's reception...world acclaimed airgun historian, collector and author Larry Hannusch from Houston Texas will entertain and educate us with a presentation featuring some of his very early airguns. Larry is one of the most knowledgeable collectors of airguns and specializes in the very early ball and butt stock reservoir guns, bellows airguns and gallery guns as early as the 1700's.

For airgun shooters, there will be an air gun field target shoot in the area on Saturday. Please contact Chris Martin cmartin@brakebush.com for information on that event.

Kalamazoo is a town with many fun things to do. They have the "Air Zoo" aviation museum, Kalamazoo Nature Center, The Crossroads Mall, St Julian Winery, Gilmore Car Museum and much more. We highly recommend you visit www.DiscoverKalamazoo.com for additional information.

The show will be held at the Kalamazoo County Fairground Expo Center, Kalamazoo, Michigan on Sunday, August 20th from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Admission is $3. (Admission for early buyers at 7:30 a.m. will be $30) Admission for children under 12 is free but they must be accompanied by an adult.

If you would like a show flyer or have any questions please call Wes or Theresa Powers at 517-423-4148 or email wespowers@comcast.net. You can also call Dennis Backer 937-660-9152. We look forward to seeing you at the show.

APPRAISING: THE KEY TO FAIR DIVORCE SETTLEMENTS

by David Federman

Has a once-married friend ever told you they got a raw deal in their divorce settlement? At the time, you probably chalked off their sour feelings to “sour grapes.” But now that you are about to become, or thinking of becoming, an ex-spouse, do you suddenly fear the same fate? This time, you know the fear isn't just based on emotions; it's based on economics, too. What do you do to get a fair, rather than a raw, deal in your divorce settlement?

Start by finding a good lawyer--but then take one extra giant step. For those who are parting ways to ensure an equitable division of marital property, find a professional appraiser. They are the key to fair divorce settlements.

Given the importance of a professionally prepared divorce settlement appraisal, you would think there would be an abundance of professional appraisers and that it would be easy to find one. Think again. The average person's chances of obtaining such a report are almost as slim as their chances of winning the lottery.

Worse, there is even less trustworthy information available about divorce-settlement appraisals. Take it from me. I've been writing about personal property appraising since 1982 when I wrote “The Seven Deadly Sins of Personal Property Appraising.” Needless to say, the article stirred up a hornet's nest. Nevertheless, the information vacuum persisted. In 1993, I finally took matters into my own hands and wrote a book on the subject. Twenty-two years later, my book is long out of print and consumers are as much in the dark as before about the true nature of appraisals and appraisers.

It's time to shed some light on the subject. But be warned, it's a harsh light.

PERSONAL PROPERTY APPRAISING: A PRETENSE NOT A PROFESSION

Here's the lowdown about the scandalously high number of raw-deal divorce settlements: Personal property appraising is an unregulated profession. Indeed, it isn't even a profession. How could it be when anyone has the right to call themselves a personal property appraiser? You heard right. With little or no training and experience, any person can hang out a shingle as a personal property appraiser.

This isn't the case with real estate appraisers. In the domain of buildings valuation, a person must be educated and tested--just like an attorney or a doctor. In the field of real estate, there is no excuse allowed for the lack of formal, rigorous appraisal training. To lack such an education would be the equivalent of letting someone who drives an ambulance or is versed in first aid call themselves a doctor.

Alas, personal property appraising is another matter. Believe it or not, banks and mortgage companies that wouldn't dare allow an uncertified appraiser to put a value on a house will allow untrained hacks to put “values” on personal property accepted as backing for loans. If I told you how many banks are sitting on worthless collateral because they accepted incompetent and inflated personal property appraisals by no-nothing appraisers, you would be horrified. Yet financial institutions do nothing to correct the situation. Don't ask me why. I've been puzzling over this paradox for decades.

Meanwhile, personal property appraisers who feel under no obligation to seek training and testing by professional schools and associations, parade a number of meaningless credentials in front of clients seeking some basis for trusting their abilities and hiring them. Don't laugh, but I have seen resumes for divorce-settlement appraisers that listed everything from Fine Arts degrees to membership in the 4-H Club as proof of skill and accreditation. Just citing such irrelevancies shows profound ignorance about professional appraising by those who use them. This is like having a tattoo artist say he is a doctor because he is versed in needle use.

If you learn nothing else from this article, learn this: experience buying and selling the kinds of property one appraises does not make that person an appraiser. Often people in the tumultuous throes of a divorce will seek out auctioneers to appraise their marital property. They figure that no one will know the worth of their belongings better than someone who regularly sells items like it. This assumption is wrong and potentially ruinous.

Unfortunately, the belief that experience liquidating marital property makes one an appraiser is encouraged by auctioneers who believe their experience qualifies them to write divorce-settlement appraisals. It doesn't. Auctions are only one type of market for the disposal of martial property. There are many others and an appraiser must be aware of them in order to determine correct value. That's why calculating correct appraisal values for personal property takes as much training as it does for valuing real estate.

In short, being an auctioneer doesn't make one an appraiser.

AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION IS WORTH A POUND OF CURE

Many men and women cheated out of a fair divorce settlement by an unfair appraisal think they can take their grievances to court and get a more just settlement. And, in theory, there is always a second chance for fair play. However, it's a poor one. The fact is, it is hard to contest an appraisal once it has been completed. Worse, it is hard to realize that one has been the victim of appraiser incompetence and suffered financial harm due to them. You'll need to find an expert who can challenge and shred the content of a poor appraisal--as well as impeach the appraiser's abilities and credentials.

No, a good offense is your best defense against a raw-deal appraisal. So find the expert before the divorce is final--not after. A professional appraisal assures a fair shake the first time around. So the job of the ex-spouse is to find the right person right off the bat. That isn't as hard as it sounds--but only if you seek an appraiser with the same care and caution you would a surgeon. With a surgeon, your physical well-being is at stake; with a surgeon, your fiscal well-being is just as much at stake..

Whether you are selecting the appraiser or your attorney is recommending one to you, begin your search by asking for the appraiser's professional profile. As I said before, scrutinize closely every credential. Make sure they have direct bearing on appraising.

Once you examine a resume, and are satisfied with the appraiser's qualifications, don't take the appraiser's word for them. Vet the candidate by calling the associations to which they say they belong and verifying their membership and any titles conferred by the group. If the appraiser says he has a degree or diploma or has completed courses, check these claims, also.

SOME APPRAISAL BASICS

Put simply, appraising is putting a value on something. But the process of valuation is hardly simple. It is complex, determined by the needs of the client. The appraiser's value-conclusions will vary according to those needs. In this case, you are seeking a divorce-settlement appraisal. However, definitions of value differ from state to state. Indeed, every major component of the divorce-settlement appraisal, including the effective date, is regulated by law. Those laws vary by locality.

So never forget this: Appraisals are legal documents that must comply with laws governing their preparation.

Most appraisers lack the mandatory legal knowledge and training to write divorce-settlement appraisals that adhere to prevailing law. It goes without staying that their ignorance can cost their clients dearly. Let's review the steps of professional appraisal preparation.

STEP 1: EVALUATION. Before one can assign a value to a piece of property, they must be able to fully and accurately identify it. This first phase of an appraisal is called “evaluation.” If it is botched, determining the property's correct worth will be botched.

STEP 2: VALUATION. After “evaluation” comes “valuation,” assigning a dollar-worth to the property that fulfills the client's needs. This requires training in valuation methodology. That training can only come in a classroom where accepted procedures and standardized techniques are taught.

Untrained appraisers usually treat value as an arbitrary or hypothetical concept. Often they will give seat-of-the-pants estimates of value based on their personal experience buying and selling. But value is far more concrete and composite, as well as factual and fluid. That's because it is a function of market activity requiring research of transacted prices for identical or comparable items. Value is based on knowledgeable sampling of markets not best-guess hunches about them. An appraisal offers a reasoned, researched opinion of value as of a given date (specified by law), supported by facts gathered in the appropriate marketplace.

In short, appraising is an academic research and computation discipline requiring academic training. That makes it a profession, like accounting, where performance is taught and tested.

PICKING AN APPRAISER: RULES OF THE ROAD

With so much riding on the appraiser's expertise and qualifications, you must conduct a job search for an appraiser. Start by requesting and thoroughly examining a written professional profile or resume of any job candidate. That means making sure it gives a verifiable history of the appraiser's education and experience.

Many so-called professional profiles are designed to bamboozle and deceive. So watch out for an “alphabet soup” of titles, designations and affiliations. Find out what they mean and how they were earned. Many designations have absolutely nothing to do with appraising. Even college degrees are very often irrelevant to personal property appraising. The sad fact is this: few colleges in America have degree programs in personal property appraising. So while college degrees may be evidence of general intelligence, most are worthless as appraising credentials. The same usually goes for certificates that prove attendance at seminars and conferences--unless they relate directly to personal property appraising. Even then, these hardly prove in-depth training or eligibility to appraise property.

BEWARE OF QUACKS

Your search for a bona fide personal property appraiser may lead you to meetings with quacks. Quacks are good at impressing prospective clients with supposed bona fides. Indeed, they would be insulted if you called them fakes or phonies. A case in point: Patriot Paul Revere was arguably the best silversmith of his time. But when business was bad, he doubled as a dentist, filling teeth with the silver he used to make bowls.

Now ask yourself: Would you want your cavities filled by a silversmith? Of course not.

Well, neither would you want your marital property appraised by someone with no formal training valuing in it.

THE MYTH OF EXPERIENCE

Time may heal all wounds but it doesn't necessarily heal all heels. Most appraisal quacks have been plying their trade for decades and use years on the job as sole, or primary, proof of expertise. But doing something the wrong way for 25 years doesn't make it the right way. Your job is to find out if the appraiser has been practicing the right or wrong way.

Many quack appraisers believe that experience alone makes them appraisers. As I said before, these tradesmen they will cite long experience buying and selling goods from marital estates as proof of appraisal competence. It isn't.

Appraising is vastly different from putting a price tag on or frequently buying goods at an auction or a liquidation sale. Don't get sidetracked by false qualifications. Question each appraiser about their aptitude and skill as appraisers. Don't allow yourself to be fooled into believing experience in sales of property is the same, or good, as appraising it. It isn't.

When interviewing an appraiser, keep in mind that the quack is often a smooth talker who throws the prospective client off guard by using professional-sounding, but irrelevant, jargon. For example, beware talk about federal IRS definitions of “fair market value” in connection with divorce-settlement appraisals. Many ignorant appraisers use a one-definition-fits-all approach to fair market value. In actuality, the IRS has three definitions. Ironically, none of them are valid for divorce-settlement appraisals since divorces are handled on the state and not on the federal level.

THE LITTLE MISTAKES THAT LEAD TO BIG LOSSES

Ignorance of the law leads appraisers to make many procedural and technical errors that invalidate their reports in the eyes of the law. Something as seemingly inconsequential as an “effective date” (the date as of which the value conclusions apply) can cost an appraisal its legitimacy. Believe it or not, “effective dates” vary with the type of assignment. For an insurance casualty loss, it is the date of loss; for estate tax it's the date of death. And for a dissolution of marriage appraisal, there are 5 “effective dates” to choose from--none of them the commonly-used date of preparing the report.

As you can see, an appraiser is a kind of paralegal. Indeed, in France, where appraisals are considered binding legal documents, appraisers must take state examinations and be certified to practice their trade. American lawmakers are far more short-sightedness about the importance of appraisals than their French counterparts. Consequently, you, the client, must give appraisers the far-sighted examination they too often fail to receive. Your future and fortunes depend on it.

About the author: David Federman is a business journalist who has written extensively about personal property appraising. His book, “The Professional's Guide to Jewelry Insurance Appraising,” published in 1993 by Vance Publishing Corp., was the first of its kind.

Ackerman's Stars & Stripes Antique Market To Be Held At The Johnson County Fairgrounds At Iowa City, Iowa On July 4th

Article by Bill & Karen Ackerman

The third annual ACKERMAN'S JULY 4TH STARS AND STRIPES ANTIQUE MARKET will be held on Tuesday July 4th at the Johnson County Fairgrounds just off of the Avenue of the Saints, Exit 89), locally 27/218 at the south edge of Iowa City, Iowa, then about 1/2 mile north. Hours of the show are from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the Fourth of July.

Show admission is just $3/person and there is lots of close by free parking.

ACKERMAN'S STARS AND STRIPES ANTIQUE MARKET originated in 2015 after the former long running Hanson's Grove Antique Show ended in 2014 and a replacement show was needed in the area. The Johnson County Fairgrounds was secured and the show took off very successfully and featured about 120 dealers in 2016 with a strong eager attendance of almost 2800 good buyers. Customers arrived all day and were still arriving going into the closing hour of the show. Many good reports about dealers sales were related and the show was a star spangled success.

Dealers from several states will be set up selling from all categories of antiques in several buildings at the fairgrounds as well as outdoor dealers who will be displaying around the campus of buildings at the fairgrounds.

ACKERMAN'S JULY 4TH STARS AND STRIPES ANTIQUE MARKET attributes its success to good advertising (including advertising you will read later in this publication) and a willingness of the dealers who do the show to pass out the flyers that we provide. Thanks also to all the great support staff who work the market and keep things going smoothly.

A good lunch stand is provided by Denkman's and some really yummy good tastin' food will be provided for all who attend.

If you are a customer looking for a well advertised and well located July 4th antique show to attend, ACKERMAN'S JULY 4TH STARS AND STRIPES ANTIQUE MARKET is for you. If you are a dealer looking for a great July 4th venue to sell your antiques, ACKERMAN'S JULY 4TH STARS AND STRIPES ANTIQUE MARKET is the place to be.

For information about ACKERMAN'S STARS AND STRIPES ANTIQUE MARKET please call Bill and Karen Ackerman at 319-338-8449 or 319-430-3737

Keep looking for upcoming ads and news releases in this publication about this great event.

ACKERMAN'S JULY 4TH STARS AND STRIPES ANTIQUE MARKET welcomes you all as a buyer or a dealer on July 4th 2017

Spring Has Sprung In The North Woods

Spring has finally sprung in the north woods and people are heading north to open cabins and get their getaway ready for a summer of fun and relaxation. Along with this standing tradition is the long running Minocqua Antique Show and Market. The show attracts dealers from surrounding states as well as all points of Wisconsin. This year's show will be held on July 1st and 2nd.

Buyers in the past have been able to find everything from a great selection of north woods furniture to decorate their place to more traditional oak pieces that have been a stand by in antique furnishings. Attendees can also expect to find a broad diversity of antiques and unusual items at the show this year. We have new dealers this year with Indian artifacts, snowshoe furniture, hickory furniture, primitives and architectural items. One can also expect to find a selection of antique advertising, sporting items, stoneware, tools, glassware, toys, jewelry, textiles and much, much more.

A portion of proceeds will benefit the Lakeland High School and lunch proceeds will again benefit a young area toddler that was born with Anophthalmia. The show is being held at the Lakeland High School in Minocqua, Wisconsin located 1 block West of Jct. Hwy. 51 & Hwy. 70 West. Hours for attendance will be from 9-4 on both Saturday July 1st and Sunday July 2nd. Admission at the door will be 6 dollars and children 14 and under getting in for free. There will be a food concession on site. So be sure to mark your calendars for this show for you will not want to miss this great assembly of dealers for what promises to be a great time and opportunity to find that perfect piece to add to your décor or collection. For further information call 906-250-1618.
