We Need a Values Revolution in America

Jeremiah 22:1-3,4-5 The Message (MSG) "Walking Out on the Covenant of God"

22 1-3 God's orders: "Go to the royal palace and deliver this Message. Say, 'Listen to what God says, O King of Judah, you who sit on David's throne—you and your officials and all the people who go in and out of these palace gates. This is God's Message: Attend to matters of justice. Set things right between people. Rescue victims from their exploiters.

Don't take advantage of the homeless, the orphans, the widows. Stop the murdering!

4-5 "'If you obey these commands, then kings who follow in the line of David will continue to go in and out of these palace gates mounted on horses and riding in chariots—they and their officials and the citizens of Judah. But if you don't obey these commands, then I swear—God's Decree!—this

Congresswoman Dingell, Organizations Convene Coalition Against Domestic Violence

Congresswoman Debbie Dingell with coalition of people addressing domestic violence. New program started

ANN ARBOR, MI – As part of Domestic Violence Awareness Month, U.S. Congresswoman Debbie Dingell (MI-12) today brought together local domestic violence organizations, health care providers, resource centers, advocacy groups, law enforcement and elected officials to convene a regional coalition aimed at ending domestic violence in our communities. The Southeast Michigan Coalition Against Domestic Violence will combine diverse voices and perspectives to join forces and work together to prevent domestic violence and improve support for survivors.

"We are convening this important coalition because we believe that we can do more together," said Dingell. "We can more effectively reduce instances of domestic violence in our communities by finding new opportunities for domestic violence organizations to work hand-in-hand with law enforcement and health care providers, and by boosting coordination with campus programs and recovery resources. There are already outstanding examples of these partnerships across the region. This

Step up for Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Among Michigan women, breast cancer is the most frequently diagnosed cancer and the second leading cause of cancer deaths.

It is a somber reality that too often hits home. In fact, nearly every family, including my own, has been impacted by this terrible disease.

My mother and sister both have had breast cancer and survived because of the amazing research and advances in treatment that make early detection the best chance coalition is about building on what's working and finding new opportunities to collaborate and move closer to communities that are free from violence and assault."

"Today's meeting was a critical first step in joining together domestic violence allies across the district to talk about the problem of domestic violence and the real solutions we can achieve, together," said Barbara Niess-May, executive director of SafeHouse Center. "I am proud that Congresswoman Dingell is a valiant, and steadfast supporter of survivors and their children. Her story moves many, and she has turned that into action."

"First Step is excited to be a part of this coalition," said Interim CEO Ilene Hogan. "Together we can learn from each other, combine resources, raise awareness and provide more effective and comprehensive services to survivors of domestic and sexual violence. More awareness will hopefully lead to more offender accountability which will lead to safer homes for survivors in our communities. I am very grateful to Congresswoman Dingell for her leadership and commitment to survivors."

The Southeast Michigan Coalition Against Domestic Violence will work to build on successful partnerships, increase the effectiveness of existing programs by improving coordination among federal, state, county and local governments, and create policy solutions that prevent domestic violence and support those impacted by abuse and assault. The coalition is planning a second meeting with a broader group of participants and will hold a series of work sessions over the next year to address new obstacles and barriers facing survivors.

At the federal level, Dingell is working to pass the bipartisan Zero Tolerance for Domestic Abusers Act, bipartisan legislation she introduced with Rep. Dan Donovan (NY-11) that protects survivors of dating violence and stalking by closing loopholes that allow abusers and stalkers access to guns.

"I applaud Congresswoman Dingell for bringing together an effective and dedicated coalition of community leaders who work every day on the front lines to end domestic violence," said State Representative Kristy Pagan. "I am proud to join in this effort with key stakeholders to offer policy solutions to support survivors of domestic violence, bring assailants to justice, and continue to change dialogue and culture around ending violence in our society."

"I was pleased to attend this morning's meeting regarding domestic violence in our state,' said State Representative Erika Geiss. "As a state legislator and vice chair of the Progressive Women's Caucus I am looking forward to continued work with this group and others on boldly addressing the issues of domestic violence prevention, improving the health and safety of victims and survivors, and improving the response to victims and the processing and adjudication of their assailants."

"Domestic Violence is affecting many families in my district and throughout the state," said State Representative Cara Clemente. "Our hope is that if we actively increase education, awareness, and community involvement, we can help prevent sexual violence."

Grand jury indicts white University of Maryland student

Richard Collins III

Sean Christopher Urbanski

n a rare move, a 22-year-old White University of Maryland student was indicted on a hate crime charge Tuesday in the stabbing death of a Black student that prosecutors say was motivated by race, NBC Washington reports.

Sean Christopher Urbanski was indicted in the May 20 death of Richard Collins III, 23, a Bowie State University student commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army, the report said.

The indictment is unusual because it is rare for White defendants to be charged in the death of African Americans, which in part precipitated the Black Lives Matter movement. But State's Attorney Angela Alsaid sobrooks evidence against Urbanski, a purported member of a racist White Supremacist Facebook group called Alt-Reich Nation, shows that Collins was fatally stabbed because of his skin color.

"Again, we can't discuss in detail without compromising our case what the evidence is in the case, but again the evidence led us to the conclusion that Lt. Collins was murdered because of his race," Alsobrooks said at a news confer-Upper ence Tuesday in Marlboro, Maryland.

Collins was killed at a campus bus stop around 3 a.m. on May 20, just three days before he was going to graduate from the historically Black college. A screaming Urbanski reportedly approached and threatened Collins and his two friends, according to case documents. Urbanski then fatally stabbed Collins once in the chest, the New York Daily News reported.

Video of the fatal attack caught by a security camera has been crucial to the case, which increased racial tensions at the University of Maryland.

A murder charge was filed against Urbanski immediately following the stabbing, NBC reported.

Evidence collected from Urbanski's phone and computers shed enough light on his motive to prompt further charges, Alsobrooks said. Exactly what digital evidence was found or presented to the grand jury was not announced.

Urbanski is facing a life sentence for the murder charge, and an additional 20 years in prison for a hate crime resulting in death. His trial is expected to begin in January.

Football is not the only Dangerous Sport

By Jim Abeare

The stat of the game of football is in serious danger in this country.

This as the sport is starting to grow overseas. You can see that with the World Championship tournament every four years, the last one played in Canton, Ohio in 2015.

France won the gold medal in American Football at the World Games in Wroclaw, Poland this last summer.

USA came in third.

But as the game grows over there, it seems to be in trouble over here.

For the last few years, the main concern with the sport was concussions and other injuries.

Parents are not even letting their kids play the sport in favor of sports like, shutter, soccer.

The current protests in the NFL aren't helping the sport either, as thousands of fans have turned off the sport.

It is also starting to hurt the college and Canadian games.

But I am focusing on the health issues here.

Before you parents decide that football is too dangerous for little Tommy, let's look at some other sports.

There is rugby, footballs precursor. It is basically football without pads or helmets.

It is a great sport with a lot of tough athletes and a good amount of injuries.

The players are a lot tougher than most NFL players, routinely going back into the game after getting patched up after an injury. An NFL player twists an ankle and starts to cry.

My second favorite sport, hockey, also has its fair share of injuries. Broken bones, loss teeth and yes, concussions, especially when they get hit into the boards head first.

Like football, more research is going into player protection such as the helmets and vi-

NASCAR, did you see the race in Talledaga last week?

Two major crashes toward the end of the race. Fortunately the cars are built to come apart, except the roll cage with protects the driver.

Baseball seems to be more dangerous for the fans then the players with foul balls that routinely hitting the fans in the head.

Basketball? Boring.

That communist plot, soccer, there is a reason why players hold themselves during a penalty kick. They don't want to get hit.

Soccer is the pleasant running through the field, kicking a ball sport that the progressives want you to think it is.

It is actually a very dangerous sport (and boring).

Broken bones, broken faces, cleats into your shins. Soccer is not for the squeamish.

That leaves gymnastics, track and field sports.

They are about the only sports you don't really get hurt at. But there is also no real physical competition either.

But those athletes are strong. My point, you can get hurt in just about any sport. So call down before you kill the game of football.

Girls now play football and are more viscious.

Enjoy your sport, except soccer. Soccer is just wrong.

Before doing crime, think of the numbers!

Eight-six-15-25. No, these are not lucky numbers. As a matter of fact, they are the worst numbers in the world if you commit a serious crime. Eight feet by six feet is the size of a cell in prison. Plus, you will have a cellmate, another man! Two men in an 8-by-6-footroom, sometimes 23 hours a day on lockdown! Better hope you can win the fight!

Eight-by-six for 15 years to 25 years if you hurt someone and he or she doesn't die. If someone does, then life without parole; you don't get out. Say you're 20 and got life without parole. That means you will be there (assuming the average person lives to be 70) for at least 50 years! That's a long time. No more movies, no more clubs, no more cars, no more cell phones, no more shopping, no more weddings, no more funerals, birthday parties, no eating out, no home cooking and, what would drive me crazy, no women!

So, the next time you think about 'bustin' a cap" on someone.. don't, no matter what the beef is. Baby daddy, baby mama, he's mean, he mugged me, he stepped on my foot, I don't like him or her, whatever. Ask yourself this: Is it worth an 8-by-6-foot cell for 15 to 25 years?

Back in high school, I played basketball on the junior varsity team. I wasn't very good, but they let me be on the JV team. I got to travel with the team, build relationships with my teammates and have fun. I tried to keep up and it was a challenge, but I didn't give up. Running was hard for me and I wanted to be like those who it seemed to come easy to.

One summer I attended a girls basketball camp. I pushed my body hoping to increase my endurance. One day after camp, I went shopping with my mother. I can't remember if I had eaten or not. I remember feeling tired and funny while standing in line leaning on the cart. The next thing I remember is lying on the floor looking up at people frantically trying to help me and see if I was okay. I had fainted. This wasn't the only time. There were some subsequent faints and I learned to be careful. My oldest daughter must have inherited this problem because as a child, she too had a few fainting spells. I was never diagnosed, but she was diagnosed with hypo-glycemia. She had to learn to keep her blood sugar up.

After the faint, we pretty much returned to normal, but it was a frightening experience for onlookers. Have you ever fainted? Just lost consciousness for a bit and passed out with no recollection of how you fell to the ground?

In a nutshell, fainting is a temporary loss of consciousness or awareness. It's not death. You heart still beats and blood still flows, but all thought processes momentarily cease. For that moment, you are motionless. You are not in control. You cannot make any moves and you appear to be dead even though you are not and suddenly you wake back up.

Physiologically, I cannot explain what causes fainting. A medical professional could tell you better than I could. I imagine that somewhere, something lacks, something misfires and you faint. The frightening thing is, sometimes it can sneak up on you. Other times however, you get signs that something is not right and you can avoid fainting. Sometimes it takes fainting to figure out the preceding feelings that indicate that a faint is coming on.

We understand physical fainting. What about spirtual fainting spells? Some of us faint in our spirit. We lose awareness of who and Whose we are during difficult times. We forget the power and authority we have access to. We forget our privileges as a child of God. We forget peace. We forget strength and courage. Sometimes we can spiritually black out for a minute. Thank God who can revive us.

Remember the children of Israel, when they wandered in the wilderness? They were hungry and thirsty, their soul fainted in them (Psa 107.5). They were in trouble, serious trouble. They thought they could die. Have you ever been there? What did they do then? They cried to the Lord and He delivered them (v. 6).

If you faint, pray. Jonah did. "When my soul fainted within me I remembered the Lord: and my prayer came in unto thee, into thine holy temple" (Jonah 2.7). To prevent fainting, think on the goodness of the Lord like David did, "I had fainted, unless I had believed to see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living (Psa. 27.13). Keep believing,

Don't forget God. Don't pass out in your spirit. Hold on to your God-consciousness no matter what the trouble is. Stay faithful to the task. "And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not." [Gal. 6.9].

Don't faint!

On Friday, October 13, Donald Trump went before the annual Values Voter Summit hosted by the Family Research Council and declared America "a country that never forgets that The Southern Poverty Law Cenwe are made, all of us, by the very same God in heaven." In the name of Jesus, Trump vowed to "stop cold the attacks on Judeo-Christian values," but the Values Voter Summit no more represents Jesus than did the church authorities that backed slavery.

Ironically, Trump invoked the name of Jesus in virtually the same breath that he announced his executive order to stop the federal government's cost sharing reduction payments, which subsidize healthcare for lower-income families under the Affordable Care Act. Throughout the Scriptures, virtually every story of Jesus admonishes us to see to the needs of the poor and vulnerable among us, but Trump vowed at the Values Voter Summit to defend those who use religion to discriminate.

The Christian nationalists Trump has emboldened do not follow the Jesus I know and preach. Their values are not Christ, but cash; not grace, but greed. As the Princeton historian Kevin Kruse has chronicled in his book, "One Nation Under God," they are the heirs of preachers, who were purchased by the robber barons of the early 20th century to resist the New Deal and the Social Gospel. During the Civil Rights Movement, they spoke against Rabbi Abraham Heschel and Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

These Christian nationalists contradict Jesus, who said that, "as you have done it unto the least of these my brethren, you have done it unto me." They serve only the interests of the wealthiest Americans and take every opportunity to deny any provision of care or encouragement to the poor.

They have elected far-right extremists in the country's legiscorporate cist wealthy despots, these men (and a few women) pass voter suppression laws that make them accountable to the voters. These peddlers of piety deliver huge tax cuts for the super-rich, permit corporations to spew poison into the environment, and fund a military budget so enormous and sacrosanct, that American citizens are no longer even wel-Prince of Peace.

palace will end up a heap of state houses will hurt Southern, so-called "red" states, the worst, but at the Values Voters Summit, lead organizer Tony Perkins put on duck hunting waders and pretended to "wade into the swamp" as a man of the people.

> ter calls Perkin's Family Research Council "a hate group." Perkins denies that Islam is a religion and regularly rails against gays and warns that LGBT citizens plan to round up the Christians in "boxcars." His vice president, William "Jerry" Boykin, Jr., claims that Islam is "pure evil" and should not be protected under the First Amendment. Boykin has threatened to physically attack anyone not using the bathroom that he thinks they should use.

> We have to stop calling these leaders White Christians or evangelicals. Why should we listen when they p-r-a-y in public and p-r-e-y on the people? These attacks on healthcare will become devastating to the poor. Even a Republican governor said Trump's executive order will hurt the mentally ill, damage the poor and distress families.

> Trump has brought about a devolution of values, not a revolution of values. They did not have a values conference in that D.C. ballroom; it was a vicious conference where they clapped and applauded a president, who would undermine healthcare for the poorest and most needy people in our country and then attempt to claim that somehow he has rescued Judeo-Christian values. Nothing could be further from the truth, and nothing could be more of a sign that this president and those who go along with him suffer from a values and moral bankruptcy.

Now, more than ever, we see the truth of what Dr. King said: we need a "moral revolution of values." I have been crossing this country for the past eight weeks with Rev Dr. Liz Theoharis, meeting in churches and synagogues and community colleges with thousands of people, who know we need a values revolution in America. Treasury's Unclaimed Property Auction Set for Oct. 21-22

The Michigan Department of Treasury's Unclaimed Property Program—in partnership with the Michigan Department of Technology, Management and Budget—will hold a public auction on Oct. 21 and 22 at the Lansing Center in downtown Lansing.

The auction will feature a wide variety of items, including coins, currency, jewelry, precious metals, stamp collections and much more.

The public is welcome to inspect the items from 3-8 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 20, at 333 E. Michigan Ave. in Lansing. On both Saturday and Sunday, the Lansing Center's doors open at 8 a.m. and the auction begins at 9 a.m.

In addition to collectibles and other items, the coin auction will take place on Saturday and the jewelry auction will take place on Sunday.

Payment terms are cash, Visa, MasterCard or cashier's checks.

Under Michigan's Uniform Unclaimed Property Act, the state Treasury Department receives abandoned safe deposit box contents and works to return items to their rightful owners or heirs. Items that are not reunited with their owners must be sold at auction.

Proceeds from this auction and other unclaimed funds can be claimed by their rightful owners by submitting an inquiry form or by calling the Unclaimed Property Program at 517-636-5320. To learn more, go to www.michigan.gov/unclaimed-property.LARA Announces Medical Marihuana Educational Sessions new crowdfunding campaign was any indication. A GoFundMe account was started by a mentoring program in Johnson's hometown of Miami that was founded by U.S. Rep Frederica Wilson, who has known Johnson's family for decades.

The funds will be given to widow. Johnson's Myeshia Johnson, the mother of their two children who is also six months' pregnant with their third. She was thrust into the spotlight late Tuesday night after it was reported that President Donald Trump's call of would-be condolences included him saying her late husband "knew what he was signing up for." Trump also reportedly didn't know Johnson's name.

Nearly $400,000 of the campaign's $1 million goal had been pledged as of early Wednesday afternoon, just about 24 hours after it was started.

"The 5000 Role Model of Excellence Project, is establishing a Role Model Army Sgt. La David T. Johnson Scholarship to benefit his children by providing money towards their college education," the GoFundMe page said in part. "We are asking you to donate to this worthy cause. Please, donate generously today."

Trump called Wilson a liar after the congresswoman announced the president's callous call to Johnson's widow. The claims sparked Trump's latest Twitter storm that may be an intentional distraction from the investigation into Russian collusion with his presidential campaign that has been picking up steam lately.

An investigation has been launched into the ambush of the group of Green Berets in Niger on October 4, when Johnson and three fellow soldiers were killed. Johnson's body was reportedly not recovered for about 48 hours after the ambush, prompting a number of questions about what could turn into Trump's Benghazi moment less than a year into his presidency.

Final Week for High School Football

By Butch Davis

I'm chewing on a lot of football numbers this week at the Telegram News with this season's playoff selection just days away. Some of the most important after Week 8 are 176 as in the number of 11-player teams that have earned spots in that 256-team playoff field and 78, the number of teams with one victory away from automatic qualification.

So here are some of the team that have make it to the playoffs in the Telegram News reading area. River Rouge, Romulus, Belleville, Dearborn Fordson, Dearborn Edsel Ford, Wyandotte Roosevelt, Gibraltar Carlson, Brownstown Woodhaven, Gabriel Richard Riverview, Riverview, Flat Rock, Detroit King, Detroit Denby, Detroit Central, Detroit East English Teams that are one win away from automatic qualification. Ecorse, Dearborn

Thurston, New Boston Huron, Monroe St Mary Catholic Central, Detroit Cass Technical, Detroit Mumford, Detroit Cody, Detroit Henry Ford, Detroit Western International, Detroit Delta Prep.

Now some of the high schools may make the playoffs with five wins due to points and strength of schedule. Ecorse High School was a prime example of making the playoffs last year with five wins. Remember the selection show is this Sunday on the Detroit Fox Sports cable channel.

By the way, congratulations to the students taking part in the Girls Golf Lower Peninsula Finals: October 20-21, Trenton Caroline Hourey, Grosse Ile Ava Napolitan, Carleton Airport Kristen Reed, and Gibraltar Carlson Chelsea Kovoch. Also the Boys Tennis Lower Peninsula Finals: October 20-21.

Domestic Violence

Domestic violence impacts people of all ages, races and backgrounds. On average, nearly 20 people per minute are physically abused by an intimate partner in the United States. During one year, this equates to more than 10 million women and men. Women between the ages of 18 and 24 are most commonly abused by an intimate partner, and according to Bureau of Justice Statistics, 1 in 3 teens reports knowing a friend or peer who has been hit, punched, slapped, choked, or physically hurt by his/her partner.

The Southeast Michigan Coalition Against Domestic Violence will meet regularly to address domestic violence and other issues impacting women in the region.

Nearly two dozen organizations and officials were represented at the meeting, including Mona Makki, Director, ACCESS Community Health and Research Center; Sharon Burnett, Director, Partnership; Nurse-Family Lynette Smith, Nurse Supervisor, Nurse-Family Partnership; Daniel Kelly, Executive Director, Shelter Association of Washtenaw County; Shareia Carter, Director, University of Michigan-Dearborn Women's Resource Center; Catherine McClary, Board Member, The Women's Center; Pam Cornell-Allen, Associate Director, Ozone House Youth & Family Services; Jyoti Gupta, Executive Director, Washtenaw Area Council for Children; Heather Colohan, Program Manager of Community Outreach and Systems Advocacy, University of Michigan Sexual Assault Prevention and Awareness Center; Laura De Palma, Gender Equity Organizer, Michigan United; Kathy Wyatt, Executive Analyst/Assistant to the Sheriff, Washtenaw County Sheriff's Office; Felicia Brabec, Commissioner, Washtenaw County; Michelle Deatrick, Commissioner, Washtenaw County; Ruth Ann Jamnick, Commissioner, Washtenaw County; Mandy Grewal, Supervisor, Pittsfield Charter Township; Brenda Stumbo, Supervisor, Ypsilanti Township; Brenda McKinney, Treasurer, Superior

A Rest Will Do the Lions Good

By Butch Davis

The Detroit Lions' 52-38 loss against the New Orleans Saints at the Mercedes-Benz Superdome this past Sunday was a tale of two teams. A team of making mistakes and a team that fought back with the help of rookie cornerback Jamal Agnew returned a Saints punt 74 yards for a touchdown, his second of the season. Then aide from Detroit Lions defensive tackle A'Shawn Robinson scoring his first career touchdowns and narrowed the Lions deficit to 45-38 in the fourth quarter when he intercepted a pass and ran it back for a 2-yard touchdown. After that the game was a bust and a bye week is the best thing to happen to a Lions team that is battered and seen better days.

This past Monday, the Lions returned to the practice field today prior to the bye week off with a walk-thru in shorts at the team's headquarters and training facility in Allen Park. After the walk-thru Detroit Lions Head Coach Jim Caldwell was ask from us, the media, some questions and here's what he had to say of the following.

On if he feels the offense has become predictable due to amount of tipped passes: "No, I just think that it's one of those unusual games, a lot of tipped balls. I mean, you just look at the game; it's kind of changed a little bit. I think A'Shawn (Robinson) has 10 at such a young stage in his career. And big John Henderson when we played when he was at Jacksonville was a big, tall guy in there. J.J. Watt's one that's done a great job of adjusting. I just think it was just one of those games that you-We've played a lot games around here within the same system and it was just unusual. Just unfortunate and they were all different ways that they had them. Maybe it was a linemen didn't cut his guy, his hands got up, he's supposed to get him on the ground, maybe it was a launch angle, those kinds of things. So, it was a lot of different scenarios, but the great thing about it even though it was difficult, and it wasn't pretty, and we're not happy with it, it's correctable. So, we'll go to work on that."

On if staging a comeback is not the position you want to be in even if you're good at them: "Yeah, obviously we don't plan that way. One of the things that-like we've mentioned before, there's never any hard and fast sort of thought process into going and says, 'You know, we're going to be behind by X number of points and then we're going to come back.' Obviously, that doesn't happen that way, but fortunately, we do have guys that'll fight you. That's the thing I think that you appreciate about these men. They don't give up regardless of what the odds are and they're going to go after it. But what we have to do is just make certain we don't get so far behind the eight ball, in which we did in this particular game."

On if there's a common theme in the slow offensive starts to games: "I don't think so. It's just kind of one of those things. We've had a couple. We certainly would like not to have them, but it's the way it is. This particular game we had the one play down there, ended up with a score, we come right back offensively, move the ball down the field, put it in the end zone. So, that was one series we started out pretty slow. Next series we did pretty well and then we just kind of went dormant for a little while."

Detroit (3-3) will return to Ford Field in Week 8 when they host the Pittsburgh Steelers (4-2) on Sunday, October 29 at 8:30 p.m. ET.

DOING GOOD IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD

Inkster Police Officer Squirewell Makes a Citizen Smile

I know not everybody is on Facebook but I wanted to bring something to the media's attention and take a moment to recognize Inkster Police Officer Tony Squirewell and a recent encounter he had with a citizen.

He was on duty patrolling the city when he encountered a woman and her son stranded on the side of Michigan Ave. and running out of time to get to work without being late. Ofc. Squirewell went above and beyond for a citizen in need, he called for a tow truck and paid the tow fee out of his own pocket so that they could get to work on time. A package care was dropped off at the Inkster Police Department for Ofc. Squirewell thanking him for his kindness, as the Community Relations Officer the majority of my time is spent interacting with the community and helping to further the positive relationship between the IPD and Inkster citizens. I personally want to thank Tony Squirewell for helping me with that goal, one small act of kindness can go a long way and his actions are appreciated more than he can know.

Inkster residents often see us when we have to enforce the law and sometimes don't think about the fact that were people under the uniform, we have families, friends, are kind and good people who have a job to do. I love when we can take a moment to shine a light on that fact, so many acts of kindness by Inkster officers go unrecognized and unheard of, I'm grateful that this time a citizen took the time to show their gratitude and bring it to everyone's attention.

LARA Announces Medical Marihuana Educational Sessions

BMMR to show potential licensees the application process, monitoring system October 9, 2017 – The Dept. of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs (LARA) and the Bureau of Medical Marihuana Regulation (BMMR) announced today the dates, times and locations of a series of educational sessions designed to familiarize potential licensees with the application process and the statewide monitoring system.

Employees of LARA and BMMR will be on hand during the in-person sessions to show attendees the license application process for each of the five license categories:

Grower Processor Secure Transporter Provisioning Center Safety Compliance Facility

While applications will not be completed during these events, attendees will be able to familiarize themselves with the process – and what will be required – when the applications become available on Dec. 15, 2017.

Representatives from Franwell – the company chosen to implement Michigan's statewide monitoring system for integrated marihuana tracking, inventory, and verification under the Marihuana Tracking Act – will be present at each of the five medical marihuana educational sessions to demonstrate Franwell's Metrc, the seed-tosale tracking system, to potential licensees.

Metrc is a cloud-hosted, realtime, online software reporting system that will be used by licensed Michigan medical marihuana businesses to manage and report supply chain activities as required by state rules. Metrc uses serialized tags attached to every plant – and labels attached to wholesale packages – to track medical marijuana inventory through different stages of growth, as well the drying and curing processes.

The educational sessions will take place in five locations throughout the state:

Wednesday, Nov. 8, 2017 Oakland Community College, 27055 Orchard Lake Road, Farmington Hills, MI

·Thursday, Nov. 9, 2017 Saginaw Valley State University, 7400 Bay Road, University Center, MI

· Monday, Nov. 13, 2017 Great Wolf Lodge, 3575 North US Highway 31 South, Traverse City, MI

·Tuesday, Nov. 14, 2017 Wing's Conference Center, 3600 Vanrick Drive, Kalamazoo, MI

·Wednesday, Nov. 15, 2017

The Nov. 9 and Nov. 15 events will also be livestreamed on the BMMR website at www.michigan.gov/medicalmarihuana

All events begin at 9:00 AM and end at 12:00 PM. There is no cost to attend the medical marihuana educational sessions but – due to space constraints – potential licensees and their representatives must all register at https://www.metrc.com/michigan by 5:00 PM on Nov. 1, 2017 to guarantee themselves entrance to the event. Click "Sign up for Educational Sessions" and then choose the appropriate date.

The LARA educational sessions are not board meetings and there will not be time set aside for public comment. The educational sessions will be informative presentations of processes for Metrc (the statewide monitoring system) and Accela (the application process) that will be utilized by future licensees and/or potential applicants and will not interfere with the authority of the Medical Marihuana Licensing Board or the Advisory Panel as provided under the Medical Marihuana Facilities Licensing Act.

Attendance at the educational sessions will not affect a potential licensee's application. All interested members of the public will be able to participate in future training opportunities whether they attend the educational sessions or not. Any information or feedback provided at the educational sessions is merely advisory.

for survival. My sister went another step further in her fight and chose to establish a foundation, Meg's Mission for Mammograms, to increase awareness of early detection and to offset the costs associated with mammography screenings that some may not be able to afford. I could not be more proud of her and her fight to make a difference for so many.

Early detection of breast cancer is critical to improving the chance of survival, yet a very low percentage of southwest Michigan women age 40 and older get annual mammograms.

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month, and it offers us a chance to boost the number of women in our region who take this important and lifesaving step.

As you may have noticed, professional, college and high school sports teams, local and state officials and other organizations are all stepping up to raise awareness. The pink color is bright and its message to women is clear: early detection can save your life.

I encourage every at-risk woman to consult with her doctor on her annual breast checkup and urge all eligible women to take advantage of an excellent program right here in southwest Michigan that provides free screenings.

Breast Cancer

The Southwest Michigan Breast & Cervical Cancer Control Navigation Program continues to provide cancer screening and diagnostic services as it has for 24 years. To be eligible for a free screening, a woman must be age 40 to 64, meet certain income guidelines, and be uninsured or have a high deductible.

To locate a participating clinic in Southwest Michigan or for more information about the program, residents can call BCC-CNP at (269) 373-5213 or toll-free at 1-888-243-4087. Details are also available at kalcounty.com/hcs/bcc-cnp.

As we recognize Breast Cancer Awareness Month, let us celebrate those who have won their fight with breast cancer, stand in full support of those currently battling this serious disease and remember the friends and loved ones we have lost.

Taking Care of My Elderly Parents Is Taking a Toll

By Alma Gill (NNPA News Wire Columnist)

Dear Alma

I am a 64 year-old divorced woman who lives with my father. Some years ago, when my marriage fell apart, and Mom was diagnosed with dementia, I moved back home to help my dad with her. I was also working part-time, so I couldn't afford my own apartment. Two years ago, Dad and I could no longer care for Mom at home, so we put her in a care facility, and I retired. During this time, I have made new friends, three of them live in the state of New Mexico. A few months ago, I went to visit these friends, and fell in love with New Mexico. The cost of living isn't as high as it is here, and the laid-back, small city life seems to mesh well with my personality. I feel this is the place I am meant to live the rest of my life. My problem is that Dad is 87, and I'm leery of moving hundreds of miles away, knowing there are some thugs in the neighborhood, who may try to break into the house once they learn Dad is there alone. Although I have a sister, she has never been there for our parents the way I have been. In fact, our parents haven't seen her in seven years. Some friends and relatives say I should go for it, since I'm divorced and childless, and also reminding me I'm no longer a young woman. Then, there are those who feel I'm being selfish for wanting to make this move and finally live my own life. Am I wrong?

Sincerely, New Mexico is Calling Me

Dear New Mexico,

Hello, my darling, thank you for taking the time to email me and to allow me the privilege to weigh-in on your situation. It takes a special person to care for elderly and/or invalid family members. I'm sending a big hug your way.

I want to start by sharing that my mom lived with me and my family for the last two years of her life. She had come to a place where she could no longer live alone. Was my life on hold? Yes, but I wouldn't take a dime for that time, as I'm sure, neither would you. You've already lived through the thick of it, so, there isn't much more I could share with you about the "role reversal" regarding parental care. It's hard, it's thankless and it's heartbreakingly some of the best times you'll spend with your parents, unconditionally caring for them as they did for you. It's an honor for us, but not so much for strong-willed parents. Their eyes always seem to see you as the child they raised. It doesn't matter how old you are, how many children you have or how many times you've been married. LOL.

I can't help but think, now that your mom's gone on to glory, that you should continue to be there for your dad. Don't abandon him now. Stay, give him the same love and commitment you gave to your mother. Your dad, I take it, doesn't need as much attention, but that shouldn't determine your decision. You're doing it just, because it's the right thing to do. Is it selfish for you to want a break, to want to relocate and start living your own life? Absolutely not at all, that's normal and you have every right to feel that way.

You've been an attentive, dedicated and loving daughter... don't stop now. There's no need to relocate, just yet. Take care of your Dad and, every three months or so, go visit your friends for a week or two. Sadly, when your dad's no longer with us—it'll be time to make your move.

I don't have either one of my parents anymore, and I regret the extra time I missed spending with them every day, because I was busy, I had a family, I had people to see, places to go, things to do. So, trust me, you'll never regret putting your life on hold by choosing to honor your mother and father. God is watching and will undoubtedly grant you the desires of your heart. Hold on a little longer, your day is coming. You gave and it will be given back to you in good measure, pressed down, shaken together and running

FILM REVIEW: Marshall

By Dwight Brown (NNPA Newswire Film Critic)

Joseph Spell, (Josh Gad), Thurgood Marshall (Chadwick Boseman) and Sterling K. Brown, (Joseph Spell)

Considering all of his major accomplishments, why hasn't someone made a film about Thurgood Marshall's life that was comprehensive? He was the lawyer who won the Brown v. Board of Education United States Supreme Court case, the founder of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, a United States Solicitor General and the first African American Supreme Court associate justice. But that's not what the father/son writing team of Connecticut lawyers Michael Koskoff and Jacob Koskoff had in mind when they wrote this slice of life script. It's a tactic that worked for the movie "Selma," which only focused on one facet of Martin Luther King, Jr.'s life.

In 1940, 32-year-old Thurgood Marshall (Chadwick Boseman) heads to tony Greenwich, Conn., to defend Joseph Spell (Sterling K. Brown, NBC's "This Is Us") a Black chauffeur who has been accused of raping and trying to murder his rich, White socialite employer (Kate Hudson). The case is dubbed "The State of Connecticut v. Joseph Spell," and the presiding Judge Foster (James Cromwell) refuses to let an out-of-state lawyer defend Spell. His reluctance is more out of hostility towards the upstart Black lawyer than for procedure's sake. Marshall is forced to partner with a young Jewish insurance lawyer, Samuel Friedman (Josh Gad), who has no experience in criminal law. The judge won't let Marshall speak in court. Friedman is his mouthpiece. The cards are stacked against them.

The good points: Though this is not the bio-film Marshall deserves, this glimpse does offer a view of the ingenuity, perseverance and courage that propelled the Howard University law student into becoming a crusading attorney, who was an integral part of the Civil Rights Movement. This case is just one of many that he championed and it serves well as a barometer of the times in regard to how African Americans had to deal with blatant discrimination, racism and segregation.

Boseman is making a career out of bio-films ("Get on Up" and "42"). His interpretation of the civil rights advocate is shrewd and strong. Gad maintains an innocence and naiveté around his character that gives him room to grow. The biggest surprise is Kate Hudson as the duplicitous socialite, whose understated performance may be one of the best of her career. Andra Day plays a chanteuse and the audience gets to hear her Grammy-nominated voice.

The weak points: Every single interior looks like it was shot on a back lot. None of it looks real. The costumes (Ruth E. Carter) represent the times well, but look far too new and not lived in. The direction (Reginald Hudlin, "House Party") doesn't take the story to a higher level. Every plot twist comes at the right time, but lacks the embellishments that take good courtroom dramas to another stratosphere. Director Robert Mulligan found that extra gear with "To Kill a Mockingbird";

Rob Reiner did with "A Few Good Men"; Sidney Lumet accomplished that with both "12 Angry Men" and "The Verdict"; and Jonathan Kaplan succeeded with "The Accused."

What's on view looks and feels like a made-for-TV movie. That would be a compliment for original programming designed for the smaller screen. Not so much for a theatrically released film that needs a touch more drama, tension and suspense, a higher level of direction and stronger technical elements.

There's a line in the film that says, "If you want your freedom you're going to have to fight for it." Wish someone had fought long and hard to give one of America's most historic lawyers, courageous civil rights pioneers and respected Supreme Court justices his due.

Regardless of the trappings, Thurgood Marshall's spirit prevails and his legacy is being passed on. That makes this film a must-see, even if it doesn't have the epic grandeur and significance of "Selma."

When the smoke alarm sounds "Every Second Counts: Plan 2 Ways Out"

Gov. Rick Snyder today proclaimed October 8-14 as Fire Prevention Week to emphasize this year's theme: "Every Second Counts: Plan 2 Ways Out." Michiganders are urged to develop and practice a home escape plan and know what to do when awakened to the sound of a smoke alarm and the smell of smoke.

"Having a home fire escape plan provides the skill set and know-how to quickly and safely escape a home fire situation and can literally make the difference between life and death in so many instances," said State Fire Marshal Kevin Sehlmeyer. "I urge every family to develop and practice two ways out of the house so every member of the family knows what to do in case of a fire."

Sehlmeyer said that many families today have a much smaller window of time to escape a home fire safely - as little as one or two minutes to escape from the time the smoke alarm sounds due to newer homes burning faster, and toxic gases and smoke being produced by today's building materials. That's why home escape planning is so critical in a fire situation. It ensures that everyone in the household knows how to use that small window of time wisely.

"Pre-planning is critical and it's what everyone will draw upon to jump into action and escape as quickly as possible in the event of a fire," said Sehlmeyer.

A home escape plan also includes having working smoke alarms on every level of the home, in every bedroom, and near all sleeping areas.

When developing a home fire escape plan:

Draw a map of your home with all members of your household, marking two exits from each room and a path to the outside from each exit.

REGISTER TO VOTE! Practice your home fire drill twice a year. Conduct one at night and one during the day with everyone in your home, and practice using different ways out.

Teach children how to escape on their own in case you can't help them.

Make sure all doors and windows that lead outside open easily and that every family member understands and practices how to properly operate and open locked windows and doors to escape.

For family members with access or functional needs such as infants, older adults or people with a mobility disability, make sure that someone is assigned to assist them in the fire drill and in the event of an emergency. Assign a back-up in case that person is absent from the home.

Practice checking the doors for smoke. If you see smoke, do not open the door. If you touch the door and it is hot, do not open the door.

If the door is cool enough to open, open it slowly and put your head down and tilt your face away from the opening.

Close doors behind you as you leave to slow the flow of oxygen to the fire and give you time to escape.

Practice crawling low. In a fire, smoke and poisonous air hurt more people than the actual flames. Staying low means you can crawl below the smoke.

Designate a clear meeting place outside of the home, stay outside, and stay together to best help first responders.

Make sure everyone in your home knows how to call 9-1-1 or the local emergency number
