Detroit Mayor, Mike Duggan excited about the support for this year's Angels's Night

Flanked by a coalition of city, community and business leaders, Mayor Mike Duggan today kicked off this year's Angels' Night volunteer recruitment campaign at the City's Public Safety Center in southwest Detroit.

The Mayor, who plans to personally patrol all three nights, urged city residents and Detroit boosters to join him in keeping the city safe and quiet during the three-day Angels' Night period, which runs from Wednesday, October 29, through Friday, October 31.

"Detroit has a great deal of positive momentum right now and we want to keep it going," Mayor Duggan said, referring to the efforts to relight neighborhoods, increased blight removal efforts and 50 new buses set to arrive next year. "Every City department is focused completely on making sure we have a successful Angels' Night campaign and we are calling on every Detroiter to become a part of it."

How people can help
This year's Angels' Night campaign includes several ways in which volunteers can get involved. Primary elements of the Angels' Night program are:

Rick Snyder announces $75 million in federal funding to fight blight in 12 cities

federal partners. This allows us to lay the groundwork for future economic success and make Michigan an even better place to live, work and play."

"This federal, state and local partnership demonstrates a commitment to revitalizing our cities and to addressing the damaging effects caused by vacant and blighted properties," said U.S. Treasury Deputy Secretary Sarah Bloom Raskin. "Removing blighted properties is an important step in stabilizing neighborhoods, and we look forward to continuing our efforts to assist hardest hit communities around the nation."

The eligible cities for the Hardest Hit Funds were selected by MSHDA based on an evaluation system that included residential housing vacancy rates.

MSHDA is scheduling meetings with the selected cities this month to discuss the process for submitting strategic blight remediation plans, designating at-risk areas within city limits, estimating project costs and establishing a timeline for the work to proceed, among other considerations.

"Abandoned and blighted homes create significant safety concerns for citizens and businesses, depress home values and strain community resources," MSHDA Acting-Executive Director Wayne Workman said. "Expanding this program will further stem the tide of foreclosures, stabilize property values and help revitalize these cities block by block."

Michigan's new $75 million anti-blight effort comes from the $498 million the state was allocated in 2010 as part of the Hardest Hit Fund Program, designed to help homeowners in states hardest hit by the housing crisis.

LANSING – Gov. Rick Snyder today announced that Michigan's plan to combat blight in 12 cities – ranging from Southeast Michigan to the Upper Peninsula – with $75 million in federal funding has been approved by the U.S. Department of Treasury.

The plan, created by the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA) and approved by its board, will help Detroit, Ecorse, Highland Park, River Rouge, Inkster and Hamtramck in Wayne County, as well as Adrian, Ironwood, Jackson, Lansing, Muskegon Heights and Port Huron.

This latest achievement follows the 2013 kickoff of the largest residential blight removal effort in state history, when Snyder announced the first U.S. Treasury-approved program in the nation. It allowed MSHDA to use $100 million of its Hardest Hit Fund allocation for blight elimination in Detroit, Flint, Saginaw, Grand Rapids and Pontiac.

"Michigan blight elimination strategy has become a national model," Snyder said. "For too long, blight has driven down property values and stifled growth in some of our communities. This additional funding will expand the positive efforts already taking root in cities across our state, and we appreciate the support of our

New ads, same message

By Jim Abeare

I can not wait until November fifth, then all of these political ads will be done with.

I bet you can't wait either. These ads are bordering on the absurd.

Here is a good example, the current one against Mark Schauer, candidate for governor. the ad says that he voted with Democrats 95% of the time. How do you expect a known Democrat to vote?

Most of the rest of the current ads keep using the same talking points over and over.

It doesn't matter which side they are on.

Though new political ads do keep showing up. I just saw one for Richard Bernstein.

I would like to see ads that tells us how good they will be, not how bad the others would be for us.

No more fear mongering.

No more quotes like "Teri Lynn Land she's not for us."

This is probably why voting is down. People are tired of all the mud-slinging.

Just give us your facts.

Don't Faint

By: Janine Folks - Telegram Religion Columnist

Back in high school, I played basketball on the junior varsity team. I wasn't very good, but they let me be on the JV team. I got to travel with the team, build relationships with my teammates and have fun. I tried to keep up and it was a challenge, but I didn't give up. Running was hard for me and I wanted to be like those who it seemed to come easy to. One summer I attended a girls basketball camp. I pushed my body hoping to increase my endurance. One day after camp, I went shopping with my mother. I can't remember if I had eaten or not. I remember feeling tired and funny while standing in line leaning on the cart. The next thing I remember is lying on the floor looking up at people frantically trying to help me and see if I was okay.

I had fainted. This wasn't the only time. There were some subsequent faints and I learned to be careful. My oldest daughter must have inherited this problem because as a child, she too had a few fainting spells. I was never diagnosed, but she was diagnosed with hypo-glycemia. She had to learn to keep her blood sugar up. After the faint, we pretty much returned to normal, but it was a frightening experience for on-lookers. Have you ever fainted? Just lost consciousness for a bit and passed out with no recollection of how you fell to the ground? In a nutshell, fainting is a temporary loss of consciousness or awareness. It's not death. You heart still beats and blood still flows, but all thought processes momentarily cease. For that moment, you are motionless. You are not in control. You cannot make any moves and you appear to be dead even though you are not and suddenly you wake back up. Physiologically, I cannot explain what causes fainting. A medical professional could tell you better than I could. I imagine that somewhere, something lacks, something misfires and you faint. The frightening thing is, sometimes it can sneak up on you. Other times however, you get signs that something is not right and you can avoid fainting. Sometimes it takes fainting to figure out the preceding feelings that indicate that a faint is coming on. We understand physical fainting. What about spiritual fainting spells? Some of us faint in our spirit. We lose awareness of who and Whose we are during difficult times. We forget the power and authority we have access to. We forget our privileges as a child of God. We forget peace. We forget strength and courage. Sometimes we can spiritually black out for a minute. Thank God who can revive us.

Remember the children of Israel, when they wandered in the wilderness? They were hungry and thirsty, their soul fainted in them (Psa 107.5). They were in trouble, serious trouble. They thought they could die. Have you ever been there? What did they do then? They cried to the Lord and He delivered them (v. 6). If you faint, pray. Jonah did. "When my soul fainted within me I remembered the Lord: and my prayer came in unto thee, into thine holy temple" (Jonah 2.7). To prevent fainting, think on the goodness of the Lord like David did, "I had fainted, unless I had believed to see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living (Psa. 27.13). Keep believing, knowing. Don't forget God. Don't pass out in your spirit. Hold on to your God-consciousness no matter what the trouble is. Stay faithful to the task. "And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not." [Gal. 6.9].

Don't faint!

encouraged to patrol a two- to three-block radius around their neighborhoods.

· Adopt-A-House Program seeks volunteers to watch or adopt specific vacant buildings in city neighborhoods. This Building Is Being Watched signs are posted on adopted buildings.

· Porch Light Program encourages volunteers to turn on their porch lights, or any outdoor lights, between dusk and dawn.

· Eyes and Ears Program calls volunteers to regularly look out their windows to make sure no suspicious activity is taking place, and to call 9-1-1 if they do see something out of the ordinary.

City officials are also encouraging all residents to:

· Turn on outside lights at their homes from dusk until morning on each day of the Halloween period.

· Report any suspicious activity they observe to the Detroit Police Department by calling 9-1-1.

· Place refuse containers or bulk items at the curb before 7 a.m. on the morning of the collection day, rather than the night before, and remove refuse containers immediately after the trash is collected.

How to get involved

Volunteers are needed to patrol each night during the three-day Halloween period. This Saturday, Mayor Duggan and each of his appointees will fan out across the city, knocking on doors to recruit volunteers.

“Citizen volunteers are the backbone of our Angels’ Night campaign each year and we want to let them know personally how valuable and needed they are,” the Mayor said.

To help young people stay safe, the Detroit Recreation and Police departments are holding a number of Halloween parties and activities for children and teens. Information will be on the City’s Web site at www.angelsnight.org<<http://www.angelsnight.org>> or at a local recreation center or police precinct.

For more information, or to volunteer, go to the City’s Web site at or call (313) 224-4415 or one of the offices listed below:

West - Northwest Activities Center, 18100 Meyers at Curtis

· East - Butzel Family Center, 7737 Kercheval near Van Dyke

· Southwest - Patton Recreation Center, 2301 Woodmere near Vernor

· Northeast – Matrix Human Services, 13560 McNichols

· Far West – Don Bosco Hall Community Resource Center, 19321 W. Chicago

During the three nights of the Angels’ Night period, there will be additional satellite locations where volunteers can sign up and receive areas to patrol:

Curfews and gasoline purchase restrictions
In addition, public safety officials outlined an emergency curfew that will be in effect during the period, pending City Council approval. The emergency curfew requires all minors age 17 and under be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian (with identification) from 6 p.m. on Oct. 29 to 6 a.m. on Oct. 30, and from 6 p.m. on Oct. 30 to 6 a.m. on Oct. 31.

During the emergency curfew hours, minors will be allowed to travel to and from work or educational or training programs, but they must carry proof of employment or attendance. Minors violating the curfew will be ticketed and held until picked up by a parent or guardian. The parent or guardian also may receive a parental responsibility violation ticket.

A second emergency ordinance prohibits the dispensing of fuel into portable containers in Detroit from October 27 at midnight through October 31 at 11:59 p.m. except for certain emergency situations for those 18 years of age and older, pending City Council approval.

Sponsors

Mayor Duggan also thanked this year’s sponsors, who already have provided more than $25,000 in donations and in-kind contributions. This year’s lead sponsor is Comerica Bank, which has supported the Angels’ Night campaign with more than $100,000 in donations since the program began more than 20 years ago. Participating White Castle locations will provide two hamburgers and a beverage to volunteers who show their Angels’ Night shirt or baseball cap from 6 p.m. to 3 a.m. on any of the three nights. Volunteers must go into the restaurant, not through the drive through.

IN THE SPIRIT

Why Do the Good Die too Soon?

A good friend of mine died the other day. We grew up in the same neighborhood and went to school together. I’m sure he had many other friends and acquaintances. And had a wonderful family that loved him. Everybody that lived in our neighborhood was close and knew each family.

I admired him as a friend because we shared in the same story of survival in a world full of struggles that we both had overcome. He was saved and in church. He had given his life to Christ.

Back in the day everybody got along together and families stuck together. Our parents communicated together and the children gave respect to the parents. There were a few bad seeds in the neighborhood and everybody knew who they were. Some of them committed crimes and are still serving time. Some died and some have grown out of their mischievous ways and now have a family of their own. In those days the church was very instrumental in helping support the family. Almost everybody went to church. Back in the day we didn’t have all this killing, and dieing. We didn’t hear about people getting shot standing on the street! Being shot up in a drive by! Somebody being murdered or robbed over senseless things! Most people who died were elderly or people with long-term sickness. But today it’s a whole different time. Our young black men, women and children are dieing every day. And that doesn’t make any sense at all! Innocent people are being killed every day intentionally or by stray bullets without a target.

My friend died an unexpected death. Somebody decided to end his life. And for what reason I do not know. I knew him as a good man who had the will to do what was right. Everybody knew him and respect him. He was a friend. I dare not judge what he did in his life, its not for me to judge. If we judged people you will find that everybody has some skeletons in there closet. We all have sinned and fallen short of the glory of God.

Why do the good die too soon? I came to the conclusion that only God knows. God has put us all on the earth for his purpose. He has given us our own free will to make our own choices. Its up to us to fulfill the purpose God has called us to. God has appointed everyone of us a time to live and a time to die. And after death judgment. How you live your life on earth will determine where you will spend eternity. My friend I will miss. I believe it was his time to go. There are many good people that are gone too soon!

This School Year, Raise Grades with Online Learning Tools

(StatePoint) Unfortunately, the pace of classroom learning can't be tailored to every student's individual needs -- particularly these days, as class sizes are growing and funding for special enrichment programs becomes limited. In fact, at least 35 states provided less funding per student for the 2013-14 school year than they did before the recession. Many children will need to spend some time outside the classroom going beyond their regular homework to keep up or get ahead in school. No matter what your child's education goals are, there are great ways you can help make this school year the best one yet:

- Math practice: Square roots, polynomials, quadrilaterals. Learning these terms and concepts can get dicey quickly. Keeping up at home is important, and sometimes requires more than just doing the day's take-home assignment.

Consider supplementing homework with online tools.

Sweetest Day Gifts For Him

Sweetest Day offers the chance to provide your sweetie with a little something special just for him, showing him that you care enough to give him something he will enjoy or will find useful. A man not into sports may not appreciate a football jersey, for instance, so be sure to keep his personal interests in mind when planning the perfect gift.

If your sweetie is a sports fan, purchase a couple of tickets to his favorite sporting event. Or tickets to an upcoming concert by one of his favorite bands is another way to surprise him with something he may not have bought on his own. If the event is out of town, go big: throw in a night at a hotel and plane tickets and make it a fun adventure.

Beverage Bliss

If your special someone enjoys an after-work drink, gift him with a case of his favorite beer or a set of local microbrews. A barware set, complete with martini shaker and glasses, suits the man who enjoys mixing up specialty drinks such as a Manhattan or Cosmopolitan. If he doesn't drink alcohol, offer him a gift basket of his favorite coffee and espresso blends, organic juice drinks or even herbal teas, depending on his own personal preferences.

Treat for Two

Here are some ideas for when you want to spice up your Sweetest Day gift:

Treat him to a dinner at a romantic restaurant, followed by an evening at a local hotel or at home, just the two of you. Compose coupons good for a mas-

Make It Last.

Isn't life beautiful? We want you to enjoy it for as long as you can. Did you know it is recommended that for most women, high-quality mammography screening should begin at age 40? As risk factors vary in everyone, each woman and her doctor should discuss the plan that's right for her. Most organizations recommend screening every one to two years, some recommend it take place every year. Why not make your appointment today?
