Bailey's Honor Auction Features Black Americana & Ethnic Collectibles

Photos & Prices compliments of Bailey's Honor Auctions

Auctioneer Carol Miller, owner of Bailey's Honor Auctions in Oconomowoc, Wisconsin held a specialty auction of Black Americana that featured a wide variety of collectibles including an Automoton Marching Band, a Folk Art Pastel Painting, Wind-up Toys, Postcards, a nice selection of Sterling Spoons, and so much more.

This auction featured a collection of items representing the history of Black Americana. Bailey's Honor Auction Company presented this auction understanding the collection's place in a historical and cultural context. The auction was held online and ended on Thursday, May 16th.

Tin wind-up toys were high on collectors list of items to bid for, with a Jazzbo Jim Tin Roof Dancer selling for $425, a pair of Figural Butler Cast Iron Andirons brought $275, a Folk Art Pastel of a Boy with Rooster (neat item) sold for a very reasonable $45.

This 6.5" Golliwogg Perfume is rather hard to find and is always in demand by perfume bottle collectors. It sold for $40.

This rare tin electric "Skidmore Guard" Mechanical Automoton sold for $425. The automoton measured a total of 39" by 31" and was in working condition.

Spring Edition of the Lake Country Antiques & Art Show Wows Them Again

Article & photos by Brian Maloney

The beautiful Olympic Resort & Spa in Oconomowoc, Wisconsin, again played host to one of the Badger State's premier antiques events: the Lake Country Antiques & Art Show. The spring edition of the event, held on May 31st through June 2nd, featured over seventy respected dealers from throughout the nation. They gather here twice each year at what has become known as one of the finest antiques shows in the Midwest. Quality is always the rule at the show itself, with the crowd getting a chance to see an amazing selection of American & Continental furniture, art, and artifacts from as early as the 18th century.

I found this 34" x 46" Frank Enders oil-on-canvas landscape at Gallery of Wisconsin Art, asking price $1,200. 414-333-1942

Employee Lynn on Country Life...does it get any better than this? I grew up in a suburb of Milwaukee and my "dream life" was to always have a bunch of animals. Well a few years back, I got my dream. We live on a farmette. We've got heifers, chickens, 8 dogs, and a total of about 9 cats. It can be hard work at times, but very fulfilling as well! Here is a little "fun time" we are having. Hanging out with the heifers, playing "peek a boo!", getting a BIG sloppy kiss for playing with them, and afterward just hanging out with "some" of my dogs just relaxing. Yes...This is the Life!

With Seventy Dealers from Across the U.S., Lake Country Antiques & Art Show Doesn't Disappoint

Article & Photos by Brian Maloney

The Lake Country Antiques & Art Show? The name may still not be familiar to you, but the show certainly is, for it's the new moniker for the popular Delafield Antique Show. With the move last season to improved facilities at the Olympic Resort & Spa in nearby Oconomowoc, show promoters Ron & Debby Christman decided to change the name of the event to better reflect the show's position as the premiere antiques event in the region just west of Milwaukee known as the Lake Country.

The new venue has a lot to offer for both visitor and exhibitor alike. There's a generous amount of free parking, plus nearly 20,000 square feet of exhibition space in two adjacent ballrooms. The resort also boasts 190 oversized guest rooms and suites, gourmet dining, an in-house night club - plus the 17,000 square-foot Olympic Spa.

But of course, I was here for an antiques show, and the exhibitor's displays were as impressive as ever. Regional fine art is a specialty here at the Lake Country Show, and among its purveyors was Richard Hartmann's Gallery of Wisconsin Art. Exhibiting here for the first time, he brought examples from iconic Badger State artists of the likes of Aaron Bohrod and Santos Zingale.

And the selection at Ralph Spano Antiques & Fine Art is always impressive. Highlights this spring included a monumental, just-acquired George Raab portrait of a woman; and a Louise Lemp Pabst pastel titled Reclining Nude, price tag $9,500. Anglophile art enthusiasts found dozens of classic English oils at Randall Hopkins Antiques, who travelled from his home in London just for the Lake Country Show.

Period furnishings more your thing? It could be found all over the hall, from high-end Horner & Karpen in the displays of Milwaukee's 9th Street Antiques and Pierce Regal to a wonderland of rustic furniture at Michigan's Christiby's. Things couldn't have looked more different than at first-time exhibitor D & R International Antiques, whose booth was overflowing with continental art, clocks, and more.

And with seventy dealers coming from as far afield as Connecticut, there's something here for every taste and budget - from rare period advertising at Bob's Antiques to classic American country furniture at Country Peddler Antiques to the monstrous 9' paper maché eagle at Crescent Worth Art & Antiques that had originally graced a Wisconsin Eagle Lodge.

It's finds like these that keep shoppers coming back to the Lake Country Antiques & Art Show year after year. Ron and Debby Christman of the Antique Center at Wales did their usual great job organizing the event. Their multi-dealer shop, The Antique Center at Wales, is worth a look too, housed in a beautifully restored 19th century barn in nearby Wales, Wisconsin,

They can be reached at 262-968-4913, or through their website www.antiquescenteratwales.net. If you missed the spring edition of the Lake Country Antiques & Art Show, the autumn edition of the event will be here before you know it, on November 1st through the 3rd. Be sure to check out the Lake Country area's website too - www.livinglakecountry.com - for details about what's happening in this picturesque corner of the Badger State. And as always, keep an eye out for listings of the Lake Country Antiques & Art Shows in the Auction Action Antique News!

Richard Hartman's Gallery of Wisconsin Art came to the Lake Country Show for the first time, bringing Badger State gems like this Robert von Neumann oil painting that had hung for decades in Port Washington's Smith Brothers Restaurant. 414-333-1942

Two Santos Zingale watercolors from Gallery of Wisconsin Art: the 1940 farm scene (20" x 28") priced at $3,200, the 1931 Milwaukee street scene (10" x 15") at $1,750. 414-333-1942

Among the rarities at Gallery of Wisconsin Art sat this Aaron Bohrod oil-on-panel titled "The Shadow Knows." 414-333-1942

Hunt painting, $495) to this funky vintage dentist's anvil - $245. 920-533-8731

You never know what you'll run across at The Calamity House - from this 1931 Peters Cartridge Company Calendar (with Lynn Bogue

From Nancy Andrich Antiques, a full set of framed 1943 Norman Rockwell War Bond posters "The Four Freedoms" - $3,000. 920-474-4593

From Indiana's Paul Fischer Antiques, a hand painted Limoges porcelain fish service, price tag $2,195. 317-590-5721

From Terry & Angela Brinton, a just-acquired set of six 1930s western-themed watercolors by Leonard Reedy, each measuring 8" x 11." 262-637-7770

Country furnishings at Nancy Andrich Antiques included this sponge-painted fireplace surround, asking price $400. 920-474-4593

From Lee Bernard Antiques, an exceptional figured maple & walnut chest, asking price $995. 262-677-2789

A diverse selection of period furniture awaited at Sharron's Antiques, from a tiny enamel-top child's table & chairs ($175) to a wonderful 18th century English mahogany tilt-top table measuring 28" in diameter - $1,599. 414-531-9707

Two great miniature American chests from Henry Teloh Antiques: the circa 1830s Ohio cherry version priced at $1,895, the 1820s New York Empire mahogany at $2,950. 608-230-5197

Henry Teloh Antiques brought a choice group of Wisconsin decoys, among them this high-head Gus Nelow canvasback drake - asking price $395. 608-230-5197

Carved Griffins adorned this mahogany bookcase ($4,795) from Milwaukee's 9th Street Antiques. Atop it, the matched pair of circa-1900 figural cherub lamps, each 43" tall, were priced at $4,295 for the set. 414-254-8885

Two more spectacular finds at 9th Street Antiques: the 1870s mahogany sofa reupholstered in a black & white Italian fabric priced at $4,795, the swan-form bronze chandelier with five Quezal shades at $4,295. 414-254-8885

Bob's Antiques had among the most impressive displays at the Lake Country Show, with examples like this amazing Wisconsin-made folk art marquetry washstand and carved Streissguth Clothing Co. (Milwaukee) advertising clock standing 30" tall - $5,600. 262-242-3968

Antique Oddities at Paul Fischer Antiques included this 18" growling dog bobble-head pull-toy ($2,650) and laughing Devil cast iron chamber-stick measuring 7" in height - $1,895.

It was like a trip to the Northwoods at Michigan's Christiby's, with furniture finds including this rare Old Hickory oval dining suite, all original and priced at $2,950. 231-947-5906

Standouts at The Yankee Pedlar included this 24" folk art paddle-wheeler model ($295) and country pine washstand in an old bittersweet finish - also $295. 608-604-0493

Shoppers found this rare U. U. Navy engraved coffee pot at Redcoat Antiques, circa 1890 and priced at $2,950. 847-426-3207

Country classics were easy to find at The Rock Step, the 28" x 62" reclining lion hooked rug priced at $675, the 40" x 48" jelly cupboard in its original faux-grain finish at $975. 608-362-3074

Standouts at Somerville's Antiques ranged from a nice group of Dedham Pottery to this exceptional 25" tramp art chest, asking price $1,850. 262-348-0157

Milwaukee's Pierce Regal brought their usual excellent selection of period furniture, lighting & more, like this Odd Fellows oak pedestal and caramel slag glass table lamp. 414-385-9820

D & R International Antiques came to the Lake Country Show for the first time, bringing high-end pieces including this Joseph Urbain Melin hunting scene ($18,000) and dated-1787 Continental oak chest - $4,900. 608-627-1990

Horologists found much to love at Ratco Pavlovic's D & R International Antiques, from some choice French gilt examples to this 30" Swiss Black Forest mantel clock, 30" in height & priced at $8,500. 608-627-1990

I caught shopper Emma Reiter admiring this incredible 1930s Navaho child's parade saddle from Susan & Rod Bartha Antiques, with provenance & priced at $7,900. 847-366-1976

It was all-things-British at Redcoat Antiques, like these mid-19th century transfer-ware platters (each 18" in length) priced at $450 and $695. 847-426-3207

Wisconsin artists in the amazing display of Ralph E. Spano Antiques & Fine Art ranged from this Louise Lemp Pabst pastel "Reclining Nude" pastel (28" x 40," $9,500) to this unusual Richard Daley oil - $14,000. 414-475-6735

My two favorites at Country Peddler Antiques: this Chinoiserie tea caddy priced at $785, the 30" hanging apothecary in its original mustard finish at $685. 920-564-6386

Another corner at Christiby's revealed this Rittenhouse rustic white cedar writing desk with side bookcase and corner envelope pockets, circa 1930s and priced at $750. The vintage L. L. Bean Caribou snowshoes above were priced at $135. 231-947-5906

Decorative gems at Crescent Worth Art & Antiques: the 106" paper maché eagle rescued from a Wisconsin Eagle Lodge (here with Colleen Doyle) priced at $2,200, the vintage blue Venetian glass sconces 24" in height and priced at $2,600 for the pair. 847-347-7170

Front & center at Neil Zuehlke Antiques sat this all-original Ohio or Pennsylvania cherry (figured maple chest ($2,500) and framed Centennial sash - $895. 262-966-2660

You'll find a funky mix of the architectural, industrial, and more at Worden Select Objects, among them this zinc-plated steel tank repurposed as a dining table. 269-489-5311

Red Wing Collectors Society Convention Hands-On Pottery Experience With Richard Spiller To Feature International Potter Aba Luostarinen

Red Wing, MN - The Red Wing Collectors Society announces today that Aba Luostarinen, a student potter from Finland, will join Richard Spiller at the 2013 Convention - Diggin' Red Wing slated for July 11-13 at Red Wing High School in Red Wing, MN.

Spiller traveled to Finland and Estonia this past year. In August 2012, he participated in the Eco Ceramics workshop that brought together ceramic artists from Latvia, Estonia and Finland at Kohila in Estonia. Spiller returned in January to give master class workshops at the HAMK University of Applied Sciences in Finland and the Estonian Academy of Art - EAA.

While participating in the workshops, Spiller learned that ceramics students had a program requirement for an international ceramics experience; he met student Aba Luostarinen, who was looking for an opportunity. Since his return in January, Spiller worked with the universities and Luostarinen on creating a pilot program to Minnesota.

Spiller approached RWCS Executive Director Stacy Wegner about the possibility of Luostarinen joining his RWCS Convention Hands-On Pottery session as part of the exchange program. By including Luostarinen, it would give him the opportunity to expand the Convention session and encompass it with the exchange program.

"Having Aba join Richard this year to expand the Hands-On Pottery Experience for our Convention attendees is a ground breaking addition to the Convention," said Wegner. "We're excited to be a part of the exchange program."

"I am very excited to have Aba join me at the RWCS Convention this year to share Red Wing Pottery with an international student as part of her exchange experience," said Spiller.

With Luostarinen's assistance, Spiller's 2013 Convention Hands on Pottery Experience will be offered to attendees on both Thursday, July 11 and Friday, July 12 at Red Wing High School. Participants in the two-hour session times will have the opportunity to learn pottery techniques and make their own creation. Following the Convention, the pieces will be fired in the Anderson Center kiln and shipped to participants; the cost is $35.

In addition to the Red Wing Collectors Society Convention, contacts with the Northern Clay Center, Anderson Center and experience in Spiller's studio will make up a five week university accredited program to pave the way for future exchange programs.

Luostarinen, 27, lives in Hämeenlinna, Finland and is a student at HAMK University of Applied Sciences. Luostarinen is finishing her studies as a glass and ceramic designer. Her interest and experience is in using ecological materials in ceramics. And, like Spiller, she's also interested in wood and gas firing kilns. More of her work can be seen on her website: <http://abaluostarinen.fi>.

Richard Spiller joined the RWCS Convention educational program last year through a pre-Convention hands-on pottery class at the Anderson Center and pottery demonstrations at Red Wing High School during the Convention. The class gave RWCS members the opportunity to apply the Scraffito (scratching) technique to a crock.

The Red Wing Collectors Society Convention is July 11-13, 2013 at Red Wing High School in Red Wing. To learn more about the annual Convention, or the Red Wing Collectors Society, visit <http://www.redwingcollectors.org> or find them on Facebook or follow on Twitter.

18th Annual Wisconsin Pottery Association Show & Sale

The Wisconsin Pottery Association (WPA) will hold its 18th annual Show and Sale on August 24, 2013. Fifty of America's best pottery dealers will be selling a range of antique and contemporary art pottery. As always, experts will be on hand to identify and evaluate your "mystery" pottery (limit 2 per admission).

Gazo Foudji was a Japanese-born artist who worked at the Weller Pottery before moving to Roseville (ca. 1905-1906) and creating the Fudji (pictured) and Fujiyama lines.

This year's Exhibit is Roseville: America's Decorative Art Pottery. On display will be over 120 examples of Roseville pottery, representing many of the best lines from the company's 63 year history. In 1892 the Roseville Pottery began producing utilitarian cooking vessels, flower pots and spittoons in Roseville, Ohio. George F. Young was the company's secretary, treasurer and general manager. The firm went out of business after a few years, and Young bought the business and assumed the role of president, as well as continuing on as general manager. The Young family owned and managed the company continuously from 1896 until it closed in 1954. In addition to continuing its utilitarian products, Young also made the first decorative art pottery at Roseville. The so-called Vase Assortment line featured brightly colored vases with molded floral designs that were given away by A&P Grocery Stores as premiums to customers. In 1898 Young purchased a second factory eight miles away in Zanesville, Ohio in order to expand his art pottery production and take advantage of the growing commercial market for art ware. The Rookwood Pottery in Cincinnati was the pioneering Ohio art pottery maker, and along with various New England firms, had created and dominated the new market. Other Zanesville potteries, most notably the Weller Pottery and the Owens Pottery, had already started making decorative art pottery in Zanesville shortly before Roseville set up their primary shop there.

Roseville's first art lines included the blended glaze lines now called Majolica and Roseville's version of Rookwood's Standard Glaze line which was called Rozane Royal. Ross C. Purdy created the glazes and developed the technical processes underlying Roseville's standard glaze line. Similar "standard glaze" lines were produced by both of Roseville's Zanesville competitors, the Owens and Weller potteries. Majolica pieces were probably being produced before 1900 at Roseville, while the earliest Roseville "Vase Assortment" pieces were Roseville's earliest art pottery, beginning around 1896. The vases were sold in bulk to the A&P Grocery chain, where they were given away as premiums to customers.

Rozane Royal vase is dated 1900.

In 1900, George Young hired Austrian-born John J. Herold, a self-taught craftsman who used technical trade papers, careful observation and experimentation to standardize Roseville's earthenware bodies, glazes and production process. Herold was also responsible for creating the Azurean line, a sort of blue standard glaze, and Modern Art, a line that brought the European art nouveau style to Roseville.

Roseville's most important early artist was the Englishman Frederick H. Rhead who came from a family of potters in Staffordshire, England. Only 22 when he emigrated to Wheeling, West Virginia to take a job with the Avon

Pottery Company in 1902, Rhead moved 75 miles west to take a job at the Weller Pottery where he created several important pottery lines including Jap Birdimal and Rhead Faience. But Rhead's best early work was done at Roseville where he was hired as art director in 1904. There he created what is arguably America's greatest art pottery line, Della Robbia, and supervised the development of many of Roseville best early lines including Cremo, Crocus, Mongol, Egypto, Woodland, Olympic, Fudji, Matt Green, Creamware, Rozane Royal Light, and Crystalis among others. Examples of these rare, valuable and beautiful art pottery lines will be on display at the 2013 WPA exhibit.

After Frederick H. Rhead left Roseville in 1908, his brother Harry Rhead became art director until 1918. While Harry did not produce the great art pottery that exemplified his brother's stay at Roseville, his oversight had a crucial economic impact on the company by de-emphasizing labor intensive, hand-tooled art ware in favor of molded ware with raised (embossed) patterns, which served as templates for hand painted decoration of the pottery. This technique allowed less-skilled artisans to decorate more pieces, which increased the amount of ware produced, and profits, a trend that other Zanesville potteries such as Weller were also embracing. Harry Rhead designed several popular lines, including the Arts and Crafts Mostique, and the classically patterned Donatello, which featured embossed cherubs on a tan, green and white background. The Early Velmoss, Early Carnelian, Antique Matt Green, and Pauleo lines were also introduced during Harry Rhead's tenure at Roseville.

Frank Ferrell created the Roseville pottery that is most familiar and popular to antique lovers today. A Zanesville native and artist at several area potteries, he became Roseville's art director in 1919, and continued in that position until the plant closed in 1953. Ferrell designed nearly all of Roseville's Art Pottery during this period, about 90 lines in all. Ferrell sculpted the embossed patterns, designed thousands of shapes, and chose the colors based on ceramic engineer George Krause's beautiful and durable matt glazes.

One of Frank Ferrell's greatest creations for Roseville was the Pine Cone line. Introduced in the early 1930s in rich blue, golden brown, and soft green glazes, it was the company's best-selling line, and the legend is that it saved the firm from bankruptcy during the Depression, just as the Donatello pattern was said to have reversed the company's fortunes in 1915. Over 150 Pine Cone shapes were created, the largest number of forms in any Roseville line. A common misconception among beginning collectors is that Roseville lines were produced for one year only; in fact, the company continued making a line, and even adding new forms to it, until sales declined. The Pine Cone line is a good example of this. Pine Cone forms can be found unmarked (they probably had the silver or gold paper label used in the early 1930s), with an impressed mark, and, most commonly, with the raised script mark that was used after 1937. New Pine Cone forms were continually being added to the line. In 1953, Ferrell revisited the line and introduced 51 new shapes, all with raised script numbers in the 400s. It was named Pine Cone Modern.

Following World War II, Roseville encountered competition from cheaper art ware made overseas, as well as a burgeoning California commercial pottery industry. Despite efforts to modernize its style, and even enter the dinnerware market with Raymore dinnerware, Roseville closed its doors in 1954, ending an important period in Zanesville, and beginning a new era as one of America's foremost collectible potteries.

This will be the Wisconsin Pottery Association's 18th all-Pottery Show/Sale and Exhibit. The WPA is a non-profit organization formed in 1992 by collectors interested in Roseville Rosecraft, 1921, also known at Florane when it appears in this tan color. The form of this vase foreshadows the art deco telescoping and saucer-like shapes that were perfected in the Futura line seven years later.

Show will be open from 9am until 4pm. Admission will be $6. Show ads can be used to secure free parking.

Roseville Crocus planter, ca. 1904.

Roseville Egypto, 1905, in the form of an ancient Roman oil lamp.

Roseville Creamware window box, with an early automobile facing off with a cow. "Tourist" creamware is probably Roseville's most sought after and valuable creamware lines.

Windsor, introduced by Roseville in 1931. This fern-decorated pattern was made in blue and rusty brown.

The Wisteria line, first produced in 1933, is highly valued among collectors today.

Roseville Creamware "Good Night" candle holder. Roseville began making decaled Creamware utility ware by 1910 and continued making it at least through the 1920s if not longer..

A sleek blue Pine Cone "400 series" pitcher from 1953, and the smaller, older model designed in the 1930s.

“Catching” a Glimpse: A Look at Early Angling Photography

article provided by Midwest Decoy Collectors Association

Anglers today have no valid excuse for not getting a good photo of a great catch. With modern technology placing cameras in nearly every cell phone & small pocket sized digital cameras available, there should be no “I swear it was this big.....” stories told to fellow fishermen in an effort to exaggerate the size of the catch without a supporting photo. But this was not the case for the pioneers of the sport. In fact, early images of anglers & their gear are some of the most difficult photographs to locate, for several reasons. Perhaps most notable was the fact that fishing was not a recreational sport in the mid-to-late 1800’s, unless you were wealthy; & in that case, only an extraordinary catch was likely to be deemed important enough to capture on film. When you add to that the need for bulky equipment for on site photography or the cost for a studio shot, it is easy to see why these very early photo images of yesterday’s anglers are so rare.

Introduced to the United States in 1839, the Daguerreotype was the first commercially successful image type, with larger East Coast cities having studios built for this method of portrait photography shortly after its introduction. Brought to America by inventor & artist, Samuel F.B. Morse, after a trip to France where he witnessed the process developed by Louis Daguerre & Joseph Niepce. It involved creating an image on a sheet of copper plate with a thin coat of silver. It has been documented that these very early images required anywhere from 3 to 15 minutes to capture, making it difficult at best to produce “blurry free” images as few could sit perfectly still for the required length of time.

Beginning in the 1950’s, the Ambrotype was introduced, a process that created a positive image on a sheet of glass via the wet plate collodion process. Producing images that did not have the shiny finish of a Daguerreotype, at a greatly reduced cost, helped boost the popularity of the Ambrotype. Though examples are very rare, each of these early methods produced some great images of early fishing gear.

However, it wasn’t until the introduction of the Tintype that outdoor photography became more prevalent, with the equipment more travel friendly & the images produced available for the customer within minutes. Introduced in the mid 1850’s, the Tintype involved a process that used a sheet of iron blackened by painting as the medium for the collodion emulsion.

Images on paper began to appear with the introduction of the CDV, or Carte-de-Viste, which really gained a foothold on image photography around 1860. Made from an Albumen print, the paper images were placed on heavy cardstock, usually small, measuring approximately 2 x 3-1/2”. These were replaced by a larger version of the same format circa 1870, the Cabinet Card, typically a gear are still obtainable. Not only do they make great display items, they also show us just what, where, & how early tackle was used, which can be a tremendous help when putting together a display of correct period items.

As with most collectible fishing tackle, there are things to watch for that add to the desirability of any give item or photo. Clear photos that have indentifiable gear, such as a Vom Hofe reel, Chapman metal lure, or an early wooden minnow are going to increase the value of any image, as well as photographs depicting famous fishermen such as James Henshall, Charles Orvis, or Seth Green. Subject & location can play an important role, too; an image of a child or a woman wielding fishing equipment is more difficult to find, & an outdoor scene in Daguerreotype or Ambrotype format much more elusive than the typical “set up” studio shots. Size is also a factor when determining value, as is often the case with collectible fishing lures, with the smallest & largest examples more uncommon than the standard sizes. With Tintype photos, full plate, or 6-1/2 x 8-1/2” images are very rare, as are the tiny 1/2 x 1” Gem size photos.

Another analogy to lures is the packaging which housed these early photos. Like the box that adds to both the desirability & value of a given lure, so too are the cases which held the three earliest photo types. These can substantially enhance the eye appeal & value of an image. Made with leather covers or completely of Gutta Percha, these cases can sometimes be more valuable than the images held inside.

ing cardstock images date between 1860 & 1920 & can be found with angling images taken outdoors, making better use

4-1/4 x 6-1/2” size image, allowing more space for notes about the photo’s subject on the front & studio information on the reverse. Despite the large number of cabinet cards produced by photography studios, angling images are still quite scarce. It wasn’t until the introduction of the Kodak Brownie camera that fishing images became commonplace, aided by the growing popularity of fishing as a sport for the masses, not just the wealthy.

Collecting the earliest images can be a challenge, given their rarity; however later cabinet cards depicting both anglers & their

Magic Lantern Slides were also a popular format for displaying images, using a glass plate image & projected light to view the photo on a wall or screen. Fishing images are often found in color with this format. Lastly, the real photo postcard is by far the easiest of all the early fishing images to find. Grewat cards depicting lures & reels used post-1900 can be still be obtained very reasonably, unless the lure or reel depicted can be identified, which can lead to higher prices due to competition from lure & reel collectors.

No matter what the format, vintage images of our sporting past can make for a fascinating collection, especially when displayed with the actual rod, reel or creel represented in the photograph. If this subject is of interest to you, I highly recommend obtaining a copy of “An Angler’s Album - Fishing in Photograph & Literature” by Charles H. Traub, with an introduction by Charles Kuralt.

This is just one of many categories that members of the Midwest Decoy Collectors Association delve in. Membership includes an annual “Membership Directory”, published in March, which includes members’ collecting interest. The Midwest Decoy Collectors Association is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to collect & preserve the history of the decoy as original American folk art.

Our Annual Show is always the last full weekend in April at the Pheasant Run Resort in St. Charles, Illinois, & advertised in the Auction Action Antique News. The convention & show is the premier opportunity for the novice, antique dealer or the experienced collector to network & learn more about their collectible as functional folk art or to add to their collections. ## 2013 International Carnival Glass Convention

If you want to have some fun, learn something new about carnival glass, see old friends, or meet new friends, you will want to attend the 2013 ICGA convention in St. Louis from July 17 – 20. The schedule is filling up with lots of fun seminars, entertainment, and food.

We have our usual display room, which this year features Imperial vases of all shapes, sizes, and colors. Kevin and April Clark are organizing this. Not only that, they will have a presentation on the display room that features many of these Imperial vases. You're sure to learn something, because they have been passionate about vases since they began collecting.

Carl and Eunice Booker will be presenting a program entitled "Beyond the Ordinary." They will show you some very unusual pieces of carnival glass and tell you how they came to own them. You won't see Rose Show or Poppy Show pieces in this presentation, but you will see pieces that are much more rare and have a beauty of their own. If you like the strange and unusual, then plan to attend.

We haven't had a game in quite some time at the convention, but when we have had them in the past, the participants and audience seemed to have a great time. This year, we plan a game of Carnival Jeopardy. We hope to have some very talented players to entertain us.

The banquet will be held on Friday night, and will feature Tom and Ann Bumpass as banquet speakers. Those who have heard them know that it will be a fun and entertaining presentation. Those of you who have not had the pleasure to hear them will truly enjoy it. We hope to have a new "whimsey" auction this year featuring baskets of goodies put together by the board members of ICGA, or anyone else who would like to make a basket of items from their state or area.

A repeat of last year's three Mega Silent Auctions will be staged by Fred Stone. He doesn't need to know what you are selling until you bring your items to silent auction area. This gives you an opportunity to sell something quickly. You can make your item(s) have a reserve or no reserve and get payment immediately. Any little item, carnival or other, that you wish to donate to the club will be appreciated as well.

As usual Ron and Bert Doubler will run the hospitality room, which is open pretty much the whole convention, with enough food to keep your hunger at bay, and then some. Of course, they need your help to bring goodies that members will enjoy.

The convention concludes on Saturday with the auction of glass from Don and Doreen Ashbridge, longtime members, which will be conducted by the Seck Auction Company. It is sure to have something of interest to most everyone. You can see a good selection of the glass at <https://www.dropbox.com/sh/nlogz07vzuoz2lk/A-RlivYMuz>. Jim and Jan will have the full listing on their website soon.

Our hotel is the Sheraton Westport Chalet, 191 Westport Plaza, St. Louis, MO 63146. It really does look like a chalet when you drive up to it, and it overlooks a lake. You may call for reservations at 314-878-1500 and ask for ICGA.

Make your hotel reservations as soon as possible, and meet us in St. Louis—July 17 – 20, 2013. Join us for the fun. We welcome any new people to come and join the International Carnival Glass Association.
