Out & About

Well the Groundhog predicts an early spring. We will see if his prediction is accurate. So far, I think we have had almost every kind of weather condition in one week.

For those of you who send photos by Google Drive, remember to make sure you send them unlocked. Our preferred method of receiving photos is through your regular email. Photos and documents sent or created in newer programs can create conflict for us. You can always call us at 715-524-3076 to ask how best to send your information to us. When sending a PDF be sure to call to get our color and size specifications. If you have a budget you are working with, let us know, so that we can better serve you, our customer.

Well we left off last week with Saturday morning. When we woke up it was already -30 degrees actual temperature. We went to breakfast with one of Mekenzy's colleague, her hockey rink supervisor Monica.

We talked for about two hours. Then, the family went for a drive, something we try to do every time we are there. We always like to see what Mekenzy talks about, so we can feel connected. One item was the parking, like I mentioned before, it is just amazing. Well, the students struggle to find parking, so for many, the students have taken advantage of the lake. They have conveniently turned it into a parking lot, a long time tradition going back decades. It turns out to be a shorter walk to get to class and is free. Mekenzy said, you can see roughly 100 cars or more sometimes. It is always one of the highlights for the students who give the college tours this time of year to point out to the parents and students. It always amazes those who have never experienced snow. More next week...

Waukesha Expo Center Hosts the 67th Fall Wisconsin Antiques Dealers Association Show

Article & Photos by Michelle Goltz

The Wisconsin Antiques Dealers Association was founded in 1948, it is a not-for-profit organization that has two shows per year. The admission into the show funds college scholarships as well as grants to WI historic preservation groups. They not only give back they also have a Special Display each show to share knowledge on a theme and this show was about the "Antique Candy Containers" The 1900s were the golden years for candy containers. At the show was a great variety of some of the collector's collection on display. They not only share their collections they are prepared to answer questions and share knowledge with other candy container enthusiasts as well as talking to others that would like to learn more about the collections.

Other great things that you were able to be seen throughout this amazing show was vintage Christmas items, fine jewelry, antique furniture, vintage household items, pictures, glassware, stoneware, clothing and much, much more. Each show I attend I think to myself how many new things will I be impressed with and each time it is more than I could imagine. I am always so captivated by all the history and knowledge I walk away with, never a dull moment when walking down the aisles full of amazing displays and people! The next show February 1 & 2nd 2019 and the theme will be "Made in Wisconsin" so mark your calendar! Be sure to check out their website: www.WisconsinAntiquesDealers.com or call 414-510-4441. Make sure you don't miss it!

Jade Maori War Club Brings $11,000 at Rainbow Traders Auction in Illinois

Article & Photos by Rainbow Traders

The auction featured a Jade Maori war club from New Zealand that sold for $11,000, plus 10%. Axes again were very strong, with a small but high quality relic bring $7,500 and a smaller Nelio ax reaching $2,100. Spades stayed strong, two smaller but high grade discoidals brought $2,700 and $1,700 respectively.

Quality pottery was also strong, a Mayan jar went for $600. High grade but damaged and smaller flint points were surprisingly strong like a damaged clovis that brought $1,150.

Outstanding flint relics included a fine St. Louis Co. clovis, large Hardins, Daltons, several nice Dovetails, colorful Kansas points, Kentucky clovis, large Kentucky Dover spade, numerous colorful bird points and an fantastic notched hoe pictured in "Who's Who #1".

Tom Wyatt as a frequent exhibitor at relic shows throughout the Midwest, won numerous awards for his conscientiously assembled collection focusing on Western corner tangs and Paleo points. Having hunted relics since childhood in Henderson, KY, Tom continued to search throughout his life in east central Kansas & especially after his retirement from civil service & the Kansas Army National Guard. Tom was founder and first President of the Kansas Archaeological Society, Tom published several articles in various archaeological journals and appears in "Who's Who #9 & #10".

Growing up in Bibb Co., Alabama, Charlie West can't remember a time in which he did not hunt Indian relics. Born in June 1936, he served in the Army Signal Corps as a US Army Captain in Alabama in the early 1960's. Charlie taught educational Psychology in Tennessee and 32 years at the University of Illinois. In his career he published 4 books & over 60 articles. He published several articles and has had relics pictured in Central States Archaeological Journal and Prehistoric American. As an avid field hunter he discovered over 30 sites in Tennessee, Alabama and Illinois.

Thomas "Tommy" Johnson grew up in the small town of Lafayette, Louisiana, where he was constantly searching the fields for relics with his brother, Paxton, from an early age. He documented several sites in Louisiana and as an adult helped co-found and serve as President of the Louisiana State Archeological Society. He also was instrumental in preserving the well known Poverty Point Site. Having raised five fine children & during and after a successful career as a petroleum engineer, his passion for collecting sent him to achieve a degree in archaeology from the University of Louisiana at Lafayette. He was well known as a sponsor for Indian guides and seminars for groups of grade school students & in establishing the Southwest Louisiana Youth Sports Association. The result of Tommy's respect & love of Native American culture has resulted in his impressive seventy years assemblage.

Born in 1922, Ardell Arawinko grew up on a farm hunting Indian relics from an early age in central and western Wisconsin. She continued her passion for discovery throughout her life until her passing in 2010. Upon her retirement from hospital work, she & her husband expanded their search throughout the United States assembling relics from most of the states of the union.

Mr. Keenan Culkins began hunting relics at the age of 6 with his father in Fulton Co., IL and has continued walking the fields for over 50 years.

The American Bar Lip Decanter- Form and Function

By Bill Morrison

The cultural history of material objects can reflect events and industrial processes in unexpected and interesting ways. They were often created to cater to specific social trends or phenomena, became part of the fabric of everyday life, but then disappeared almost as quickly as they appeared, to be replaced in turn by improved versions and styles.

The bar lip decanter is one such object, and its history offers a fascinating glimpse of the social and economic development of America's first 100 years, as well as the evolution of glass manufacturing in this country. It appears that the bar lip decanter was an exclusively American form. While catalog illustrations confirm that they were manufactured elsewhere, foreign-made examples appear to have been specifically made for export to the US, as bar lip decanters do not appear to have been used elsewhere in the world.

The 1830s witnessed radical changes in the interior design of bars and saloons. The traditional layout had placed the keeper "behind bars," in a caged area with an opening to the taproom, to protect him and his inventory from unruly customers. However, as bars became more open, the ironwork disappeared and shelves were fitted to a wall behind the tender's back for displaying his range of liquors.

Bars and saloons continued to store large quantities of liquor in barrels, but a means was required to house liquor at the counter in a manner that helped project a suitably refined image. Pottery stoneware jugs were old fashioned and suffered practical disadvantages.

By 1845 new-style city bars had begun to resemble their modern descendants, fitted with elegant trappings and comfortable furniture, intended to attract more discerning customers than old-fashioned saloons.

Newspapers began to describe some as "drinking palaces," with long rows of decanters behind the bar. On the other hand, sleazy bars and saloons were referred to as "barrel shops" because they still poured directly from barrels, not decanters.

With most liquor during the period remaining colorless, sophisticated establishments would have required decanters of differing shapes, sizes and designs to assist the bar tender in identifying specific brands. Blown molded and engraved bar lip decanters first appeared between 1830-1840 to meet this specific need.

By the late 1850s the blown decanters were being replaced by pressed versions in numerous patterns and sizes.

The bar lip decanter enjoyed a heyday spanning just 45 years, between circa 1830-75, during which decanters in countless patterns, shapes and sizes, were being manufactured by dozens of American glass houses. Two factors, one technical, one sociological, combined to cause its ultimate demise.

The first technological advance was the development of lime-based glass, which was around sixty-percent cheaper to produce than lead-based equivalents. The increased workability of lime glass allowed more efficient manufacturing methods and encouraged the introduction of cheap, labeled bottles.

The associated cultural change was rapid "nationalization" of American drinking preferences. Soldiers who had traveled the country during the Civil War returned home having newly acquired tastes for particular brands that had previously been unknown in their hometown or state. The smoother and more flavorful liquors developed by some distillers, notably in the south and east, proved particularly popular. Early Times (1860) and Jack Daniels (1866) are only two of several brands established at the time of the civil war and reconstruction. Bar owners were quick to recognize the commercial potential that "added value" brands brought to their business, and the explosive expansion of the railroads provided the routes of national distribution.

Advances in bottle-making technology encouraged the manufacture and the distribution of new "branded bottles" embossed with the type of the liquor, or branded and decorated with logos identified with specific brands. The first "bar bottles" appeared in the McKee catalog of 1871, and within four years bar lip decanters had all but disappeared from glass catalogs.

Bitters-sized decanters survived longer as they were adapted for use as sauce bottles, with examples illustrated in catalogs into the early part of the 20th century.

MYSTERY AT THE MUSEUM

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 22, FROM 7:00 - 10:00 PM OR SATURDAY, MARCH 2, FROM 7:00 - 10:00 PM

Mystery, Mayhem, Murder! Join us for a live game of "Who dun it?" in the unmatched surroundings of Hearthstone's beautiful interiors. Guests assume the persona of characters... think heiresses, playboys, millionaires, art dealers and authors (but some may not be what they appear to be!) in an Agatha Christie-type mystery to try to solve (or sometimes commit!) murder. Guests will be sent identity packages via email at least two week prior to the event. Costumes are strongly encouraged (it's part of the fun!). All tickets include hors d'oeuvres, wine, and other beverages served by our docents in the roles of maids and butlers. One of our staff keeps everything on track towards a suspenseful conclusion. Prizes are awarded for best costumes and for guessing the identity of the killer (or could that be killers?). It's dinner and daggers (figuratively if not literally!) and danger surrounded by Hearthstone's beautifully restored rooms. All proceeds support the work of Friends of Hearthstone, Inc., a 501 (c) 3 public charity, that lovingly restores the interior, exterior, and operations of our 1882 mansion and museum.
