

November 2017 Newsletter

Please help me add 200 people to my email list by December 15th. Would you please share my email with at least 20 of your family, friends, church members and co-workers. And ask them to sign up for my monthly newsletter by sending me a quick email with the subject "Add me"

Thank you! coaching@fiercelyfinancial.com

Well...the holidays are upon us! Where did 2017 go? Time is moving but I have had a blessed year and I am thankful. I have accomplished alot this year and I am grateful that I have reached even more people to share ways that they can increase their financial fitness.

In February I launched my first Debt Free Boot Camp a group coaching program that teaches participants how to reduce their debt and ultimately be debt free. I asked my Boot Camp clients what was their biggest take away one client said the "emphasis on not creating any new debt as I am focused on being debt free". Another client said "the concept of a Spending Plan not a budget. Makes me more in control of my spending. It's a different mindset for me." And finally another client said "I have tried to do it before on my own but it was overwhelming. Having the encouragement and accountability has made the difference."

This is why I do what I do because when you are able to take control of your money and finances it makes you feel lighter and allows you the freedom to live the way that you want to. I am thankful for the gifts that I have been blessed with.

What I am most thankful for this year (and really every year!) are my supportive and loving family and friends. I have a picture below of my Grandma and I. She is 95 years young and she is constantly looking for opportunities for me to share about my business with others. She got me my TV spot on News 12 CT a couple of years ago and coordinated a book signing at her church last year. This year she has called me about a cable news show in Brooklyn that I should try and get on. And just as I was writing this newsletter, she called me about a Women's Conference in Florida telling me I might want to go so that I can promote my business. Grandma is all about the marketing! I am so blessed!

As we move into the holiday season I am sharing with you below my "10 Budgeting Tips for Holiday Shopping". These are some ways that you can stick to your budget and have a less stressful holiday season. And if you want more details click this link to watch the replay of my webinar on Holiday Budgeting. <https://iTeleseminar.com/102761976>

Be fierce in your finances!

Audrey

Equifax Security Breach

I shared this in my October Newsletter but I think it is worth sharing again this month. I am sure most of you have heard of the Equifax Security Breach that was announced in early September and is reported to affect 145 million people. Be sure to go to the website that has been set up at <http://equifaxsecurity2017.com> to learn more about the breach and what you need to do.

Copyright © *November 2017 - Fiercely Financial Coaching
All rights reserved.

Contact us:

Fiercely Financial Coaching

www.fiercelyfinancial.com

coaching@fiercelyfinancial.com

718-757-6755

"Be fierce in your finances!"