Article & photos by Rich Penn Auctions

The Rich Penn May Auction Event was billed as "Rack 'em, Sack 'em & Rock 'em" and they did all of that! The two day auction event held in Des Moines, IA on May 3rd & 4th brought Billiard, Country Store and Rock & Roll collectors from across the country. Those in-house bidders competed fiercely with 2,000 online bidders from nearly 40 countries across the globe and the majority of pieces sold to in-house bidders. When the auction opened at 9:00 AM, Rich Penn thanked all those in attendance for making the trip to Des Moines, which was precarious for many. According to Penn, "This is the first time our spring auction, in early May was greeted with 5" of snow, but this is Iowa. So if you don't like the weather, wait 15 minutes and it'll be something different!" He was correct, the balance of the weekend warmed up and ended up being quite nice.

Billiard cue rack, J.M. Brunswick & Balke Rotary Cue Rack, ebonized cherry w/heavy gold gilding, c.1870's, holds 16 cues, most likely a "one-of-a-kind" specimen built for a person of importance, revolves perfectly & is expertly restored, a Very Rare rack in Exceptional cond, 86"H x 22"Dia. Sold at $8,500.

Semi-Annual Kalamazoo Toy Show Draws Visitors From all Across the US and Canada

Article & photos by Jack Kelly

Vendors and visitors came from Nevada, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Florida and Texas plus states bordering Michigan as well as Ontario, Canada for the semi-annual Circus Maximus Toy Show on May 18 at the Expo Center, on the fairgrounds in Kalamazoo, Mich.

Vendors appeared happy with breezy warm temperatures as they unloaded and set up on the Friday before the event – a change from chilly non-spring conditions earlier in the week.

Many stopped to admire the Buddy L sprinkler truck tagged $2,800 by Dan Davids, Reno, Nev. 775-750-0452.

A late 1940s Buddy Lee doll dressed like a Gulf gas station attendant caught the eye of both toy and advertising collectors. The 13" tall toy could be purchased for $1,250. 219-201-1640.

Many stopped to admire the Ideal 34" tall cast iron and wood sewing machine priced at $2,400. 715-571-1209.

Billiard, Country Store & Rock-n-Roll Collectors Flocked to Rich Penn's Incredible 2 Day Auction

Article & Photos by Rich Penn Auctions

According to Penn, "Quality and condition are still bringing strong prices and the market seems to be picking up strength." His comments were supported by examples throughout the auction. Saturday's session largely included the Phil Norton Country Store Collection, from Ohio. Phil attended the auction with his two granddaughters and all three seemed to enjoy the excitement.

The top lot in the Saturday session was the Montelaize Vigorola Syrup dispenser. Penn told the audience, "We've sold hundreds of syrup dispensers and this one is the most pristine dispenser we've ever sold. It looks like it was never used." The dispenser ended up bringing a $6,750 price. These reported prices do not include the 10% to 20% buyer's premium. Spice tins were also popular in the auction and Norton and hundreds of them. Many commanded "Spicy" prices too! One lot of five, including Dandy-Line by Colter, Sunset Gold by Piggly-Wiggly & Burke's by Burke Grocery Co.-Cinc, shook out a top bid of $1,000. Two other lots, A Daisy Dell Brand Allspice and a Foltz Maid Cloves each sold for $850. But the top spice lot was the rare Dove Brand 5 drawer oak spice cabinet from the Frank Tea & Spice Co., Cincinnati, OH. It brought a tasty $3,500 top bid.

From spices to razors...the interest held up. Small things continued to bring big prices. A small, 7" x 7" counter top display for Tree Brand Razors, sliced off a big bid of $2,700. The display, from H. Boker & Co. came with a selection of six miscellaneous celluloid straight razors. Advertising collectors all appreciated the beautiful lithography in the two excellent condition stone lithos for Cascarets Candy Cathartic. The large paper signs, 28" x 41" commanded an impressive $2,300 and $2,250.

The variety at Penn's auction kept bidders interested and there were significant pieces throughout the auction. One of the pieces was the Willimantic Linen Exposition Spool cabinet. The impressive display features a towering structure of spool thread in the form of a building. It likely was made for the Philadelphia or Columbian expos. The piece quickly attracted a winning bid of $2,200. Another piece that sold at that $2,200 price was the coin-operated Blackhawk Brand aspirin vendor. In excellent original condition, the machine came nearly full of original tiny canisters containing aspirins. Also selling at the $2,200 price...but much larger, was the 12' long oak Sherer seed counter. Correct, with all its signed pulls and appropriate transfers & tags, it will make a keystone piece to any country store collection. Petroliana collectors were pumped with excitement when a rare ripple glass Mobilgas globe crossed the block. With two glass panels showing the iconic Pegasus logo, and even a small crack in the collar, the globe still metered a $2,100 top bid.

Even though the Saturday session featured 600 lots, guest auctioneer Fred VanMetre kept the pace throughout and finished the session in late afternoon. Sunday's session was shorter, with just over 400 lots and began promptly at 9:00.

Sunday's session featured the billiard collection of Dave Laney and the Rock & Roll collection of Sarah & Ryan King. And things did "rock" with the billiard pieces racking up top bids. With dozens of classic Brunswick pieces, midway through the Sunday session came the very rare J.M. Brunswick & Balke "Nonpareil" cue rack. With all its original lettering, it attracted both strong in-house and internet bidding. The successful in-house bidder came from California and took the rack home for $10,000. Another rare Brunswick cue rack was the elegant rotary, in ebonized cherry wood with gold gilding, it spun up quickly to an equally elegant top bid of $8,500.

Decorative billiard pieces did well too. A framed souvenir poster from the 1883 World Championship Billiard Match in Chicago, shot straight to a winning bid of $5,000. A reverse paint on glass sign for the Metropolitan Billiard Hall sold at Advertising sign, Cascarets Candy Cathartic, "They Work While You Sleep", early stone lithography on paper from Morgan Litho Co.-Cleveland, extremely colorful w/10+ colors, never before displayed & always folded, minor separations at fold line & 1" separation on right outer border, o/wise Exc cond w/outstanding color, 28"H x 41.5"W. Sold at $2,300.

$4,000. Two framed Brunswick "Billiard Experts of the World" posters, in the red and green versions, sold for $2,800 and $2,500 respectively. For those ready to shoot a classic game of billiards, the Brunswick Emanuel heavily inlaid table sold at $4,500. An equally striking pair of ornately carved spectator chairs sold for nearly as much at $4,000.

With Rock & Roll pieces mixed in, the Sunday session had an interesting harmony! One of everyone's favorite pieces had an age difference of about 100 years and five generations from the pieces in the billiard collection. Both collections reflecting the main pastimes of the young in their respective generations. So it wasn't surprising that the 1979 Bally "Kiss" pinball machine played well for a winning bid of $2,300. A collectable set of four posable Kiss "action" figures, in their original boxes, walked up to a top bid of $600. A set of composition Kiss heads, each one autographed, sold for $500. A signed Frank Zappa concert contract brought $400 and a Beatles third state Butcher album brought $475. Another album, c.1971, Led Zeppelin IV, with all four band member autographs, sold to a Zeppelin fan for $850. Everyone wondered about the Gibson Les Paul guitar. In its original case, it strummed its way up to a respectable $750 bid. But one of the more surprising lots in the auction was at the end of the session. Lot #1034 had six comic books, including three early "Golden Age" comics. They were a World's Finest No. 14 with Superman & Batman, a Detective Comics No. 65 with Batman & Robin and an Action Comics No. 16, with Superman. The lot of six exploded to a top bid of $800 in an instant. Again...another reflection of the favorite pastime of several generations removed. Penn concluded, "All in all this was a fun and successful auction. We offered collections that spanned over a hundred years and there was solid interest across the timeline. What fun it was to watch the bidders, younger and older!"

Penn's next auction is the weekend of November 1, 2 & 3, 2013 and will also be in Des Moines, IA. The American studio glass movement can be traced to 1962, when Harvey Littleton, a professor of ceramics at the University of Wisconsin, had a dream to alter molten glass into unique forms in a studio setting and teach his techniques. For the first time in its 3,500-year history, glass production, that had been limited to factory settings, moved to the artists' studios and became a part of an academic program in the fine arts. Since then, glass has become the fastest growing studio art medium throughout the world. This book takes us from the first workshop in a Toledo, Ohio garage, to reveal decade by decade the unprecedented growth of studio glass. Through high-quality, detailed images and stories, this retrospective of 50 top artists is a collector's dream. Noted art dealer Ferdinand Hampson offers a unique perspective on this exciting evolution.

The Annual Boulder Junction Antiques Show

The annual BOULDER JUNCTION ANTIQUES SHOW sponsored by the Boulder Junction Lioness, will be held on July 12 and 13, 2013 at the Community Center on Hwy M in beautiful Boulder Junction, Wisconsin. If you have never been to this lovely Northern Wisconsin town, you have missed one of the quaintest towns in the area. At one time early on, it was known as Oxley, and there still are families of Oxleys and in around the area. In fact, I met some of the Oxley families at the antiques show in Minocqua, the July 6 & 7 weekend. Boulder Junction is full of gracious people, cute shops, great eating places, wide streets, and everything you need to have a wonderful day. There is great fishing, biking on the best trails the the north woods, a great nature hiking area, many summer camps for youngsters from around the world, swimming and hunting and the finest bird watching areas. How great is that?

The ANTIQUES SHOW & SALE is the best place to start your day. Dealers from several states will have lots of furniture for your viewing and buying pleasure. There will be oak, primitives, pine, early painted pieces, and walnut, lodge look and country, formal and accessories of all kinds. There will be a great selection of Native American pieces, garden furniture, fine jewelry and collectibles, textiles, books, prints, maps, press glass, post cards and other ephemera. Dolls, toys lures, sporting and advertising collectibles. Folk art, early lighting, kitchen collectibles and tools, fine china, depression glass and flow blue china, Old Hickory furniture and art. And much, much more.

This show is just jam packed with wonderful antiques. All this and air-conditioning too. It's difficult to list all of the wonderful antiques you will find at this show. Better not miss this one. There is something for everyone in every price range, to fill out your collection or to start a new one. We call this the ultimate green. There is plenty of parking, and on Friday the Lioness will have their famous bake sale and luncheon for your pleasure, so come early and stay late and enjoy a fun day.

Admission is $5.00, children under 14 are free. Good for both days. Hours are 9:00am - 4:00pm each day.

THIS IS A DON'T MISS SHOW! SEE YOU THERE!

Toy Hunters Swarmed at Kalamazoo Toy Show

Article & Photos by Jack Kelly

Toy train dealer Randy Ramsey of Toledo, Ohio got help from grandson Sean, 10, in setting up at the May show. 419-215-4181.

Kid-size Raggedy Ann and Andy toys, priced $70 each appeared to be greeting visitors at the booth of Ruth Abdelnour of Warren, Mich. ruth 4236@aol.com.

It would take $1,250 to take home this 1920s folding wing biplane home offered by Dudley Maddox of Kenosha, Wis. 262-551-7666.

Shopper Richard McCoy of St. Joseph, Mich., hams it up with a faux kiss to the papier mache French nodder dog, priced at $400 by Glenn and Louise Hoffman of Marathon, Wis. 715-571-1209.

"I've been on the road setting up at shows for nearly two weeks," said Dan Davis from Reno, Nev., adding "It'll be good to go home after Kalamazoo."

Davis wowed the crowds with a 14-inch-long Dolling Mercury gas-powered 1920s race car offered for $3,500. Folks "oohed and ahed" over his pressed steel Buddy L sprinkler truck, priced at $2,800.

Still another Buddy L toy, a 20-inch-long restored Shell gas truck, could be enjoyed at your home for $800. It was shown by Roy Cassatta of Forest Park, Ill. At the same spot, a two-piece tin 1932 Wyandotte Circus truck and trailer was priced at $1,200.

Promotional car collectors swooped down on the booth of Bob Cline, Woodstock, Ill., for his selection of 160 examples, many from his personal collection. The 1949 to 1987 model cars could be taken home at prices ranging from $25 to $400 each. Of special interest were a 1958 Pontiac Bonneville Convertible tagged at $195 and the same car only in the hardtop version could be displayed on your shelf at $250.

Glenn and Louise Hoffman traveled to the show from Marathon, Wis., to show off a fine Ideal Toy 34-inch-tall 1920s cast iron and wood treadle sewing machine priced at $2,400. "We just got that" said Glenn, pointing to a life size French papier mache nodder dog that "need some repair" and was offered for $400.

At least one father-grandson team was at the show. Randy Ramsey of Toledo, Ohio and 10-year-old Shawn showed off a broad selection of toy trains including a collection of Lionel trains priced from $20 to $500 each. They priced a 1947 diecast Berkshire engine and tender for $495.

What does an auto body repair professional do after he retires the job? Howard Hardy of Birmingham, Mich., turned to restoring toy cars! He said it took about eight hours to restore a now-pristine 1936 Wyandotte toy auto and travel trailer, which he offered for $550.

"It's just a 10-minute drive to the show for me" said Russ Looker of Kalamazoo, setting up with "close to 1,000" Hot Wheels cars priced from 50 cents to $1,800 each. The big-ticket car was "a 1984 Mexican issue car" which the dealer said is "very hard to find."

It was the third time setting up at Kalamazoo for Dudley Maddox of Kenosha, Wis., showing cast metal early toys. "This one is rare," said Dudley, pointing to a 1920s folding wing biplane with 18-inch wingspan priced at $1,250. At the same spot, an early 1900s Pratt & Litchworth 16-inch-long carriage with horses and original driver could be taken home for $1,250.

A literal tower of more than two dozen children's tin sand pails priced from $35 to $145 each was shown by Larry and Karilyn Brown of Monon, Ind. The couple also showed off a selection of made-in-Japan tin airplanes priced from $100 to $700 each.

Michael Karberg of Schererville, Ind., mixed vintage advertising items with toys at the May show. A late 1940s Buddy Lee doll with Lion Brand Uniform advertising Gulf gasoline stood 13 inches tall and was priced at $1,250. A 1962 Jetsons TV show board game that Karberg said "many had never heard of, and seldom seen in the original box," could be played at your home for $950.

Show promoter Jim Welytok said he was "pleased with both dealer and visitor count" and added, "many are already signed up to show at the November 30 event." His advice for dealers thinking about November? "Sign up as soon as possible -- all indications are it'll be a sold-out event here at the Expo Center at the fairgrounds in Kalamazoo."

Dump Diggers Will Keynote 2013 RWCS Convention

Dump Diggers Paul Boudin,
Connie Mathison, Dennis Nygaard, and Steve Showers.

Showers, who is known as the “Red Wing archeologist,” has more than 50 years of dump-digging stories to share. Nygaard joined Showers in the dump almost 40 years ago. Together Showers and Nygaard have shepherded many interested diggers, sharing their knowledge and enthusiasm with others.

Red Wing, MN - For decades the Red Wing Pottery Dump Digger educational seminars have been standing-room-only at the annual Red Wing Collectors Society Convention.

With many groundbreaking, exciting things from the past year to report to Red Wing Collectors, the “diggers” will kick off the 2013 Convention - “Diggin’ Red Wing” - as the keynote presenters on Friday, July 11, at Red Wing High School in Red Wing, Minn.

The keynote session will be a panel of longtime dump diggers Steve Showers and Dennis Nygaard, along with newcomers Paul Boudin and Connie Mathison.

Paul Boudin and Connie Mathison joined Showers and Nygaard shortly after joining the RWCS in 2007.

The keynote presentation will give convention attendees an opportunity to experience the lively discussion led by Glenn Beall, education manager. As moderator, Beall will guide the conversation and give each “digger” an opportunity to share experiences in the pottery dump and talk about their favorite finds. It'll be a rare peek, providing a new look at the relationship of these dump enthusiasts.

Convention attendees are encouraged to submit their questions in advance to either Executive Director Stacy Wegner, director@redwingcollectors.org, or education manager Glenn Beall, education@redwingcollectors.org. Submitted questions will be used in the forum discussion and in the question and answer session.

To learn more about the keynote session presenters, be sure to pick up the Convention Supplement and read all the details. Convention supplements will be available starting at pre-registration on Wednesday, July 10, at the Pottery Place Annex, or at Red Wing High School throughout the convention. The Convention Supplement will also be inserted in the Red Wing Republican Eagle on July 10.

To see read more about the 2013 Convention Education Program visit the Education Page and Hands On Education.

The RWCS Annual Convention, Diggin' Red Wing, slated for July 11-13, 2013 in Red Wing MN. To learn more about the annual Convention, or the Red Wing Collectors Society, visit <http://www.erwcs.org>, find them on Facebook, or follow on Twitter.
