One Day, One-Thousand Vintage Toys, at September 29th W. Yoder Auction Service Toy Sale

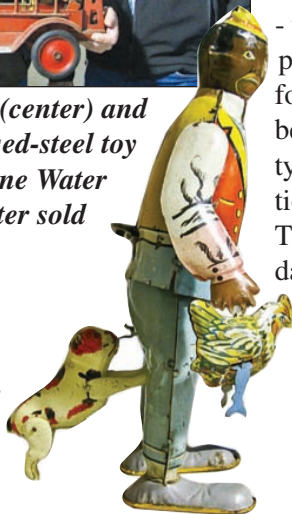

Article & photos by Brian Maloney

Antique tin toy enthusiasts gathered in Wautoma, Wisconsin on September 29th for a fantastic W. Yoder Auction Service sale. More than one-thousand period toys sold in around four-hundred lots - the great majority of them lithographed tin examples. You probably know Yoder Auction Service for the big antique consignment auctions they've become famous for, but they also conduct specialty auctions of all kinds - from firearms to occupational shaving mugs to this vintage toy auction. There were countless highlights throughout the day, including a classic Lehmann Velleda windup toy car that fetched $1,100.

Auctioneer Wayne Yoder (center) and crew with one of the pressed-steel toy highlights: a 30" Keystone Water Tower Fire Truck that later sold for $350.

It took a $925 bid to snag this rare, patented-1926 Marx Hey Hey the Chicken Snatcher toy.

This early Lehmann Matsuyama Rickshaw toy was in nice shape, and brought $800.

Patented-1903 E. P. Lehmann Li La Hansom Cab, working condition, wear & rust noted - $850.

Winner among all of the lithographed tin toys: this patented 1913 & 1927 Lehmann Velleda wind-up auto that made a solid $1,100.

Out & About

The leaves are gone and snow is around the corner. For some making snowmen and snow angels is what they are looking forward to, others see work and more challenges. Don't forget to check the snowblower before the snow and buy the shovel before the first snow fall. Be courteous and check if your elderly neighbors need help getting ready for the winter. Advertisers, remember to call and confirm we have received your photos and text. If we do not know you are sending us information, we do not know it has not arrived. Best to send text separate from photos, as photos can take longer. Be sure to note that photos are to follow and how many there are.

On a lighter note: the kids are having their first boy/girl Halloween party. We started decorating the house this last weekend. So far, we have managed to scare a few people when they drop off the kids and they open the garage door to a life size scarecrow sitting in a chair. Brandon gets a huge kick out of it, along with hiding and trying to scare the rest of us all the time.

Lithographed Tin Toys the Focus at W. Yoder Auction in Wautoma, Wisconsin

Article & photos by Brian Maloney

It seems like just yesterday that they held their very first auction, but W. Yoder Auction has now been serving Wisconsin's and the Midwest's auction needs for more than a decade. Many of their sales are held at the Yoder Auction Center just outside the central Wisconsin town of Wautoma, as this September 29th toy auction was. And while there were some pressed steel and even celluloid toys scattered around the room, the main focus of the sale was on period lithographed tin toys.

Popularly known as litho-tin, these toys are actually made of thin sheet steel that has been tin-plated. The earliest types, made in the mid-19th century, were all painted by hand. That all changed a few decades later with the advent of offset lithography printing. A full-color image could now be quickly printed onto the still-flat sheet with a lithograph press, after which the metal was formed into the desired shape and assembled as a toy, often with a spring-wound mechanism inside.

German firms took the lead in the production of litho-tin toys, most notably the company founded by Ernst Paul Lehmann in 1881. The tin toy-winner of the sale was that previously-mentioned Lehmann Velleda car that brought $1,100. There were many other Lehmann examples at the auction though, from a patented-1903 Li La Hansom cab in nice condition that made $850, to an early Lehmann Matsuyama Rickshaw toy right behind at $800.

The popularity of tin toys was two-fold. They were much cheaper to produce than either wood or cast metal toys, and just as important in an increasingly international toy market: lighter and thus cheaper to ship. Soon firms in both France and England entered the market, and by the early 20th century companies in the United States as well.

The most widely recognized of those American makers is Louis Marx and Company. Founded in 1919 by New Yorkers Louis and David Marx, it quickly became a major player in the toy market. Their first two toys were litho-tin: the Alabama Coon Jigger and Zippo the Climbing Monkey. A rare 1926 Hey Hey the Chicken Snatcher toy was the best of the Marx toys at this sale, bringing $925. Other Marx highlights: a 1930s Popeye the Champ toy that brought $500, and a classic Amos & Andy Taxi Cab complete with box that fetched $475.

And as it did in many arenas of manufacturing, Japan became a prominent maker of lithographed tin toys after WWII. Many were now battery-operated instead of being wound with a key. And although they're not even half the age of those earlier European tin toys, they are just as popular with collectors. A good example at this sale was a Japanese Cragstan Toys NBC Television TV Truck. It was in great condition, and with a nice box too sold for a solid $700.

Auctioneer for the day was Wayne Yoder. W. Yoder Auction Service has been serving Wisconsin's auction needs since 2003, conducting antique and specialty consignment auctions at their 8,000 square-foot facility in Wautoma, as well as numerous on-site estate, real estate, and farm auctions throughout the year. Wayne said to remind readers about their big vintage advertising sale - coming up on October 27th right here at Yoder Auction Center in Wautoma. W. Yoder Auction Service can be reached at 920-787-5549, or through their website www.wyoderauction.com. And as always, keep an eye out for all of their upcoming auction listings in the Auction Action Antique News!

This oversized facsimile edition of Frank Leslie's nineteenth century Civil War history is richly illustrated with 740 period engravings. The subjects illustrated include portraits of political and military leaders, famous forts, pivotal battles and naval engagements, military encampments, and major events arranged chronologically to follow the course of the war. These images were created by a corps of war artists employed by Frank Leslie for his illustrated newspapers. Years later these prints from 1861 to 1865 were recovered and assembled in this volume. Along with the fascinating illustrations and concise history is a range of official data taken from the nation's war records, including the numbers for troops who entered the Union army by state, the war's principle battles, their generals, and numbers killed and wounded. Indexes to Civil War history and this book's illustrations are included. This book is a historical treasure for all who are fascinated with the Civil War.

Twenty-five Years Old, Four Hundred & Fifty Dealers Strong - The Third Sunday Antiques Market in Bloomington, Illinois

Article & photos by Brian Maloney

At first glance, Bloomington, Illinois might not seem like the logical location for a large and successful antiques show. If you take a second look though, it makes a lot of sense. Bloomington, along with its sister city Normal, is the fastest growing metropolitan area in Illinois. The twin-cities have garnered numerous accolades in recent years as well, such as Money Magazine's "Best Places to Live" award, and were somewhat surprisingly rated as one of the top-five places to play golf in the U.S. by Golf Digest Magazine.

Located half-way between Chicago and St. Louis, Bloomington-Normal is located within three-hundred miles of an amazing thirty-million people, and an hour's drive or less for nearly three-quarters of a million folks.

The show was founded by Bloomington natives Don and Carol Raycraft back in 1988. Their names may be familiar to you, since they've authored more than fifty books on antiques and collectibles, ranging from Collecting Baseball Player Autographs to the popular Raycraft's Auction Field Guide, written by Don along with his son R.C.

"I've never been an antiques dealer" Don told me, "but I've been collecting since I was a boy. Back in 1988, we realized there was a need for an antiques show here in central Illinois, and the Third Sunday Antiques Market was born. At that first show, we were literally stunned to see 1,000 people lined up to get in, and the show's been growing ever since." Don has largely handed over the reins of the show to son Mike, whose public relations experience serves the event well. "With well over four-hundred dealers to choose from, shoppers are likely to find what they're looking for," related Mike. "We try to always have a wide cross-section of dealers at each show, ranging from high-end American furniture to vintage toys and sporting collectibles. And it's definitely not a flea market - with probably around 90% of the dealers selling quality antiques and collectibles."

The dealers come from more than a dozen states, some even as far as Canada. "We're very pleased with the dealers for 2012," Mike said, "despite the economy, the dealer count is up, and in fact there's now a waiting list for indoor spaces." Toy purveyor Brass Hat Antiques was one of those indoor vendors, bringing a wide variety of period tin & iron toys and much more. My favorite there: a 1920s Marx wind-up litho-tin coupe complete with box, asking price $575.

Michigan's Time's Past Antiques display was completely different - a wonderland of vintage advertising of all sorts, including some choice light-up soft drink advertising clocks. They had the classic Pepsi-Cola and R C Cola clocks, plus rarities like a Vess Billion Bubbles Beverages clock, price tag $525.

And country decorators couldn't have been disappointed with what they found here, from primitive furniture & accessories galore at both Country at Heart Antiques and Bare Your Heart Antiques among many others.

As its name suggests, Third Sunday Antiques Market is held on the third Sunday of each month, from May through November. Fifteen years ago, the event grew so large it moved to the Interstate Center, a 120-acre facility right at the intersection of Interstates I-39, I-55, and I-74. You can visit the hundred-plus outdoor vendors in the morning, then if it gets a little warm (or cold); see 300 more inside the climate controlled main exhibition halls.

Be sure to check out their website too: www.thirdsundaymarket.com. There, you'll find directions to the facility, links to local lodging and dining, as well as dealer information. If you missed this September 16th show, the one-day Third Sunday Antiques Market will be back at the Interstate Center for a total of two more 2012 dates: October 21st, plus a brand-new November edition - happening this year on the 18th. And as always, keep an eye out for listings of the Third Sunday Antiques Market in the Auction Action Antique News!

Signs were the focus at Pam & Jack Barnett's display. They've been setting up at the Third Sunday Market shows for more than a decade. 618-922-1263

I found these early litho-tin jigger toys at Brass Hat Antiques - the Lehmann Alabama Coon Jigger priced at $395, the Carter's Toys Pan-Gee the Funny Dancer at $320. 765-404-1499

Matched pair of 1920's German Halloween noisemakers, from Brass Hat Antiques - $165 each. 765-404-1499

Two Arcade cast iron 1933 Century of Progress buses from Brass Hat Antiques: the 10 1/2" version priced at $250, the smaller at $185. 765-404-1499

A wonderland of period advertising awaited at Times Past Antiques, among the inventory this Drink Vess Billion Bubbles Beverage lit bubble clock, asking price $525. 217-419-1422

Michigan vendor Jerry Krenk Antiques had perhaps the best furniture display at this August Third Sunday Market, with examples like this Arts & Crafts 42" round oak table with two leaves ($745) and four oak dining chairs - $160 each. 269-679-4616

This 6' oak country store counter was $1,295 at Apt Antiques - the vintage Mobo rocking horse atop it priced at $350. 309-331-3579

Two marked Limbert oak armchairs from Jerry Krenk Antiques; the leather cushion version priced at $495, the solid seat chair at $425. 269-679-4616

Two exceptional iceboxes from Apt Antiques; the two-door version in cream paint priced at $445, the Alaska oak version with fancy brass hardware at $695. 309-331-3579

Three more choice lighted advertising clocks from Times past Antiques: the "double dot" Pepsi-Cola and Shell versions priced at $375 each, the Royal Crown Cola at $275. 217-419-1422

Shoppers found an eclectic mix of advertising & sporting collectibles at Wolf Creek Antiques, from a fifty-pound Chief Anderson Pure Lard tin (with Native American image, $49) to this 36" South Bend "Fish and Feel Fit!" store display stand-up - $350. 217-868-2427

Sporting collector and author Brent Vonderheide came with copies of his new book The Collector's Guide to Glass Minnow Traps. Get yours at www.whitefishpress.com.

There were plenty of vintage sports pennants to choose from at Kitchen Antiques, from this 1956 Milwaukee Braves ($115) to this classic 1960s Green Bay Packers - $145. 608-752-1279

A Smith-Miller truck gives another a lift at Mad Cat Antiques & Collectibles. Take your pick of the GMC Lowboy hauler or the GMC Dump Truck for $275. 319-235-8866

Two unusual Marx litho-tin toys from Mad Cat Antiques & Collectibles: the 1929 Main Street priced at $375, the 1935 Busy Bridge at $350. 319-235-8866

Finds at Now & Then Antiques included this 19th century seascape (from Springfield, Illinois' Brinkerhoff Mansion - $250) and vintage wood & cast iron carnival ornament, 28" tall - $1,295 217-762-2459

Fine tools are a specialty at Hudson House Antiques, where I found dozens of antique ivory folding rules, plus this patented-1901 Bucklin-Orson Rope Winder, asking price $195. 765-534-4722

A tower of country footstools from Country at Heart Antiques, with prices from $110 to $295. 815-795-6616

Another corner at Country at Heart Antiques revealed this Arcade X-Ray coffee grinder ($195) and primitive wooden candy mold of fourteen hearts - $175. 815-795-6616

Sunny Skies greeted the thousands of shoppers at this September edition of the Third Sunday Antiques Market, held at the Interstate Center in Bloomington, Illinois.

Two interesting pieces of railroad memorabilia from Now & Then Antiques: the just acquired Illinois Traction System wooden bulletin board priced at $525, the Adlake lantern with rare Rock Island System embossed glass at $300. 217-762-2459

Near-mint Art Deco penny-scale from Kurt Cable Antiques & Collectibles, a nice buy at $275. 563-451-2528

My favorite among the cobalt-decorated stoneware at Country at Heart Antiques: this three-gallon Pennsylvania jug sporting bold stenciling - $395. 815-795-6616

Revised “Marble Mania”

It is our pleasure to announce the publication & availability of our table top book, Marble Mania. The original book published in July 1998 has been out of print & unavailable for over a year.

The revised edition contains over 240 pages & close to 1,400 illustrations. It has a hard cover with a dust jacket & like the original, covers all of the collectible areas of the hobby of marbles.

The various sections include: Section 1: Marbles Other Than Glass; Section 2: Early Handmade Glass Marbles; Section 3: Machine Made Marbles; Section 4: Contemporary Marbles; Section 5: Games & Toys; Section 6: Other Uses of Marbles. Also included are a glossary of terms, a list of marble clubs, a bibliography, & an index. In addition, each of the photos has a valuation of the item pictured as of the time the book was written & reviewed.

This book joins the seven other marble books the Society has done over the years. The retail price for Marble Mania is $34.99 plus $6 shipping & handling.

It is also timely to note that Schiffer Publishing, Ltd. currently has the 5th edition of Marbles: Identification & Price Guide, 5th edition which should be available later this year.

The Marble Collectors Society of America (MCSA) was founded in 1975 as a nonprofit organization established for charitable, scientific, literary & educational purposes. Society objectives include gathering & disseminating information as well as performing services to further the hobby of marbles, marble collecting, & the preservation of the history of marble s& marble making.

Some of the MCSA's major accomplishments to date are the uninterrupted issuance of the Society's quarterly newsletter, Marble Mania, & accompanying Calendar of Meets, shows & auctions; various surveys; photographing & publishing color sheets; gathering & placing museum collections, in addition to those currently housed at The Smithsonian Institute, The Corning Museum of Glass, & the Museum of American Glass at WheatonArts; publication of price guides with periodic updates; ongoing work towards establishing a library of articles & marble related material; preparation & publication of contributor listings; research & issuance of articles concerning marble factories & contemporary marble makers; publication of books dedicated to the hobby of marble collecting; classification & appraisal services.

Finally, MCSA has been an active & vital participant in the growth & visibility of the marble field throughout its 35 year history. The Society also recognizes its obligations as the leading voice & reporting agency for the hobby, a task taken very seriously.

For more information on MCSA write to PO Box 222, Trumbull, CT 06611.
