Antiques & Appraising School Releases Data On Top Selling Items

The latest results from the Asheford Institute Of Antiques survey of buying trends within the antiques and collectibles community were recently published online this past week by the school's Research & Polling Department.

After conducting similar surveys over the past five years, the internationally recognized home-study school on antiques, collectibles and appraising, released its latest trending data from the antiques marketplace for the 2016 year. The survey, which concentrated on compiling and grouping information related to customers buying habits over a twelve month period, was brought back this year after a strong response on the school's website from readers requesting updates from previous surveys, said current Director of the Institute, Charles Green. He went on to note that there were some interesting differences between the results from this poll, and those from previous years. "We've made our questionnaire sharper, and more specific, as well as bringing the participant base up to over 1,200 respondents, but the questions are still essentially the same," said Green, "even though the answers are quite different."

Carlee Jackson, the school's public relations director agreed with Mr. Green's assessment, and stated that the main goal of this year's survey was to once again measure the interest in current trends of antiques and collectibles, based on actual sales results and requests for specific items.

She noted that while the survey was informal in nature, and not predicated on scientific formulas, the results were still quite compelling when viewed in their entirety. "What we're seeing is a strong change in direction when it comes to certain areas of the decorative arts..." said Jackson, "It's not just Mid-century modern that's moving, but a number of other areas that are also making up ground." Jackson went on to note that interest in 1960's and 70's collectibles, particularly space and Star Wars related items, had also risen sharply as well. "There's no doubt in my mind that these are the new younger collectors that we're seeing today," said Carlee. "They're the one's who are really beginning to drive the industry forward."

Aside from the popularity of Mid-century modern furniture, many of the younger dealers from the survey also noted that literally anything twentieth-century, from brutalist metal sculptures to lesser known painters had also become increasingly sought after by both dealers and collectors. "We're in a virtual bidding war every time something from this era comes up," said Shannon Smith, a young east coast dealer. "Honestly, sometimes I wonder if it's worth all the fuss!"

Older dealers seemed to echo a similar sentiment, but indicated that there were other areas of the market that were beginning to show signs of renewed interest, particularly in the area of Greek and Egyptian revival styles - especially when done in stone and marble. Claude Paquin, a longtime dealer from Quebec, said some of his Victorian marble-top side tables, which hadn't moved in years, were suddenly flying out the door. "Who knows," said Paquin, "...maybe it's the beginning of something old!"

For readers wanting to view the full results of the Institute's survey, you can find them online at the school's Student News page at: <http://www.asheford.com/2016-survey-results.html>

Out & About

Groundhogs Day is on Friday, February 2nd. Lets hope he does not see his shadow, so that we can have an early spring. Although, at times, it has felt like spring.

Valentine's Day is just around the corner. Make plans to take that someone special on a date and stop by an antique shop or auction or take in a antique show. Find something special for that someone special that they will treasure forever. Take your mom, she will cherish that time together forever.

I never thought I would say these words, but I kind of miss hockey. Not the travel part, but the watching. We have recently been starting to go watch our friend's children and grandchildren play their sports. Now that Todd and I have been slowly adjusting to our partial empty nest. We have realized that we need to find new activities to do together and find television shows that we both like. Although Brandon is still at home, he works a lot and spends time doing things with his friends. We do however manage to eat dinner all together almost every night.

When Out and About this weekend, be sure to check out:

Pedal Pushers is having their Holiday Season Sale Now through the end of January. Located at 220 Bohemia Drive, Denmark, Wisconsin. See their ad in this week's issue of Auction Action Antique News.

Mark your calendars for:

Maquoketa Flea Market on Sunday, February 11th. Located at Jackson County Fairgrounds in Maquoketa, IA. See upcoming events for more information.

Mekenzy is enjoying college & all the snow. This past weekend her roommate's parents came up. On Friday night they attended a hockey game. The Bemidji University Beavers played North Dakota, and unfortunately lost 5-1. Afterward they all went out to eat pizza. A treat for the girls as they don't go out much. Kenzy gets the concept of broke college kids.

Waukesha County Expo Center Hosts 66th Fall WADA Show in Waukesha, Wisconsin

Article & Photos by Michelle Goltz

Here is a little history lesson on American Art Clay Works, Edgerton, WI and Norse Pottery:

Thorwald P.A. Samson completed a six-year master potter apprenticeship at Hjords Pottery at Ronne, Borjnholn Island, Denmark.

Samson and Louis Ipson immigrated to the United States in the summer of 1891 to work at Pauline Pottery. In 1892 the pair of potters opened American Art Clay Works in Edgerton, Wisconsin. Samson was an artist and modeller in clay and Ipson was a molder. Thorwald married Christiana (Martina) in June 1893. Louis married Annie (Malf) in November of 1894.

Samson returned to Denmark in 1898 and Louis in 1896, both realizing that there were more opportunities available to their families in America, they returned to Edgerton in 1902 and founded Norse Pottery with Ipson in 1903.

Another interesting story is Edgerton/Rock Pottery.

As a result of poor management, in 1894, the Pauline Pottery was sold and reorganized as the Edgerton Pottery Company. The Assets of the Pauline Pottery were merged into this new company, which was also under contract to make a porous pottery utilitarian filter for the Geissel Field Water Filter Company of Chicago.

While the Edgerton Pottery Company did not have a strong pottery department, it did make limited use of some of the old Pauline Pottery molds to produce a line of wares sold as "Rock Pottery."

With similarities to both the earlier Pauline wares and the later Norse lines, the company continued to produce art pottery and utilitarian wares until its sale in 1901.

The Wisconsin Antiques Dealers Association Shows have been going strong since 1951. Authenticity, condition and rarity have always been the guidelines for this top-notch group of professional dealers, with items at all price levels, perfect for all collectors! With three large rooms filled with 55 of the best dealers from 9 states, this is a fantastic show for everyone.

For more information about this and future shows, contact Show Promotoer Debbie McArdle at 414-510-4441 and visit the website: WisconsinAntiquesDealers.com

We have over 600 spaces available to be filled with antiques, collectibles, attic & basement treasures, crafters, produce, seasonal items, pottery, tools, sports, old toys, rummage, garage finds, family collections, vintage treasures, architectural items, farm items and much more! You will find over 100 volunteer members along with their family and friends helping to serve up food/beverages and assist you throughout the grounds. We try to have all spaces reserved prior to each of our events, but we will always keep a few spaces available prior to event for any new vendors. We are always looking for new quality vendors to join us for any event or for the entire year.

Our event opens to the public at 6am and vendors are asked to stay set-up until 2pm. Admission is FREE. There is adjacent and convenient parking to the north of grounds for $10, which is coordinated by our Cedarburg American Legion Post # 288. Attention All Doll Lovers! ~ Mark your Calendars to Attend the 47th Annual Madison Area Doll Club's Show and Sale "Dolls! Dolls! Dolls!"

Article & Photos by Vicki Kutz (Madison Area Doll Club)

For the past 46 years, the Madison Area Doll Club has put on one of the premiere doll shows in the Midwest. Held in Madison, Wisconsin it is within travel distance for many of Midwest doll enthusiasts! Mark the date: Saturday, March 24th from 9:00 AM to 3:00 PM at the Exhibition Hall at Alliant Energy Center, 1919 Alliant Energy Way, Madison WI 53713. Admission is 5.00 per person with children under 18 years of age free. There is a 7.00 per vehicle parking fee at Alliant, so bring a car load of other doll collectors with you to share the cost!

The show features a large number of doll vendors from the Midwest in a well-lit display area. Whatever your interest, you will find it here! Dolls of all eras and types are represented, including antique, vintage, modern, and artist dolls. Also included are doll clothing, accessories, furniture, Steiff animals and anything doll-related! And I've heard one vendor will also be bringing some boy toys, such as old metal cars and trucks.

From antique French and German dolls to Barbie Dolls to today's beloved Reborn Babies, you will be delighted with the doll displays that will greet you once you walk-through the entry doors! Our vendors are varied and offer not only a great variety of types and eras of dolls, but also a large price range. So, if you are just starting out with a doll collection or are an advanced collector, there will be many choices for you to choose from!

Our vendors include many well-known local, regional and national doll sellers, and we anticipate adding some new vendors to our show. We are still accepting vendors for this show; please see contact information at bottom of article.

The show offers free doll appraisals (donation appreciated) and repair consultations. We added silent auctions last year and they were such a great success, we will be having them again this year! As always, we will have a free grand prize drawing that some lucky attendee will win. We also feature our club's doll display where you will find many different types of dolls represented by our club members in various scenes. Included this year will be dolls with the ribbons they won at the annual UFDC Conventions.

A food court area will be present in the exhibition hall and offers delicious salads, sandwiches, coffee and beverages. There is also an outside area with chairs so you can sit down and take a break, as well as chat with other doll lovers about your purchases or things you have seen at the show.

The Madison Area Doll Club is a non-profit club and profits from the show support other local and national non-profit organizations.

Two Days of Strong Prices at Millers Auction Co. Advertising Auction in Tomah, Wisconsin

Article & Photos by Glenn Miller

The auction was held at the Monroe County Fairgrounds in Tomah, WI. This auction contained some excellent original advertising signs. With so many fantastic pieces, there was something for every collector! Some of the highlights are shown here.

Millers Auction Company has been conducting auctions in Tomah, WI since 2008. The auctions started out as a general line of antique items with a few signs and advertising. The signs and advertising always seemed to sell the best. So as the years have gone by we have progressed into specializing in selling signs and advertising. Van Briggle Pottery & Tile

In 1899, when Artus Van Briggle stepped off the train in Colorado Springs he must have felt worlds away from the studios of Paris and the landscapes of Italy where his extraordinary talents had so recently flourished. Here, however, surrounded by the beauty of the Rocky Mountains, the defining moments of his life would occur; the twin destinies of a great artistic triumph and an imminent personal tragedy would unfold, leaving in their wake the dawn of a 100 year artistic legacy - Van Briggle Pottery - an American tradition in art pottery since 1899.

Artus Van Briggle, an American artist of Dutch descent, was established as a world class painter in Europe. Having been trained at the finest academies there, and with paintings accepted by the Paris Salon, he received the highest honors for a painter in his day. Yet his artistic passions would ultimately lead him away from his brush, canvas, and easel toward another artistic pursuit that would ultimately define his genius.

Though Artus was a brilliant painter, his artistic passions were most eloquently expressed in the forms and colors of one of history's oldest arts - pottery. From his years as a celebrated artist at the famed Rookwood Pottery in Ohio he knew firsthand the extraordinary range of expression an artist could achieve with the potter's materials. His pursuit was the creation of exquisite satin matte glazes, like those he'd seen on ancient Chinese masterworks, in a palette of glorious colors, never achieved by any artist in modern times. The materials this brilliant artist would use for his greatest artistic pursuit would be minerals from the earth - clays, feldspars, oxides, - and the glowing orange flames of a fiery kiln. When transformed by the creative mind and the skilled hand these materials become the essence of both humanity and nature blended in unity. Clay and glaze are indeed extravagant media, offering the artist a lifetime of challenges and rewards. Artus, however, didn't have a lifetime - tragically, he had contracted tuberculosis and, though a relatively young man, his future was uncertain.

Artus had achieved some success in discovering a formula for these beautiful matte glazes prior to his arrival in Colorado but he continued his work there, seeking a standard of perfection not yet achieved. Pottery is a melding of art and science, and during the time when he conducted his experiments Artus knew success could not come without the patience of a scientist and the passion found in all great artists. He pursued his vision with tireless effort, though the effects of failing health often interrupted his progress. No specific date is recorded, but one day in the spring of 1901 he reached into the kiln, with the anticipation known well by countless potters throughout the ages, and finally held in his hands the perfect, rich, matte-glazed pottery he had sought for so long - the first pieces created in centuries, the first ever on this side of the world. Against the odds of failing health and a pursuit which no western artist had ever achieved, he succeeded; his passion was realized - a lost art was now reborn. The world would once again see and touch of the soft marble-like glazes first known by ancient Chinese masters half a world and so many generations away.

When you hold in your hand a piece of fine artistry and craftsmanship, a human creation with elegant lines and a sensual surface - something experienced by the eyes and hands and ultimately felt by the soul, you'll know what Artus Van Briggle was seeking - and what he ultimately achieved. He lived to see his artistic passion fulfilled before his own mortality could eclipse his dream. Though the sun setting on his own life, a new era was on the horizon for one of the oldest arts in history.

Once perfected, Artus Van Briggle's exquisite new glazes graced his elegant Art Nouveau pottery designs which were sent across the Atlantic and, when shown to Europe's best art judges, were proclaimed, "A supreme discovery in modern ceramics." Soon, art critics across the continents marveled at his works, lavished him with praise, and brought international acclaim to this quiet American artist on the Colorado frontier.

Before long, he succumbed to tuberculosis and died there in the shadow of the Rocky Mountains, but not before receiving word that when shown at Exhibitions here in the United States and in the Salons of Europe, his creations had won their highest awards.

Van Briggle Pottery is the living heritage of an extraordinary artist whose heart and hands were given only half a lifetime, and to his wife, Anne, whose own dedication and fine artistry after Artus' death carried their vision to success in its earliest years. Together they left a timeless and permanent imprint on the tradition of American art pottery. With each passing year and with each new piece created, their artistic legacy continues, a legacy in known as:

Van Briggle - a Tradition in American Art Pottery since 1899.
